Wallace Asserts Cabinet Is for Roosevelt in '40

Secretary of Agriculture Promises Loyalty to the President

ICKES SUPPORTS HIM IN MAGAZINE ARTICLE

But Callers at White House Fail To Induce Executive To Talk

Washington, June 7. (AP)—Discussion of a third term for President Roosevelt continued unabated today with Secretary Wallace predicting the "complete" loyalty of the cabinet, if the chief executive seeks re-election.

Wallace who is reported to be a potential candidate himself, would give no indication what he thought Mr. Roosevelt's decision on the third-term question might ultimately be.

The president, only yesterday, told newsmen he was not responsible for third term talk by various people who have visited the White House.

Ickes Urges Third Term

Earlier this week, Secretary Ickes in an article in the magazine "Look," urged another term for the chief executive.

At a press conference, Wallace was asked whether he, too, felt the chief executive should serve again, and replied that he was sure "all members" of the cabinet would be "completely loyal" to the president in the event he should be a candidate.

Later, he said: "I'm sure all members of the cabinet whom secretary Ickes has honored are completely loyal to President Roosevelt."

This was believed to be a reference to the magazine article. A portion of the article, appearing under pictures of Vice President Garner, Secretary Hull, Postmaster General Farley, Wallace, and several Republicans mentioned as possible candidates, said there was no one in the "above groups" who could be influential in world affairs while at the same time commanding the respect of his own people."

Peace Justices To Fight for Jobs

Legislated out of Office, They Plan Appeal to Courts

Annapolis, Md., June 7 (AP)—Anne Arundel county peace justices legislated out of their jobs prepared today for a fight-to-the-finish on the magistrates reform law and declared the measure would be taken to the courts for a test of its constitutionality.

Seventeen justices of the peace in the county, along with scores of justices throughout the state, automatically lost their power to hear cases when the law reducing the number of magistrates and putting them on a salary basis went into effect.

George B. Woelfel, Annapolis attorney and one of the Annapolis peace justices appointed under the old law for a two-year term effective last May 1, asserted today the first case tried by James G. Woodward, Annapolis magistrate named under the new law, would be contested.

Woelfel said the justices contend their salaries cannot legally be diminished during their terms of office. Existing laws also require one magistrate in each county district, the justices declared.

Purpose of the magistrates reform law, one of the major administration measures in the last legislature, was to "streamline" the old peace justice system and do away with the justices' fee system.

In Anne Arundel county Woodward was appointed for Annapolis at an annual salary of $3,000. John Demyan was named magistrate at Ferndale at $2,500, and Robert T. Franklin was appointed at Galesville at $1,500.

The 17 justices named under the old law are still trying cases despite the new measure. The three new magistrates have posted bond but have not taken office.

Under the new law the old magistrates would be allowed to issue warrants and carry out other duties but could not try cases. Their salaries were reduced to $20 a year.

Republicans Block Attempt to Speed Neutrality Bill

Vote Against Move To Pass It While King Is in United States

Washington, June 7. (AP)—On the eve of the visit by the British king, an embattled group within the House Foreign Relations Committee blocked today an effort to rush action on a benefit to Britian in case of war.

The vote against holding a late afternoon and night session on the administration-approved bill repealing the arms embargo and making other neutrality law changes was 12 to 11, members said. Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass) who delights to twist the British lion's tail, was overjoyed.

No Present for King

"The object of reporting that bill—which is not a neutrality bill and which is wholly drawn in favor of England—was to present the king tomorrow with the legislation," he told reporters.

Indignantly, Rep. Bloom (D-NY), acting chairman of the committee, repudiated such a suggestion.

"Such foolish statements will get any country into war," he said.

On the floor of the house, Tinkham rose to pose the question whether the "unprecedented visit" of the king "does in fact signify an entente or military understanding between the administration and the British government for the preservation of the British empire at the expense of American blood and American treasure." It may be necessary, he said, for Congress to pass a resolution notifying the world that the "United States is not the pawn and ally of the British empire."

Hull Program Unchanged

During the committee session administration forces beat back two Republican efforts to alter the program laid down by Secretary Hull.

An unsuccessful motion by Representative Schiffler (R-WVa) would have written into the bill the same arms embargo provisions now in present law. Representative Fish (R-NY) also lost on a motion to strike from the measure a section which Fish said would "give the president more power than that given any president."

This section would authorize the chief executive to define combat

Hagerstown, June 7 (AP) — The Maryland Police Association in quarterly convention here today went on record as favoring legislation which would make pedestrians responsible for accidents provided they had been jaywalking.

Royal Tourists See Niagara on Way to America

Spend 15 Minutes Gazing at Falls from Canadian Side

By FRANK H. KING

Niagara Falls, June 7. (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth, Britain's royal tourists, came to the great falls of Niagara late this afternoon and from table rock gazed in wonder at the plunging torrent and beyond at the United States shore where a welcome awaited them tonight.

Their 22-day tour of Canada at an end, and a four-day stay in the United States ahead of them, they arrived by automobile from St. Catharines and saw the falls in late afternoon through a rainbow.

Like ordinary tourists they turned back time after time to observe the spectacle before going to their hotel where their appearance on a balcony set off the most unusual demonstration of their trip.

Fifty thousand persons were massed in the vicinity and their cheers mingled with the roar of the cataract and booming bands.

But a scheduled visit to the cave of winds under the falls was cancelled at the last moment when King George decided the past two days had been too tiring.

The royal couple preferred to return through the crowds that had waited for them for hours and had little opportunity to see them.

They had planned to clothe themselves in rubber and descend

Maniac Attempts To Poison Three With Deadly Acid

Cincinnati, June 7 (AP) — The attempted asphyxiation of a family of three by the use of a deadly acid — the third instance of the kind here in six months — made prey today of a man described by police as a "maniac with a knowledge of chemistry."

Mrs. Eleanor Kesse, 39, was awakened at dawn, she said, by a "soft sizzling sound" in her bedroom and traced it to a quart glass fruit-jar that had been placed on an inner window ledge. She awakened her grocer-husband, Henry, 49, and their sixteen-year old son, Thomas. The latter was asleep in an adjoining room of their first-floor apartment.

Choking from the sweetish, almond-like fumes, Kesse pushed the jar from the window and peered into the yard he said, just as a man fled to the rear.

Detective Walter Hart, describing the gas as identical with that used by some states in the execution of criminals, said "the whole fantastic thing appears to be the work of a maniac and likely one with some knowledge of chemistry."

Occupants of two other apartments in the four-family dwelling could easily have been affected by the fumes had they not been discovered when they were, and even police responding quickly to the Kesses' summons "got a good whiff" of the fumes, Hart reported.

King and Queen To Enter Maryland This Morning Over Guarded Rails

Baltimore, June 7 (AP)—A long gray British warship poked her nose into Baltimore today a few hours before her royal owner, King George was due to arrive.

The cruiser Exeter's visit was just one of friendliness. Her band will be pressed into service to play at the royal garden party at the British embassy in Washington tomorrow.

The king and his queen will enter Maryland tomorrow morning over guarded rails, coming from Harrisburg to Baltimore aboard a train pulled by a Pennsylvania steam locomotive. There will be a five minute stop in Baltimore while an electric engine is attached to take the train to Washington.

Soldiers and two police forces were mobilized to guard the royal train. A Fort Hoyle detachment set a guard tonight over bridges on the railroad. Tomorrow other soldiers will patrol the line and stand guard at crossings and towns.

All stations along the line will be occupied by the state police. In Baltimore, police will guard the Pennsylvania station while the engines are changed. Spectators will be permitted to peer at the train from overhead bridges within the city, but plainclothes and uniformed policemen will be at each bridge on the lookout for suspicious characters.

Whether the king and queen will appear on the rear platform of the train in the yards here has not been announced. Even if they do, the crowd will be small.

Police were ordered to keep out of the yards everybody except those bearing State Department passes.

Police Corporal Kills Young Girl In His Automobile

Benjamin Franklin Returns to Duty Pending Grand Jury Inquiry

Mauch Chunk, Pa., June 7 (AP)—A state police corporal told a coroner's jury today he killed slender, 14-year old Joan Stevens when she threatened him with a gun. The "gun" turned out to be a toy, an investigator said.

"It looked real to me," said Corporal Benjamin Franklin.

The fair-skinned daughter of a coal miner was shot near her Nesquehoning home Monday night as she rode in an automobile with two state troopers whom she offered information about a bank hold-up plot. One bullet from a fast-firing police automatic drilled her forehead. Five others pierced her breast.

Return to Police Duty

Franklin, 33, returned to police duty after testifying at the inquest that he shot the seventh-grade schoolgirl in self-defense. District Attorney Albert Heimback, examining a cap pistol found in the girl's hands, said he was satisfied temporarily with this story but would put the case before a grand jury.

Franklin said the girl plucked a black automatic from her purse and pointed it at him and his companion, Private Edward J. Switaj, crying:

"I'll blow your heads off."

The district attorney said the cap pistol, a cleverly-fashioned toy, might easily have been mistaken in the darkness.

The six-foot police corporal told the coroner's jury he met the girl by pre-arrangement a few miles from her home in nearby Nesquehoning, Pa. She jumped in the officers' car and slipped them a map of a bank robbery plan she whispered that a girl friend and four men were hatching in Philadelphia.

Threatened Troopers

The girl, crouched in the back seat, took a lipstick from her purse and coated her mouth. Suddenly, Franklin testified, she put back the lipstick—and took out the gun.

Then, he related, she became abusive and commanded them to drive to Lansford, Pa., "or I'll blow your heads off." Franklin ducked He drew his service pistol. He fired once.

"Don't shoot any more," the girl screamed, "or I'll kill the two of you."

Franklin fired several times. The schoolgirl's hoarse threats tripped on an oath and halted on a cry of pain.

Joan's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens, sobbed that they had not been notified of her death until the next day. The news reached Stevens while at work in a mine. Police explained they had not been certain about the girl's identity.

New Conservation Commission To Take Up Duties at Once

Annapolis, Md., June 7. (AP)—Governor O'Conor announced today new members of the conservation commission will take over at once, putting control of the group in Democrats' hands. In addition to the two Democrats named, O'Conor said the third member, who must be a Republican, would be named shortly.

Those appointed were Edwin Warfield and Robert Harrison.

Powers of the new commissioners will be curtailed by the new game commission, created by the last legislature as part of a new conservation set up.

The new commissioners will supervise conservation activities only in the bay area, which under the new set-up was to have gone under a fisheries commission.

Identify Body of Woman Found in Sea

Miami, Fla., June 7 (AP)—Police Lieut. Eddie Melchen said today a woman whose body was found three miles off shore and who investigators thought might have been a passenger from the refugee liner St. Louis, had been identified as Mrs. Thomas D. Kelly of Miami Beach.

An apartment house manager identified the woman after police had traced a key found on the body.

Hitler Concludes Latvia, Estonia Peace Agreement

Non-Aggression Pacts Signed in Anti-Encirclement Movement

Berlin, June 7. (AP)—Adolf Hitler concluded non-aggression pacts with Latvia and Estonia today and thereby completed the first part of his program to thwart what Nazis call French-British attempts to encircle Germany through guarantees of assistance against aggression.

Afterwards the Fuehrer left the 90-degree heat of Berlin for his cool Alpine retreat near Berchtesgaden where he expects to remain until September, except for short intervals.

The chancellery staff moved south with him and government officials expressed confidence that—so far as Germany has anything to do with it—Europe is embarking upon a quiet period that will last at least until Autumn.

No War Expected

They said they were willing to wager there would be no war in the near future, despite tension between Germany and Poland over the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor). Danzig, they asserted, "will become a part of the greater Germany before next November—and by peaceful means."

Estonia and Latvia were among the nations listed by President Roosevelt in his April 15 message to Hitler and Premier Mussolini asking assurances that Germany and Italy had no aggressive designs on them. Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, called the signing a "new, drastic answer by the 'theatened (nations) to the American President Roosevelt."

The treaties, which have the same wording and are valid for ten years, provide that neither side will attack or use force against the other nor aid a third party at war with one of the signatories.

But should Germany be at war with any third power, Estonia and Latvia, or vice versa, will be permitted to conduct "normal trade relations" with Germany's enemy as recognized by general rules of neutrality.

Bishop Peele Lauds Education

Buckhannon, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Bishop William Walter Peele of Richmond, Va., in speaking at the 49th annual commencement of West Virginia Wesleyan College today said "education prepares one to be an interpreter of life."

The bishop of the Southern Methodist Church said "life must have a meaning, and it is the duty of educated people to impart that meaning to others."

Four honorary degrees were conferred upon Wesleyan alumni. President E. G. Rohrbough of Glenville State Teachers college, was awarded the degree of doctor of laws.

Doctor of divinity degrees were conferred upon the Rev. Nicola Di Stefano of Syracuse, N. Y., and the Rev. Winfield Scott Patterson of Oakland, Md., and the Rev. Amos Addison Thornburgnof, Providence, R. I.

The college graduated 116. More than a thousand attended the ceremonies.

American Cabinet Officer and His Wife Greet British Visitors As They Arrive at Niagara Falls

Welcome Is Informal and Pair Soon Leaves on Special Train for Trip to Washington

BY FRANK H. KING

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—For the first time in history, a reigning British monarch set foot upon United States soil tonight when King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived here and were greeted with Democratic informality by Secretary of State Hull.

Just 19 minutes after the royal train crossed the unfortified border from Canada at 9:39 P. M. (EST), it sped southward again toward Washington, where President Roosevelt and his official family will receive the king and queen tomorrow at the beginning of a four-day state visit.

Armed guards were mounted around the railroad station tonight as the Tennessee-born secretary of state host for the government on this historic occasion, stepped forward to greet the nation's royal guests.

Welcome Is Informal

Secretary Hull extended a welcome shorn of the ceremony which had attended the progress of the couple through more than 6,000 miles of a Canadian tour, but it was one which they appeared to appreciate.

It took less than five minutes for the blue and silver 12-car royal train to cross the bridge over the rushing Niagara river below the falls, whose floodlighted crest could just be seen from the train windows.

When the train reached the station on the United States side, it slowed down and stopped exactly opposite a long red carpet on which stood Secretary and Mrs. Hull and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States.

A cheer went up from the crowd jammed on the station platform as the engine steamed past. A salute had been booming from the moment

Washington Ready For Visit Today Of Royal Couple

City Decorated and Police Are Prepared To Handle Gigantic Crowds

By RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, June 7 (AP)—A king and queen are coming to town tomorrow and Washington is ready to make them welcome with the dazzling grandeur of official pageantry and the loud, friendly acclaim of countless plain folks who can't forget their story-book days.

For George VI of Great Britain and his queen, Elizabeth, President Roosevelt, and many another, dropped everything—to see to it that their 36-hour stay is one of unbroken enjoyment.

Meanwhile hundreds of thousands of Washingtonians and visitors from all points of the compass were ready to strive for a glimpse of the royal visitors.

City Gaily Decorated

Six months of worried planning at an end, officials looked at the alternate Union Jacks and American flags along Pennsylvania avenue, rechecked their arrangements for police protection, and announced, with a suggestion still of hopefulness that everything was ready. And "everything" includes a lot.

The royal couple is scheduled to arrive at eleven o'clock, accompanied from the Canadian border by Secretary Hull and a reception committee from the state department. At Union station, Hull will escort them, between double files of Marines, to the presidential reception room.

There, President and Mrs. Roosevelt will be awaiting their arrival. The secretary of state, his part carefully rehearsed before he left the

Chester L. Eshelman Falls 44,000,000 Miles Short of Goal

Camden, N. J., June 7 (AP)—Wearing handcuffs instead of a hero's wreath, Chester L. Eshelman, 22, of Carlisle, Pa., returned tonight to the airport from which he started his asserted "flight to Mars" that ended in the Atlantic ocean, some 44,000,000 miles short of his goal.

The young airplane mechanic was lodged in the Camden county jail four hours later in default of $5,000 bond fixed by Police Recorder George E. Yost, of Pennsauken, on charges of larceny of the airplane and instruments. The warrants were sworn by by John Faries and Edward Walz, officials of the flying school from which Eshelman rented the plane. He dropped it in the Atlantic ocean off the Georges banks, and was picked up by a Boston bound schooner.

Walz said the plane was rented to Eshelman only for restricted flights near the Camden airport.

"I guess I missed it a few million miles," grinned Eshelman when he arrived here from Boston, accompanied by a Camden policeman, in a plane piloted by Walz.

The adventurous youth, still wearing a white neckscarf and stained khaki overalls, said he didn't have $2,600 to pay for the sunken plane but that he hoped to "find a way to fix it up with Mr. Walz."

Eshelman arrived in Boston today on the trawler Villanova, which fished him out of the sea 175 miles from that port as the plane sank.

Taken aboard a police boat as the fisherman neared the pier, he clung to his story that Mars was his destination.

He insisted his flight was cut short by a broken gasoline line, which prevented him from pumping reserve gasoline into the main tank.

Mine Explosions Are Preventable, Expert Tells Inspectors' Group

Pittsburgh, June 7 (AP) — A mine safety expert told the Mine Inspectors Institute of America today that practically all of the mine explosions during the last five years could have been prevented "by the observance of ordinary precautions."

"Mine explosions, like accidents, are caused and the exercise of reasonable care and precautions will prevent them," said G. S. Grove, engineer in the safety division of the U. S. Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh.

Discussing lessons learned from explosions, Grove said soft coal mines had made "especially gratifying" progress in reducing fatalities from blasts. Since 1910, he said, the mining industry has reduced by 85 percent the annual number of explosion deaths.

Citing a series of explosions, Grove declared that all were caused "by flagrant violations of basic and well-known requirements for safety and commonsense mining practices."

He recommended as preventive measures adequate ventilation; use of only permissible electrical equipment and explosives; and proper rock-dusting to check spread of coal dust explosions.

Delegates witnessed an experimental coal dust explosion at U. S. Bureau of Mines in Bruceton and elected Thomas Allen of Denver, Colo., as president to succeed J. J. Rutledge of Baltimore.

Other officers included James McSherry of Springfield, Ill., first vice president; Thomas Moses of Pittsburgh, second vice president; N. P. Rhinehart of Charleston, W. Va., third vice president; C. A. McDowell of Pittsburgh, secretary; J. J. Forbes of Pittsburgh; assistant secretary; Claude J. Rowe of Westernport, Md., treasurer; James W. Paul of Pittsburgh, editor and Richard Maize of Uniontown, Pa., assistant editor.

Benjamin Franklin Returns to Duty Pending Grand Jury Inquiry

Mauch Chunk, Pa., June 7 (AP)—A state police corporal told a coroner's jury today he killed slender, 14-year old Joan Stevens when she threatened him with a gun. The "gun" turned out to be a toy, an investigator said.

"It looked real to me," said Corporal Benjamin Franklin.

The fair-skinned daughter of a coal miner was shot near her Nesquehoning home Monday night as she rode in an automobile with two state troopers whom she offered information about a bank hold-up plot. One bullet from a fast-firing police automatic drilled her forehead. Five others pierced her breast.

Return to Police Duty

Franklin, 33, returned to police duty after testifying at the inquest that he shot the seventh-grade schoolgirl in self-defense. District Attorney Albert Heimback, examining a cap pistol found in the girl's hands, said he was satisfied temporarily with this story but would put the case before a grand jury.

Franklin said the girl plucked a black automatic from her purse and pointed it at him and his companion, Private Edward J. Switaj, crying:

"I'll blow your heads off."

The district attorney said the cap pistol, a cleverly-fashioned toy, might easily have been mistaken in the darkness.

The six-foot police corporal told the coroner's jury he met the girl by pre-arrangement a few miles from her home in nearby Nesquehoning, Pa. She jumped in the officers' car and slipped them a map of a bank robbery plan she whispered that a girl friend and four men were hatching in Philadelphia.

Threatened Troopers

The girl, crouched in the back seat, took a lipstick from her purse and coated her mouth. Suddenly, Franklin testified, she put back the lipstick—and took out the gun.

Then, he related, she became abusive and commanded them to drive to Lansford, Pa., "or I'll blow your heads off." Franklin ducked. He drew his service pistol. He fired once.

"Don't shoot any more," the girl screamed, "or I'll kill the two of you."

Franklin fired several times. The schoolgirl's hoarse threats tripped on an oath and halted on a cry of pain.

Joan's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens, sobbed that they had not been notified of her death until the next day. The news reached Stevens while at work in a mine. Police explained they had not been certain about the girl's identity.

New Conservation Commission To Take Up Duties at Once

Annapolis, Md., June 7. (AP)—Governor O'Conor announced today new members of the conservation commission will take over at once, putting control of the group in Democrats' hands. In addition to the two Democrats named, O'Conor said the third member, who must be a Republican, would be named shortly.

Those appointed were Edwin Warfield and Robert Harrison.

Powers of the new commissioners will be curtailed by the new game commission, created by the last legislature as part of a new conservation set up.

The new commissioners will supervise conservation activities only in the bay area, which under the new set-up was to have gone under a fisheries commission.

Identify Body of Woman Found in Sea

Miami, Fla., June 7 (AP)—Police Lieut. Eddie Melchen said today a woman whose body was found three miles off shore and who investigators thought might have been a passenger from the refugee liner St. Louis, had been identified as Mrs. Thomas D. Kelly of Miami Beach.

An apartment house manager identified the woman after police had traced a key found on the body.

Non-Aggression Pacts Signed in Anti-Encirclement Movement

Berlin, June 7. (AP)—Adolf Hitler concluded non-aggression pacts with Latvia and Estonia today and thereby completed the first part of his program to thwart what Nazis call French-British attempts to encircle Germany through guarantees of assistance against aggression.

Afterwards the Fuehrer left the 90-degree heat of Berlin for his cool Alpine retreat near Berchtesgaden where he expects to remain until September, except for short intervals.

The chancellery staff moved south with him and government officials expressed confidence that—so far as Germany has anything to do with it—Europe is embarking upon a quiet period that will last at least until Autumn.

No War Expected

They said they were willing to wager there would be no war in the near future, despite tension between Germany and Poland over the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor). Danzig, they asserted, "will become a part of the greater Germany before next November—and by peaceful means."

Estonia and Latvia were among the nations listed by President Roosevelt in his April 15 message to Hitler and Premier Mussolini asking assurances that Germany and Italy had no aggressive designs on them. Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, called the signing a "new, drastic answer by the 'theatened (nations) to the American President Roosevelt."

The treaties, which have the same wording and are valid for ten years, provide that neither side will attack or use force against the other nor aid a third party at war with one of the signatories.

But should Germany be at war with any third power, Estonia and Latvia, or vice versa, will be permitted to conduct "normal trade relations" with Germany's enemy as recognized by general rules of neutrality.

Bishop Peele Lauds Education

Buckhannon, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Bishop William Walter Peele of Richmond, Va., in speaking at the 49th annual commencement of West Virginia Wesleyan College today said "education prepares one to be an interpreter of life."

The bishop of the Southern Methodist Church said "life must have a meaning, and it is the duty of educated people to impart that meaning to others."

Four honorary degrees were conferred upon Wesleyan alumni. President E. G. Rohrbough of Glenville State Teachers college, was awarded the degree of doctor of laws.

Doctor of divinity degrees were conferred upon the Rev. Nicola Di Stefano of Syracuse, N. Y., and the Rev. Winfield Scott Patterson of Oakland, Md., and the Rev. Amos Addison Thornburgnof, Providence, R. I.

The college graduated 116. More than a thousand attended the ceremonies.

Fire Damages Store

Kimball, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—Fire which authorities said originated in a short circuit in a refrigeration machine caused an estimated $2,500 damage to the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Compay store here.

Royal Couple Met at Line By Sec. Hull

BEGINS LIFE ANEW

Mrs. Anne Cooper Hewitt Bradstreet (above) center of a sensational court case when she charged her late mother with having her sterilized, came to New York from San Francisco "to begin life anew in the obscurity of a great city." She is shown as she appeared at a night club and announced her plans to the press. She said her husband, Gene Bradstreet, will join her soon, despite reports they are to separate.

American Cabinet Officer and His Wife Greet British Visitors As They Arrive at Niagara Falls

BY FRANK H. KING

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—For the first time in history, a reigning British monarch set foot upon United States soil tonight when King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived here and were greeted with Democratic informality by Secretary of State Hull.

Just 19 minutes after the royal train crossed the unfortified border from Canada at 9:39 P. M. (EST), it sped southward again toward Washington, where President Roosevelt and his official family will receive the king and queen tomorrow at the beginning of a four-day state visit.

Armed guards were mounted around the railroad station tonight as the Tennessee-born secretary of state host for the government on this historic occasion, stepped forward to greet the nation's royal guests.

Welcome Is Informal

Secretary Hull extended a welcome shorn of the ceremony which had attended the progress of the couple through more than 6,000 miles of a Canadian tour, but it was one which they appeared to appreciate.

It took less than five minutes for the blue and silver 12-car royal train to cross the bridge over the rushing Niagara river below the falls, whose floodlighted crest could just be seen from the train windows.

When the train reached the station on the United States side, it slowed down and stopped exactly opposite a long red carpet on which stood Secretary and Mrs. Hull and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States.

A cheer went up from the crowd jammed on the station platform as the engine steamed past. A salute had been booming from the moment

Washington Ready For Visit Today Of Royal Couple

City Decorated and Police Are Prepared To Handle Gigantic Crowds

By RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, June 7 (AP)—A king and queen are coming to town tomorrow and Washington is ready to make them welcome with the dazzling grandeur of official pageantry and the loud, friendly acclaim of countless plain folks who can't forget their story-book days.

For George VI of Great Britain and his queen, Elizabeth, President Roosevelt, and many another, dropped everything—to see to it that their 36-hour stay is one of unbroken enjoyment.

Meanwhile hundreds of thousands of Washingtonians and visitors from all points of the compass were ready to strive for a glimpse of the royal visitors.

City Gaily Decorated

Six months of worried planning at an end, officials looked at the alternate Union Jacks and American flags along Pennsylvania avenue, rechecked their arrangements for police protection, and announced, with a suggestion still of hopefulness that everything was ready. And "everything" includes a lot.

The royal couple is scheduled to arrive at eleven o'clock, accompanied from the Canadian border by Secretary Hull and a reception committee from the state department. At Union station, Hull will escort them, between double files of Marines, to the presidential reception room.

There, President and Mrs. Roosevelt will be awaiting their arrival. The secretary of state, his part carefully rehearsed before he left the

Chester L. Eshelman Falls 44,000,000 Miles Short of Goal

Camden, N. J., June 7 (AP)—Wearing handcuffs instead of a hero's wreath, Chester L. Eshelman, 22, of Carlisle, Pa., returned tonight to the airport from which he started his asserted "flight to Mars" that ended in the Atlantic ocean, some 44,000,000 miles short of his goal.

The young airplane mechanic was lodged in the Camden county jail four hours later in default of $5,000 bond fixed by Police Recorder George E. Yost, of Pennsauken, on charges of larceny of the airplane and instruments. The warrants were sworn by by John Faries and Edward Walz, officials of the flying school from which Eshelman rented the plane. He dropped it in the Atlantic ocean off the Georges banks, and was picked up by a Boston bound schooner.

Walz said the plane was rented to Eshelman only for restricted flights near the Camden airport.

"I guess I missed it a few million miles," grinned Eshelman when he arrived here from Boston, accompanied by a Camden policeman, in a plane piloted by Walz.

The adventurous youth, still wearing a white neckscarf and stained khaki overalls, said he didn't have $2,600 to pay for the sunken plane but that he hoped to "find a way to fix it up with Mr. Walz."

Eshelman arrived in Boston today on the trawler Villanova, which fished him out of the sea 175 miles from that port as the plane sank.

Taken aboard a police boat as the fisherman neared the pier, he clung to his story that Mars was his destination.

He insisted his flight was cut short by a broken gasoline line, which prevented him from pumping reserve gasoline into the main tank.

King and Queen To Enter Maryland This Morning Over Guarded Rails

Baltimore, June 7 (AP)—A long gray British warship poked her nose into Baltimore today a few hours before her royal owner, King George was due to arrive.

The cruiser Exeter's visit was just one of friendliness. Her band will be pressed into service to play at the royal garden party at the British embassy in Washington tomorrow.

The king and his queen will enter Maryland tomorrow morning over guarded rails, coming from Harrisburg to Baltimore aboard a train pulled by a Pennsylvania steam locomotive. There will be a five minute stop in Baltimore while an electric engine is attached to take the train to Washington.

Soldiers and two police forces were mobilized to guard the royal train. A Fort Hoyle detachment set a guard tonight over bridges on the railroad. Tomorrow other soldiers will patrol the line and stand guard at crossings and towns.

All stations along the line will be occupied by the state police. In Baltimore, police will guard the Pennsylvania station while the engines are changed. Spectators will be permitted to peer at the train from overhead bridges within the city, but plainclothes and uniformed policemen will be at each bridge on the lookout for suspicious characters.

Whether the king and queen will appear on the rear platform of the train in the yards here has not been announced. Even if they do, the crowd will be small.

Police were ordered to keep out of the yards everybody except those bearing State Department passes.

Mine Explosions Are Preventable, Expert Tells Inspectors' Group

Pittsburgh, June 7 (AP) — A mine safety expert told the Mine Inspectors Institute of America today that practically all of the mine explosions during the last five years could have been prevented "by the observance of ordinary precautions."

"Mine explosions, like accidents, are caused and the exercise of reasonable care and precautions will prevent them," said G. S. Grove, engineer in the safety division of the U. S. Bureau of Mines at Pittsburgh.

Discussing lessons learned from explosions, Grove said soft coal mines had made "especially gratifying" progress in reducing fatalities from blasts. Since 1910, he said, the mining industry has reduced by 85 percent the annual number of explosion deaths.

Citing a series of explosions, Grove declared that all were caused "by flagrant violations of basic and well-known requirements for safety and commonsense mining practices."

He recommended as preventive measures adequate ventilation; use of only permissible electrical equipment and explosives; and proper rock-dusting to check spread of coal dust explosions.

Delegates witnessed an experimental coal dust explosion at U. S. Bureau of Mines in Bruceton and elected Thomas Allen of Denver, Colo., as president to succeed J. J. Rutledge of Baltimore.

Other officers included James McSherry of Springfield, Ill., first vice president; Thomas Moses of Pittsburgh, second vice president; N. P. Rhinehart of Charleston, W. Va., third vice president; C. A. McDowell of Pittsburgh, secretary; J. J. Forbes of Pittsburgh; assistant secretary; Claude J. Rowe of Westernport, Md., treasurer; James W. Paul of Pittsburgh, editor and Richard Maize of Uniontown, Pa., assistant editor.

Great Britain To Send An Envoy To Seek Russian Aid

Foreign Office Expert Soon To Pay Visit to Moscow

London, June 7 (AP)—The British government decided today to slash diplomatic red tape and send a foreign office expert as special envoy direct to Moscow to "facilitate and accelerate" conclusion of a British-French-Russian mutual assistance pact.

The short-cut method of attempting to end successfully the drawn out dickerings which have been under way between London and Moscow for nearly three full months—since shortly after Germany's March 15 annexation of Bohemia and Moravia—was announced in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

The new move was announced after a cabinet meeting at which Soviet Russia's latest proposals were given detailed study. Chamberlain said the object of sending a special representative from London would be to eliminate delay of further diplomatic notes.

Will Offer Formula

The envoy, who will be a high civil servant—a career diplomat—will carry a formula which Chamberlain said he hoped would "ensure cooperation" among the three powers "in resistance to aggression" and at the same time not encroach upon the interests of other states.

The Prime Minister said he had not yet decided who the envoy would be, but that he would be sent at once. The two most likely candidates appeared to be Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the British government, and William Strang, head of the central European department of the foreign office.

The Press Association, British news agency, which has close connections with the government, said Strang would be the man.

Chamberlain told Commons that in the last exchange of views with Moscow there was general agreement as to the main objects to be attained, but hat "there remain one of two difficulties to be resolved."

The chief of these obstacles, he said, was "the position of certain states which do not want to receive a guarantee on the ground that it would compromise the strict neutrality which they desire to preserve."

Three States Opposed

Chamberlain disclosed later in reply to a question that these states were Finland, Latvia and Estonia. He said these states had informed the British government they were opposed to Russia's proposal that a British-French-Russian agreement guarantee all states touching on Russia's western frontier.

"It is manifestly impossible to impose guarantees on states which do not desire it," he said.

Latvia and Estonia today signed non-aggression treaties with Germany, and in Berlin Britain's decision to send a special envoy to Moscow brought smiles. Nazis said Germany's Baltic pacts had hindered Britain's efforts to line up Russia.

Informed quarters in London said the new British formula would seek to meet the objections of the three Baltic states and at the same time satisfy Russia by stipulating that signatories of the projected tripower pact would aid each other if they are "indirectly" threatened.

Warship Fires On Jap Plane

Tokyo, June 7. (AP)—A foreign warship, "apparently a British cruiser," fired on a Japanese airliner east of Hongkong at 11 A. M. (10 P. M., E.S.T. Tuesday), the Japanese news agency, Domei, reported today.

The pilot said the plane escaped damage although ten shots were fired and several shells exploded within 100 yards of his plane.

The Domei dispatch was dated from Taihoku, Formosa, whence the airplane departed at 8:15 A. M. bound for Tokyo by way of Swatow.

While "far outside British waters" and cruising at 5,000 feet altitude, the pilot was quoted as saying, a warship carrying a British flag and similar insignia painted on her sides, suddenly swung her anti-aircraft guns into action.

After the first shot the pilot began climbing and zigzagging. He returned at once to Taihoku after escaping the shots.

While some Chinese gunboats are known to be equipped with anti-aircraft guns, Japanese naval sources said none had been sighted in South China waters for many months.

Maryland To Observe Baseball's Centennial

Baltimore, June 7 (AP)—Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor signed a proclamation today designating Monday, June 12 as "Baseball Centennial Day" throughout the state.

State offices will be closed at noon in Baltimore, he said, in cooperation with ceremonies at Oriole Park. The Baltimore Orioles will play a double-header.

Throughout the nation, June 12 will be celebrated as the 100th anniversary of the invention of baseball.

Cornwell Is Speaker

Shepherdstown, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—"It's country's chief hope for escaping virtual dictatorship, said Former Governor John Cornwell, rests with "the thinking, independent rugged citizenry of the rural areas and small towns."

Cornwell told Shepherd College alumni danger lay in government paternalism and the possibility young persons will drift into the "habit of looking to their government for support."

Train Is Derailed

Beckley, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—Derailment of a freight train in a tunnel near Hot Coal blocked the line several hours and held up coal trains.

Officials had no immediate explanation for the mishap.

Wife Leaves Husband, Divorce Suit Charges Him With Desertion

Seeking an absolute divorce from Isaac Henry Chaney, Mrs. Mary Louise Chaney says in her bill of complaint that although she left her husband, the separation constitutes "constructive desertion."

The suit, filed by Attorney Julius E. Schindler, charges that Chaney treated his wife "with great cruelty, harshness, and brutality, at times striking and beating her, and cursing her." Describing him as an "excessive drinker of intoxicants," the bill says that he 'spent money foolishly and recklessly" and "did not properly provide for the maintenance and support" of his wife.

The couple was married in Keyser, W. Va., May 25, 1935, and lived together at Fort Ashby, W. Va., until May 30, 1936, according to the suit.

Chaney, whose "last known address" is said to be Washington, D. C., is to be notified of the suit by publication.

Mrs. Leola Orndorff was granted an absolute divorce from Jess Orndorff on grounds of desertion. The decree granted the wife custody of their three minor children.

The couple was married here in August, 1926, according to the testimony. Julius E. Schindler was attorney for the wife.

O'Conor To Name 2 Commissioners At Early Date

Bank and Tax Posts To Be Filled "Forthwith", He Asserts

Baltimore, June 7 (AP)—Appointment of a new state bank commissioner and one associate member of the state tax commission, last important jobs in Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor's "greenbag", will be made "forthwith", he said today.

"I am completing work on them now and rounding up all the loose ends," he explained. "You can say they will be announced forthwith."

How soon "forthwith" meant, he said, depended on several matters he has under consideration.

Bank Commissioner Warren F. Sterling, Republican appointee of Former Gov. Harry W. Nice, has been a holdover since May 1, when his term expired. There were indications Governor O'Conor has had some difficulty settling on Sterling's successor.

Under the law, the bank commissioner must give up his outside business and dispose of bank holdings, stocks or bonds he may hold before qualifying. The $10,000-a-year salary will be cut to $8,000 effective next Oct. 1.

J. Hubert Wade, Boonsboro Republican, is the holdover member of the state tax commission. His term expired two days ago. The governor's appointee for the next six-year term must also, under the statutes, come from western Maryland.

Commission Chairman Harry O. Levin whose term expires in 1943, is from Baltimore, and Associate Commissioner Frederic P. Adkins, whose term expires in 1941, is from Salisbury.

Handicap Tournament At Ft. Cumberland Club June 17 and 18

The management of the Fort Cumberland golf club has announced that a handicap tournament, open to all players who wish to participate will be played over the course Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17.

The tournament was originally set for Saturday and Sunday, June 10 and 11, but it was postponed one week in order to give all players a chance to qualify.

Players can obtain full information about the tournament at the club house. Qualifying scores of 36 holes must be played and posted at the club house. Several players have already qualified and indications are that at least fifty players will participate in the tournament.

Suitable prizes will be given the winners.

Senator Bulkley (D-O), told reporters:

"I tried to draw him out (on his third term intentions). But there was nothing doing."

Mayor Maury Maverick of San Antonio, Tex., a former member of the House, was asked for his views on the third term question and replied:

"I think I'm against the fourth term and I know I'm against the fifth term."

McNutt Expected To Resign Post, Seek Nomination

Philippine Commissioner Is Scheduled To Return June 23

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, June 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt's decision to postpone his trip to the west coast opens a possibility that he may meet some where along the way another figure who will be important in the Democratic party's 1940 nominating convention.

Paul V. McNutt, Philippine high commissioner, is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco from Manila on June 23, enroute to Washington. His early resignation is expected, so he may devote himself exclusively to advancing his 1940 presidential prospects. Should the president start west July 2 or 3, as he now anticipates, a meeting between the two might occur elsewhere than in Washington.

McNutt boosters welcomed the president's decision to defer his trip. It gave their man first chance, among all those being urged for Democratic presidential favor in 1940, at a transcontinental swing.

Not excepting the Garner boom and the Roosevelt third-term drive, McNutt's 1940 aspirations are backed by the most definite organization of any possible Democratic candidate. McNutt workers have been busy ever since he left the governorship of Indiana in January, 1937.

In sharp contrast to the insistence by Garner supporters that his 1940 candidacy will be pressed regardless of developments of the Roosevelt third-term movement, McNutt men contend that he will be an active candidate for first place on the 1940 ticket only if the president does not want it.

There has never been any hint from McNutt boomers here or in Indiana that he would consider a vice presidential nomination on a Roosevelt third-term ticket, or on any other. With Garner's friends contending that he is in the 1940 presidential race to stay, against Roosevelt or anyone else, the question has been raised whether McNutt should not be included among the list of possible western running mates for the president should he be nominated for the third time.

zones from which American ships and citizens could be barred.

Fish contended that the president could say "in a case where Italy and England were at war that Italy was a combat area and England was not."

Refers to Hitler's Speech

At the committee session, one member said, a speech by Hitler was used by state department officials as an argument for repeal of the arms embargo clause in present neutrality law.

Meanwhile Representative McGranery (D-Pa) predicted that between 70 and 75 Congressmen would boycott the congressional reception in honor of the king and queen Friday unless the state department obtained the immediate release of Sean Russell.

Russell, who describes himself as "head man," of the outlawed Irish Republican army, is held by immigration authorities at Detroit, Mich. He was arrested there Monday, while just across the Detroit river, cheering throngs welcomed the visiting royalty to Windsor, Ont.

city, will present the king and queen to the president and first lady. After meeting the members of the royal party, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will lead the way outside, where a special guard of honor will be drawn up.

Marine Band to Play

While all stand at the entrance, the Marine band will play the British and American national anthems, and in the park a short distance away, a booming 21-gun salute will be fired in honor of the arrival of the head of another state.

Then will begin the procession to which Washingtonians by the thousand have been looking forward. With the king and the president seated together in one limousine and Mrs. Roosevelt and the queen in a second, preceded by motorcycle officers, and followed by cavalry, tanks and field artillery, the parade to the White House will be begun. Ten of the army's new "fly fortresses" and 42 smaller planes will be roaring overhead.

Many Bands to Play

All the way to the White House, the party will pass between two unbroken lines of soldiers, bluejackets and Marines. Various service bands have been assigned to play along the route, not only as the procession passes, but all morning, while the crowds are gathering.

And the crowds: police estimate that perhaps 500,000 will be crammed behind tightly drawn cables on the sidewalks, or watching from upper windows. Seats at such windows cost anywhere from one to ten dollars.

At the White House, the Washington diplomatic corps will be waiting to meet the royal couple, then will follow an informal luncheon attended only by the king and queen, the president and his wife and members of the Roosevelt family. A bit of sightseeing, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, a gala garden party at the British Embassy, and a state dinner at the White House complete the day's program for the royal visitors. They will stay the night at the White House.

the train reached the United States boundary.

Crowd Sees King

The crowd stood in silence as the train slowed to a stop at 9:43.

There was a theatrical moment of suspense. The red door of the observation platform opened and the king stepped out, smiling and bowing slightly, shyly it seemed. He was dressed in a double-breasted pin stripe lounge or business suit, wore white collar and dark tie, having changed from the blue shirt and blue collar he had worn through the last strenuous day of the royal tour in western Ontario.

The queen had changed again, the fourth time for the day, but was still wearing blue, with a halo hat. She was smiling and with eagerness stepped down to the red carpet. Secretary Hull moved forward and his serious face lightened with a smile as he grasped the king's hand firmly. Mrs. Hull was beside him in an ensemble of light blue chiffon with matching hat, gloves, bag and shoes.

For a few minutes the king and queen stood with the American group on the platform while presentations were made. Then the whole party climbed aboard and the train moved out of the station, not more than five minutes having been required for the welcome.

Double lines of troops were on the station platform preventing any one from shooting the train.

Francisco Sarabia Dies Instantly When Plane Hits Potomac

Washington, June 7 (AP) — Four minutes after he had taken off on a 1,700-mile flight to see his mother in Mexico, Francisco Sarabia plunged to his death today in the Potomac river.

The 39-year old flyer, Mexico's foremost civilian airman, had just bade goodbye to his wife, Agripina, and his 10-year old son, Francisco, Jr. His little biplane, heavily-loaded with gasoline, rose slowly about 100 feet above the army's Bolling Field then dived suddenly into the water.

The accident occurred in full view of his wife, son and brother, Santiago, also a flyer.

Rescue Attempt Fails

Two Mexican embassy officials, Dr. Luis Quintanilla, and Lieut.-Comm. Manuel Cermeno, swam to the partly submerged plane but were unable to rescue the flyer. The ship struck in 15 feet of water about 75 feet from shore.

Sarabia had spoken lightly of the distance to his mother's home at Ciudad Lerdo, state of Durango. Only two weeks ago he had set a nonstop record of 10 hours 48 minutes from Mexico City to New York.

The Mexican embassy accepted an offer of President Roosevelt to send the body home in an army plane. The brother will accompany the body.

Charles Babb, president of the firm which sold the plane and a witness of the tragedy, said Sarabia's motor failed. He added that apparently the flier realized he could not turn back to the field and "did what any experienced pilot in the world would have done—he attempted to land straight ahead, on the water."

Plane Is Salvaged

Rescue crews of the navy and civil aeronautics authority salvaged the plane. It was necessary to saw away part of it to release Sarabia's body. An army doctor said that apparently his neck was broken when the ship struck.

The Mexican flier came here Monday from New York, bringing a good will message to President Roosevelt from President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico.

Several Birds Lost In Cincinnati Race

Frostburg, June 7—"Lone Star", blue bar cock owned by Alpha Ambrose, of Gilmore, won the Algonquin Piegon Racing Club's yearling bird race from Cincinnati, Ohio, a distance of 300 miles, last Sunday with an average speed of 1,313.92 yards per minute.

The race was flown under unfavorable conditions and several birds were lost in the heavy rain storms encountered. Ambrose's blue check cock, "Railroad Special", was second with 1,278.71 yards per minute, and "Popeye", black check cock from the Clear View Loft of G. F. Martens, of Frostburg, third with 1,099.73.

Francis Hughes' "Red Oak", was fourth. The remaining club members placed as follows: Joe Meyers, 1,076.72; McKenzie-Garlitz, 1,076.06; John Seib, 1,069.44; Roy McKenzie, 1,065.05; Elmer Ward, 1,029.60; Bern Seib, 1,023.09; Boettcher and Ahern, 1,021.31; Arch Cameron, 1,008.81; Yates and Yates, 980,95; Thomas Gray, 970.11; John Donald, 901.95; John Meyers, 737.54. No birds homed the day of the race from the lofts of Sam Gardner, Dewey Groves, Alvin Gentry, William Johnson and Thomas and Lauder.

The sixth race of the series will be flown next Sunday from Mitchell, Ind., a distance of 400 miles.

Place for Winter Games Is Sought

London, June 7 (AP)—The International Olympic committee was looking tonight for a new site for the 1940 winter games after a rousing dispute with the International Ski Federation.

St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the games were scheduled for February, refused today to hold them unless they included a full ski program.

The Ski Federation insists that instructors must be permitted to compete in the Olympic Games, and the I.O.C. has refused to recognize them as amateurs.

The winter games, originally awarded Japan and then moved to Switzerland, now probably will be held at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, where they were held in 1936.

Meanwhile, Detroit put in its bid for the 1940 games, although the impression grew stronger here that London had the only chance.

The United States committee members were disappointed by the rejection of a petition to include basketball in the 1940 program at Helsinki.

North End Merchants Win Tenth Straight

Sparky Chisholm's North End Merchants took the East Side Senators into camp yesterday evening by a score of 15 to 2 to run their winning streak to ten straight.

Dink Skidmore made four hits in as many trips to the plate. L. Kionofer had three out of four and Chisholm two out of three to lead the Merchants hitting attack.

Frank Kionofer pitched three hit ball and struck out six batters for his fourth win of the season.

Politicos Ponder Ward's Successor

Salisbury, Md., June 7 (AP)—The election of David J. Ward to Congress cleared the way today for political conjecture as to his successor in the state Senate but there was little to indicate political circles had put picked candidates in the field.

The appointment of an Assemblyman to the Senate seat which the veteran Ward used as a springboard into Congress will be made by Governor O'Conor.

He will act, however, on the recommendation of the Democratic state central committee. The committee cannot recommend a successor until Ward formally resigns.

The resignation was expected soon, for Ward said today he would take office in the House of Representatives next week, probably on Tuesday.

Ward yesterday was elected First District Congressman to succeed T. Alan Goldsborough, appointed to a Federal judgeship by President Roosevelt.

Royal Tourists See Niagara on Way to America

to the foot of the falls beneath the mighty wall of water.

Greeted By 200,000

The royal couple finished their 6,000-mile tour from Quebec to the Pacific and back here with a 30-mile automobile ride during which they were greeted by probably 200,000 people gathered along the route.

Driving to the Niagara Falls administration building through crowds as thick as they have seen anywhere, they performed the official presentations in a setting where they could look out over the shoulders of the local notables and see the crest of horseshoe falls.

But not until they reached table rock did they have opportunity to see the spectacle in all its grandeur.

The crowds were kept at a distance while the couple, accompanied by Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King, Mayor H. C. Hannigwell, and members of the royal suite walked to the precipice.

No cheering broke the spell, while the king and queen, standing alone at the brink, gazed for 15 minutes at the wall of tumbling water. Behind them stood the silent crowd.

The king and queen dined informally with 35 members of their party and local dignitaries before making ready to leave Niagara Falls, Ont., for Niagara Falls, N. Y., to be welcomed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull soon after 9:30 p. m., EST.

It was announced tonight that Queen Elizabeth will broadcast to women and children of the British Empire as a farewell gesture from Halifax, N. S., on June 15. Her broadcast will follow one by the king.

Put in Busy Day

The trip to the falls was the climax of a crowded day in which their majesties saw and were seen by cheering throngs in London, Hamilton and five other towns of southwestern Ontario. Brief stops were made in each city, long enough only for the presentation of city officials and a few citizens. Then the silver and blue royal train whisked on toward Niagara. The program has been repeated dozens of times on the 6,000-mile trip to the Pacific coast and back.

The weather was a forecast of the summer temperatures promised the royal pair in Washington tomorrow morning. There they will be greeted by President Roosevelt for a brief, busy stay.

Police and private guards began their vigil over the bridge abutments yesterday. Police of cities on either side prohibited unauthorized persons from nearing the abutments until after midnight.

Similar detailed precautions were made along each foot of the route from Niagara to Washington and the remainder of the royal itinerary to New York and Hyde Park until the royal train crosses back into Canada early Monday morning.

Cardinals Defeat Dodgers 7 to 3 In Night Game

Fiddler Bill McGee Hangs Up Fifth Pitching Triumph

Brooklyn, June 7 (AP)—An eleven hit assault on three Brooklyn pitchers brought the St. Louis Cardinals a 7 to 3 victory over the Dodgers tonight for Fiddler Bill McGee's fifth pitching triumph without defeat.

McGee kept the Dodgers subdued on seven hits, one of them a homer by Babe Phelps in the ninth, but was compelled to leave the game because of a pulled muscle after pitching to the next batter. Mort Cooper finished.

The game, loss of which sent Brooklyn skidding from third to fifth place in the National league standing, was played under protest after Johnny Mize hit a drive against the railing of the center field stands where several fans made an effort to grab the ball.

Manager Ray Blades of the Cardinals argued it should be a home run and Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers contended it was a double. The umpires finally ruled it a triple and Mize scored on the next play, Don Guttridge's single, for St. Louis' final run.

Walsh and Officials Plan Coroner System

Baltimore, June 7 (AP)—State's attorneys and newly-appointed medical examiners met today with Attorney General William C. Walsh and health authorities to draw up tentative plans for operation of Maryland's new coroner system.

Under rules agreed upon at the meeting, the deputy medical examiners will take charge of bodies in all cases of violent death, suicide or death occurring in a "suspicious or unusual manner."

Police or sheriffs called in must notify the examiner who then must make his investigation and preserve all pertinent facts to the state's attorney.

In the last analysis, the conferees decided, the state's attorney involved is to decide whether or not further legal action should be taken.

Dr. Huntington Williams, Baltimore city health officer, and Dr. Robert H. Riley, state health director, attended the meeting, as did Chief Medical Examiner Howard Maldeis of Baltimore.

The system of medical examiners was set up by the last legislature to replace Maryland's "acting coroners." Formerly, police magistrates acted as coroners and called in medical assistance when needed.

Speakers were Guy Hottel, of the federal bureau of investigation; Col. Beverly Ober, new state police commandant; Col. Elmer F. Munshower, former state police superintendent; Sgt. Marlin D. Brubaker, head of the accident prevention bureau of the state police.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

When stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and get you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Great Britain To Send An Envoy To Seek Russian Aid

Foreign Office Expert Soon To Pay Visit to Moscow

London, June 7 (AP)—The British government decided today to slash diplomatic red tape and send a foreign office expert as special envoy direct to Moscow to "facilitate and accelerate" conclusion of a British-French-Russian mutual assistance pact.

The short-cut method of attempting to end successfully the drawn out dickerings which have been under way between London and Moscow for nearly three full months—since shortly after Germany's March 15 annexation of Bohemia and Moravia—was announced in the House of Commons by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

The new move was announced after a cabinet meeting at which Soviet Russia's latest proposals were given detailed study. Chamberlain said the object of sending a special representative from London would be to eliminate delay of further diplomatic notes.

Will Offer Formula

The envoy, who will be a high civil servant—a career diplomat—will carry a formula which Chamberlain said he hoped would "ensure cooperation" among the three powers "in resistance to aggression" and at the same time not encroach upon the interests of other states.

The Prime Minister said he had not yet decided who the envoy would be, but that he would be sent at once. The two most likely candidates appeared to be Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the British government, and William Strang, head of the central European department of the foreign office.

The Press Association, British news agency, which has close connections with the government, said Strang would be the man.

Chamberlain told Commons that in the last exchange of views with Moscow there was general agreement as to the main objects to be attained, but hat "there remain one of two difficulties to be resolved."

The chief of these obstacles, he said, was "the position of certain states which do not want to receive a guarantee on the ground that it would compromise the strict neutrality which they desire to preserve."

Three States Opposed

Chamberlain disclosed later in reply to a question that these states were Finland, Latvia and Estonia. He said these states had informed the British government they were opposed to Russia's proposal that a British-French-Russian agreement guarantee all states touching on Russia's western frontier.

"It is manifestly impossible to impose guarantees on states which do not desire it," he said.

Latvia and Estonia today signed non-aggression treaties with Germany, and in Berlin Britain's decision to send a special envoy to Moscow brought smiles. Nazis said Germany's Baltic pacts had hindered Britain's efforts to line up Russia.

Informed quarters in London said the new British formula would seek to meet the objections of the three Baltic states and at the same time satisfy Russia by stipulating that signatories of the projected tripower pact would aid each other if they are "indirectly" threatened.

Warship Fires On Jap Plane

Tokyo, June 7. (AP)—A foreign warship, "apparently a British cruiser," fired on a Japanese airliner east of Hongkong at 11 A. M. (10 P. M., E.S.T. Tuesday), the Japanese news agency, Domei, reported today.

The pilot said the plane escaped damage although ten shots were fired and several shells exploded within 100 yards of his plane.

The Domei dispatch was dated from Taihoku, Formosa, whence the airplane departed at 8:15 A. M. bound for Tokyo by way of Swatow.

While "far outside British waters" and cruising at 5,000 feet altitude, the pilot was quoted as saying, a warship carrying a British flag and similar insignia painted on her sides, suddenly swung her anti-aircraft guns into action.

After the first shot the pilot began climbing and zigzagging. He returned at once to Taihoku after escaping the shots.

While some Chinese gunboats are known to be equipped with anti-aircraft guns, Japanese naval sources said none had been sighted in South China waters for many months.

Wife Leaves Husband, Divorce Suit Charges Him With Desertion

A wife who left her husband because of what she calls his "intolerable" conduct, charges him with desertion in a suit for divorce filed in Circuit court yesterday.

Seeking an absolute divorce from Isaac Henry Chaney, Mrs. Mary Louise Chaney says in her bill of complaint that although she left her husband, the separation constitutes "constructive desertion."

The suit, filed by Attorney Julius E. Schindler, charges that Chaney treated his wife "with great cruelty, harshness, and brutality, at times striking and beating her, and cursing her." Describing him as an "excessive drinker of intoxicants," the bill says that he 'spent money foolishly and recklessly" and "did not properly provide for the maintenance and support" of his wife.

The couple was married in Keyser, W. Va., May 25, 1935, and lived together at Fort Ashby, W. Va., until May 30, 1936, according to the suit.

Chaney, whose "last known address" is said to be Washington, D. C., is to be notified of the suit by publication.

Mrs. Leola Orndorff was granted an absolute divorce from Jess Orndorff on grounds of desertion. The decree granted the wife custody of their three minor children.

The couple was married here in August, 1926, according to the testimony. Julius E. Schindler was attorney for the wife.

O'Conor To Name 2 Commissioners At Early Date

Bank and Tax Posts To Be Filled "Forthwith", He Asserts

Baltimore, June 7 (AP)—Appointment of a new state bank commissioner and one associate member of the state tax commission, last important jobs in Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor's "greenbag", will be made "forthwith", he said today.

"I am completing work on them now and rounding up all the loose ends," he explained. "You can say they will be announced forthwith."

How soon "forthwith" meant, he said, depended on several matters he has under consideration.

Bank Commissioner Warren F. Sterling, Republican appointee of Former Gov. Harry W. Nice, has been a holdover since May 1, when his term expired. There were indications Governor O'Conor has had some difficulty settling on Sterling's successor.

Under the law, the bank commissioner must give up his outside business and dispose of bank holdings, stocks or bonds he may hold before qualifying. The $10,000-a-year salary will be cut to $8,000 effective next Oct. 1.

J. Hubert Wade, Boonsboro Republican, is the holdover member of the state tax commission. His term expired two days ago. The governor's appointee for the next six-year term must also, under the statutes, come from western Maryland.

Commission Chairman Harry O. Levin whose term expires in 1943, is from Baltimore, and Associate Commissioner Frederic P. Adkins, whose term expires in 1941, is from Salisbury.

Handicap Tournament At Ft. Cumberland Club June 17 and 18

The management of the Fort Cumberland golf club has announced that a handicap tournament, open to all players who wish to participate will be played over the course Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17.

The tournament was originally set for Saturday and Sunday, June 10 and 11, but it was postponed one week in order to give all players a chance to qualify.

Players can obtain full information about the tournament at the club house. Qualifying scores of 36 holes must be played and posted at the club house. Several players have already qualified and indications are that at least fifty players will participate in the tournament.

Suitable prizes will be given the winners.

McNutt Expected To Resign Post, Seek Nomination

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Washington, June 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt's decision to postpone his trip to the west coast opens a possibility that he may meet somewhere along the way another figure who will be important in the Democratic party's 1940 nominating convention.

Paul V. McNutt, Philippine high commissioner, is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco from Manila on June 23, enroute to Washington. His early resignation is expected, so he may devote himself exclusively to advancing his 1940 presidential prospects. Should the president start west July 2 or 3, as he now anticipates, a meeting between the two might occur elsewhere than in Washington.

McNutt boosters welcomed the president's decision to defer his trip. It gave their man first chance, among all those being urged for Democratic presidential favor in 1940, at a transcontinental swing.

Not excepting the Garner boom and the Roosevelt third-term drive, McNutt's 1940 aspirations are backed by the most definite organization of any possible Democratic candidate. McNutt workers have been busy ever since he left the governorship of Indiana in January, 1937.

In sharp contrast to the insistence by Garner supporters that his 1940 candidacy will be pressed regardless of developments of the Roosevelt third-term movement, McNutt men contend that he will be an active candidate for first place on the 1940 ticket only if the president does not want it.

There has never been any hint from McNutt boomers here or in Indiana that he would consider a vice presidential nomination on a Roosevelt third-term ticket, or on any other. With Garner's friends contending that he is in the 1940 presidential race to stay, against Roosevelt or anyone else, the question has been raised whether McNutt should not be included among the list of possible western running mates for the president should he be nominated for the third time.

zones from which American ships and citizens could be barred.

Fish contended that the president could say "in a case where Italy and England were at war that Italy was a combat area and England was not."

Refers to Hitler's Speech

At the committee session, one member said, a speech by Hitler was used by state department officials as an argument for repeal of the arms embargo clause in present neutrality law.

Meanwhile Representative McGranery (D-Pa) predicted that between 70 and 75 Congressmen would boycott the congressional reception in honor of the king and queen Friday unless the state department obtained the immediate release of Sean Russell.

Russell, who describes himself as "head man," of the outlawed Irish Republican army, is held by immigration authorities at Detroit, Mich. He was arrested there Monday, while just across the Detroit river, cheering throngs welcomed the visiting royalty to Windsor, Ont.

city, will present the king and queen to the president and first lady. After meeting the members of the royal party, Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will lead the way outside, where a special guard of honor will be drawn up.

Marine Band to Play

While all stand at the entrance, the Marine band will play the British and American national anthems, and in the park a short distance away, a booming 21-gun salute will be fired in honor of the arrival of the head of another state.

Then will begin the procession to which Washingtonians by the thousand have been looking forward. With the king and the president seated together in one limousine and Mrs. Roosevelt and the queen in a second, preceded by motorcycle officers, and followed by cavalry, tanks and field artillery, the parade to the White House will be begun. Ten of the army's new "fly fortresses" and 42 smaller planes will be roaring overhead.

Many Bands to Play

All the way to the White House, the party will pass between two unbroken lines of soldiers, bluejackets and Marines. Various service bands have been assigned to play along the route, not only as the procession passes, but all morning, while the crowds are gathering.

And the crowds: police estimate that perhaps 500,000 will be crammed behind tightly drawn cables on the sidewalks, or watching from upper windows. Seats at such windows cost anywhere from one to ten dollars.

At the White House, the Washington diplomatic corps will be waiting to meet the royal couple, then will follow an informal luncheon attended only by the king and queen, the president and his wife and members of the Roosevelt family. A bit of sightseeing, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, a gala garden party at the British Embassy, and a state dinner at the White House complete the day's program for the royal visitors. They will stay the night at the White House.

Royal Couple Met at Line By Sec. Hull

the train reached the United States boundary.

Crowd Sees King

The crowd stood in silence as the train slowed to a stop at 9:43.

There was a theatrical moment of suspense. The red door of the observation platform opened and the king stepped out, smiling and bowing slightly, shyly it seemed. He was dressed in a double-breasted pin stripe lounge or business suit, wore white collar and dark tie, having changed from the blue shirt and blue collar he had worn through the last strenuous day of the royal tour in western Ontario.

The queen had changed again, the fourth time for the day, but was still wearing blue, with a halo hat. She was smiling and with eagerness stepped down to the red carpet. Secretary Hull moved forward and his serious face lightened with a smile as he grasped the king's hand firmly. Mrs. Hull was beside him in an ensemble of light blue chiffon with matching hat, gloves, bag and shoes.

For a few minutes the king and queen stood with the American group on the platform while presentations were made. Then the whole party climbed aboard and the train moved out of the station, not more than five minutes having been required for the welcome.

Double lines of troops were on the station platform preventing ... [illegible] one from touching the trains.

Francisco Sarabia Dies Instantly When Plane Hits Potomac

Washington, June 7 (AP) — Four minutes after he had taken off on a 1,700-mile flight to see his mother in Mexico, Francisco Sarabia plunged to his death today in the Potomac river.

The 39-year old flyer, Mexico's foremost civilian airman, had just bade goodbye to his wife, Agripina, and his 10-year old son, Francisco, Jr. His little biplane, heavily-loaded with gasoline, rose slowly about 100 feet above the army's Bolling Field then dived suddenly into the water.

The accident occurred in full view of his wife, son and brother, Santiago, also a flyer.

Rescue Attempt Fails

Two Mexican embassy officials, Dr. Luis Quintanilla, and Lieut.-Comm. Manuel Cermeno, swam to the partly submerged plane but were unable to rescue the flyer. The ship struck in 15 feet of water about 75 feet from shore.

Sarabia had spoken lightly of the distance to his mother's home at Ciudad Lerdo, state of Durango. Only two weeks ago he had set a nonstop record of 10 hours 48 minutes from Mexico City to New York.

The Mexican embassy accepted an offer of President Roosevelt to send the body home in an army plane. The brother will accompany the body.

Charles Babb, president of the firm which sold the plane and a witness of the tragedy, said Sarabia's motor failed. He added that apparently the flier realized he could not turn back to the field and "did what any experienced pilot in the world would have done—he attempted to land straight ahead, on the water."

Plane Is Salvaged

Rescue crews of the navy and civil aeronautics authority salvaged the plane. It was necessary to saw away part of it to release Sarabia's body. An army doctor said that apparently his neck was broken when the ship struck.

The Mexican flier came here Monday from New York, bringing a good will message to President Roosevelt from President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico.

Several Birds Lost In Cincinnati Race

Frostburg, June 7—"Lone Star", blue bar cock owned by Alpha Ambrose, of Gilmore, won the Algonquin Piegon Racing Club's yearling bird race from Cincinnati, Ohio, a distance of 300 miles, last Sunday with an average speed of 1,313.92 yards per minute.

The race was flown under unfavorable conditions and several birds were lost in the heavy rain storms encountered. Ambrose's blue check cock, "Railroad Special", was second with 1,278.71 yards per minute, and "Popeye", black check cock from the Clear View Loft of G. F. Martens, of Frostburg, third with 1,099.73.

Francis Hughes' "Red Oak", was fourth. The remaining club members placed as follows: Joe Meyers, 1,076.72; McKenzie-Garlitz, 1,076.06; John Seib, 1,069.44; Roy McKenzie, 1,065.05; Elmer Ward, 1,029.60; Bern Seib, 1,023.09; Boettcher and Ahern, 1,021.31; Arch Cameron, 1,008.81; Yates and Yates, 980,95; Thomas Gray, 970.11; John Donald, 901.95; John Meyers, 737.54. No birds homed the day of the race from the lofts of Sam Gardner, Dewey Groves, Alvin Gentry, William Johnson and Thomas and Lauder.

The sixth race of the series will be flown next Sunday from Mitchell, Ind., a distance of 400 miles.

Place for Winter Games Is Sought

London, June 7 (AP)—The International Olympic committee was looking tonight for a new site for the 1940 winter games after a rousing dispute with the International Ski Federation.

St. Moritz, Switzerland, where the games were scheduled for February, refused today to hold them unless they included a full ski program.

The Ski Federation insists that instructors must be permitted to compete in the Olympic Games, and the I.O.C. has refused to recognize them as amateurs.

The winter games, originally awarded Japan and then moved to Switzerland, now probably will be held at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, where they were held in 1936.

Meanwhile, Detroit put in its bid for the 1940 games, although the impression grew stronger here that London had the only chance.

The United States committee members were disappointed by the rejection of a petition to include basketball in the 1940 program at Helsinki.

The trip to the falls was the climax of a crowded day in which their majesties saw and were seen by cheering throngs in London, Hamilton and five other towns of southwestern Ontario. Brief stops were made in each city, long enough only for the presentation of city officials and a few citizens. Then the silver and blue royal train whisked on toward Niagara. Police and private guards began their vigil over the bridge abutments yesterday. Police of cities on either side prohibited unauthorized persons from nearing the abutments until after midnight.

Similar detailed precautions were made along each foot of the route from Niagara to Washington and the remainder of the royal itinerary to New York and Hyde Park until the royal train crosses back into Canada early Monday morning.

Fiddler Bill McGee Hangs Up Fifth Pitching Triumph

Brooklyn, June 7 (AP)—An eleven hit assault on three Brook... pitchers brought the St. Louis Cardinals a 7 to 3 victory over the Dodgers tonight for Fiddler Bill McGee's fifth pitching triumph without defeat.

McGee kept the Dodgers subdued on seven hits, one of them a homer by Babe Phelps in the ninth, but was compelled to leave the game because of a pulled muscle after pitching to the next batter. Mort Cooper finished.

The game, loss of which sent Brooklyn skidding from third to fifth place in the National league standing, was played under protest after Johnny Mize hit a drive against the railing of the center field stands where several fans made an effort to grab the ball.

Manager Ray Blades of the Cardinals argued it should be a home run and Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers contended it was a double. The umpires finally ruled it a triple and Mize scored on the next play, Don Guttridge's single, for St. Louis' final run.

Walsh and Officials Plan Coroner System

Baltimore, June 7 (AP)—State's attorneys and newly-appointed medical examiners met today with Attorney General William C. Walsh and health authorities to draw up tentative plans for operation of Maryland's new coroner system.

Under rules agreed upon at the meeting, the deputy medical examiners will take charge of bodies in all cases of violent death, suicide or death occurring in a "suspicious or unusual manner."

Police or sheriffs called in must notify the examiner who then must make his investigation and present all pertinent facts to the state's attorney.

In the last analysis, the conferees decided, the state's attorney involved is to decide whether or not further legal action should be taken.

Dr. Huntington Williams, Baltimore city health officer, and Dr. Robert H. Riley, state health director, attended the meeting, as did Chief Medical Examiner Howard Maldeis of Baltimore.

The system of medical examiners was set up by the last legislature to replace Maryland's "acting coroners." Formerly, police magistrates acted as coroners and called in medical assistance when needed.

the association at the next meeting August 23 and 24 in Cambridge.

The meeting opend today with an address of welcome by Mayor Richard Sweeney. The key to the city was presented by Capt. of Police Carl McCleary.

Marcus H. Miles, chief of police at Sparrows Point, president of the association, presided.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts
The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when your are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and set you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

Laurel Blooming Time

ARTHUR E. HUNGERFORD, of Baltimore, formerly state director of the National Emergency Council, is calling attention to the fact that mountain laurel blooming time is at hand in the Blue Ridge mountains. He is reminding the people of the state that one of the most glorious mountain laurel displays in the state is that at the James H. Gambrill, Jr., state park at High Knob, six miles from Frederick, and urges them to visit it while the laurel is blooming.

They should do so, as this is one of the real beauty spots of the state, with some of the finest scenic views in the country. One should go there, Hungerford says, on a bright day when the sun is shining and remain, if possible, for the fall of eventide when the lights go on in Frederick and in farm houses for miles around. F. W. Beasley, state forester, says the laurel will probably be at its best during the week beginning this coming Sunday. The blooming season is late this year.

People desiring to enjoy the gorgeous displays of mountain laurel and rhododendron should also visit the Western Maryland Allegheny mountain region, where they are to be seen in profusion, and in the contingent mountain territory of northern West Virginia and Pennsylvania. There are fine displays in Preston county, W. Va., and in Somerset and Bedford counties, Pa.

And while on such trips, everybody should stop in Cumberland and thus help along a pleasurable time.

The Case of the Cantaloupe

WHY has no one demanded that the government establish an authoritative test to be used by grocery and market clerks in selecting for the customer a ripe cantaloupe? At present there is no uniformity in the methods employed.

It is well known that from time immemorial watermelon picking has followed a few established, generally recognized rules. The ripe watermelon on the vine must have a "dead curl." Also the watermelon when thumped says "pang" when green and "pung" when ripe.

But in the case of the cantaloupe, proper tests have not been determined. One purveyor presses the end of the fruit with the thumb and if it "squashes" and squirts juice, says, "that will be all right if you want to eat it right away."

Another shakes the cantaloupe near his ear and listens for certain sounds not heard or understood by the prospective customer. Another smells the rind of the fruit at the steam end and on the subtlety of the aroma bases the prediction, "This will be ready for breakfast tomorrow morning."

In these days of government standardization, methods should be prescribed for settling these important questions that do not make so heavy demands on the salesman's special sense of accuracy and his gifts of prophecy.

Visit from Mars

ONE can hardly repress a shock of surprise to learn that the Martian controversy is still raging—not the one started by Orson Welles but the old-timer indulged in by astronomers. It seems that come July 27 the planet Mars will be nearer the earth than at any other time in fifteen years, a mere 36,000,000 miles or so; and a lot of professional Peeping Toms are prepared to see what's what.

Practically all the prominent astronomers have scouted the idea of human or semi-human residents on Mars; but they still aren't sure what makes those lines that look like canals, or what causes the white caps that appear on the northern and southern poles. In a couple of months from now we may have more accurate information. The spectroscopes will be busy trying to analyze the composition of the vapor that rises from the white caps. Some authorities suspect that they will show large amounts of carbon dioxide, thus proving that mythical Martians are at least well stocked with dry ice.

Laymen are still curious about the markings once believed to be canals. Since the lines cut through both hemispheres, philosophers would like to believe they were made by human hands; for that would mean a state of international peace on Mars. Anyway, the planet may give up a few exciting secrets when it ventures to approach our own little sphere.

A Sorry Picture

A RATHER DISHEARTENING PICTURE of farmers with hats in hand seeking favors is painted in a communication from a reader published by the Chicago Drovers' Journal.

"I am heartsick," the communication states. "I have come from a visit to the office of the county AAA committee. I saw one man come in with an air of bravado and in a loud voice demand that this and that be done for him, but in the end take what they handed him. I saw an old man whining for a settlement on his check, on which there apparently had been a mistake, and which had long been in the process of adjustment. I saw a timid soul simply asking his orders. I saw this farmer and that putting in an appearance to learn what they would be permitted to do. I saw a procession of mendicants groveling before their overlords. But more than this, I saw America slipping away. And this is why I am heartsick."

It is enough to make one heartsick and to feel apprehensive over the farmer's plight. The remedies so far tried for curing his situation have utterly failed and he has had to come to the begging attitude described in the communication. Perhaps if actual recovery were allowed to have its way unhindered and unhampered, with the natural laws of supply and demand unimpeded, with business encouraged, instead of restricted, there might be a different picture.

There are still those who sniff at wishing for the good old days, but there were many of them in America in which freedom of enterprise was not restricted and in which the farmer enjoyed the prosperity to which this rich land entitles him. And none can deny that he would far rather stand up with his hat on his head than to be now humbly bowing with it in his hand.

Do It Well

NOT LONG SINCE our Morning Motto was a quotation from the writings of James Ellis, a noted English journalist, poet and litterateur:

"Whatever we attempt to do, let it be done well; it is the well-doing of an act, however trivial, that carries with it the heart's willingness."

This thought, in editorial strain, was exemplified in one of the characteristic John Wanamaker advertisements.

"It is atttention to one's work," the advertisement stated, "that lifts the feet higher up on the life ladder. Getting 'over the top' is possible to whoever steps out until he reaches the goal.

"Whatever is to be done, get at quickly and do it well.

"Recently a man held a piece of cabinet work he had done and said to the foreman: 'What do you think of it?' and the reply was 'It is a fair, rough job; you could bo better.'

"A job of any kind, slighted, stands as a witness against a man who did it.

"It not only ranks as a bad or indifferent workman, but it may lead to careless workmanship and a neglectful habit, which will gradually lower his standing value in his trade.

"No one may hope to rise above his present situation who does not constantly improve upon his part.

"Whatsoever you do, do it well."

This advice is weighted with the experience of centuries. It is, however, too often unheeded or neglected by many whose practice of it would do them great good.

Mean Temperatures

ANY AMATEUR STUDENT of meteorological matters will sooner or later come face to face with the term "mean temperature" and wonder what it means. In a hazy sort of way he will gather that it has something to do with the average temperature readings over a given period, and wonder why the weather sharks don't call it "average" and let it go at that.

Now we have been permitted to understand what it's all about. The month of May had one of the lowest temperatures of many a spring. It was a mean spring month. Last year at about the same time some of the May days came near to breaking the high record. They were mean days too. Put two mean things together and the result can be only something mean.

Matters of science and meteorology are simple once you get the hang of them.

Schools Are Helping

DR. PAUL POPENOE, director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations, bewails the fact that so many marriages do not turn out well. He says much of the trouble comes from the nation that after marriage young people must "settle down."

In the settling down process, the husband begins to consider himself a star boarder rather than a lover, and the wife gets careless about her appearance and disposition. But the professor feels encouraged. He says schools are adding courses teaching right family relations as fast as teachers can be trained.

Hushing the outcry against permitting women to teach after they get married might help. In educational lines practical experience is required along with theoretical knowledge as a qualification for teaching.

An anthropologist of great renown tells us that man in prehistoric times was never stoop-shouldered or bowlegged. Then came taxes.

National Debt week has come and gone, survived by the debt.

"Girls Are No Good"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

When I asked the small boy, who had two brothers, if he didn't want a sister, he made a terrible face. . . . And with his two hands he made a gesture of disgust and derision. . . . And he also said NO! as thought he meant it!

Marshall Maslin

No girls for him! No sisters in HIS family! Girls, you gathered, were a nuisance. They were a great trouble. Inferior, pestiferous, whining, silly, giggly, altogether worthless bits of creation. And not to be spoken of in the same breath with boys! Girls were no good. . . . That's where he stood on that question. So I said no more about it, asked no more questions. If I'd had time I might have argued, but I had only an hour or two to spare and I knew that wouldn't be nearly long enough.

But where do small boys get that attitude? Why are small boys and small girls such enemies? . . . Because in most cases that's what they are—and no sentimentalizing can gloss over the fact. . . . The little boys sneer at the little girls, the little girls complain about the little boys. They "gang up" on each other. They tease and break each other's toys, and sometimes they throw sticks and stones across the great gulf that separates them.

And why is that? Sometimes it's the fault of some silly adult who speaks disparagingly of little boys or girls. . . . But that isn't the end of it because the great majority of grownups haven't that attitude in their maturity and are not interested in maintaining it in children. . . . And curiously enough, it doesn't exist in small boys when they are by themselves.

A small boy will often, when there are no other small boys around, play happily with little girls, without a shadow of a quarrel. He may even take an interest in their dolls. But let other boys come around and that's the end of the friendly interlude. He joins the predatory gang that despises the other sex and begins to give orders. Nobody's going to call HIM a sissy!

Don't ask me why that is! I don't know. Nor do I think anybody can answer it, although some psychologists seriously believe there is natural war between the sexes, all through their lives. . . . The answer may be in the fiber and tissue of the small fellow and he can't help it. It may not have been born in him, but it is a part of the iron code of his tribe and he must obey it. . . . The little girls will have their triumph later on when they are bigger girls and the contemptuous imps have lengthened into gangling love-sick calves.

Robert Moses, conjuring a park elysium in New York, with energy and genius which is impatient with noise and with such "bagmen's delights" as the wayside honkytonk, has been bearing down pretty hard on the pitchmen, spielers and barkers, trying to pipe them down to decorum and up to the seemly standards of the American Bar Association. The police have been nagging the barkers with various licensing restrictions and it began to look as if only Havard graduates, touting Walter Pater in seminar accents, could quality. But the magistrates have loosened many of these chains and multitudes visiting New York, the fair and the nearby resorts will not observe that our stentors are suffering from any particular frustration or laryngeal padlocks. There was a world of beneficience in Doc's assurance that personal examinations and prescriptions would be dispensed on the following day," in the large brick building directly opposite." The doc, with his Prince Albert coat, his distinguished white mustache and his air of kindly assurance somehow made the world feel safer. No matter what ailed us, My elders informed me that he was just an old humbug, but I know that Uncle Jimmy Tarbox, after taking three bottles of tiger marrow fat, felt so good that he went out for the first time in a year and had three fights, at the age of 83.

Spotted Fever Ticks Will Guard Their Majesties at Embassy Garden Party

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

The British embassy naturally was chosen as the principal place for King George and Queen Elizabeth to meet notabilities during their short stay in Washington. Quite as naturally the White House was picked as the proper place for THEM to be entertained, but it was recognized that they would have to put on a counter-entertainment. The embassy manifestly was the correct place for it.

British Embassy

Now, the White House is a much more controllable place than the British embassy. It's in downtown Washington. Its grounds are not very large. A cordon of troops, if necessary, can be drawn around them. Manifestly only a comparatively limited crowd can get in. Invited guests' credentials can be examined. Uninvited putters-in can be kept at a distance. There are no adjoining premises that police, secret servicers, G-men, soldiers and firemen (firemen, too, were conscripted for the occasion) can't patrol effectively. Numerically speaking, a White House dinner isn't such a whale of an affair, anyway. It's an awful jam, of course. Still, it has its physical limits. It was apparent from the first that their majesties, once inside the executive mansion, after their procession, would be corked up moderately tightly—unable to do their eating and to rest over night without spying eyes peering in at them.

The British embassy is different.

Their Majesties' Embassy

That embassy is at the extreme out-of-town end of aristocratic Massachusets avenue. The only thing beyond it, except open country, is the Naval Observatory.

It's a palace of an embassy, surrounded by acres of parkage.

The only trouble with it, from the standpoint of privacy, is that this parkage is in the midst of privately-owned real estate, the owners of which are at perfect liberty to rent out the realty to folk who are willing to pay fancy prices for a look-in on the king and queen's festivities.

And the king and queen's blow-out initially was publicized as a "garden party"—an outdoor affair; not so exclusive as the exclusive White House dinner.

Oh, no! Nobody could get onto the embassy grounds without an invitation.

But he could climb a tree on their edge, and look at the party.

These independent real estate owners have given the G-men, the state department and others the horse laugh.

The G-Men's Side

Yet the G-men and other secret servicers have had their side.

There are trees, overlooking the British embassy.

But there's underbrush underlying the trees. The trees are all right. But the underbrush is infected by little critters known as fever ticks (wood ticks), which, nipping folk on the legs, as they swish through the grass and bushes, infect 'em with what's known as Spotted Fever—generally fatal.

Accordingly, warns the United States public health service, if you're aiming to climb a tree to watch King George's and Queen Elizabeth's British embassadorial garden party in Washington's outskirts:

Beware of Spotted Fever ticks!

It's the underbrush that's dangerous.

Germs seem to be the critters to worry royalty principally.

Tinkering That Hasn't Worked

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

Barter and the subsidized dumping abroad of domestic commodities constitute the last gasp of a fallacious economic policy.

For the past six years the New Deal has tried to raise prices, particularly farm prices, by purely artificial means and to peg them at predetermined levels. Not only has the program failed to attain its immediate goal; it has cost the country millions of dollars' worth of foreign trade, perhaps permanently.

The Guaranty Trust Company, in its latest monthly survey, finds in this newest move of the New Deal to patch up the tattered fabric of its farm policy "a striking illustration of the situation that has been brought about in recent years, partly by economic forces but more largely by political interference with those forces. . . .

"Both the general price level and the statistical position of farm products, to say nothing of domestic and foreign trade as a whole, might well be more satisfactory today if attempts at price manipulation had been avoided entirely and attention devoted to the single problem of providing a favorable environment for normal business recovery."

Isn't it about time a reappraise this whole business of economic tinkering by governments? It hasn't worked. But more dangerous than that is the tendency of officials to ascribe its failure, not to any flaw in the theory of economic planning itself, but to its incomplete application. Elsewhere, price regulation and output restriction, beginning in a limited way, have culminated in the rigid control of whole economic systems by authoritarian regimes.

Savings Interest Are Hard Hit

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

Up to six or seven years ago, the man with a little, or a lot, of cash saved up could go to the bank, deposit it in either a savings or demand account and be paid interest. On savings accounts he could expect four or four and one-half per cent. It was a good investment, considering its relative security.

The practice of paying interest on demand deposits ceased when the government undertook to insure such deposits, on the theory that banks were in effect paying on such accounts by contributing to the government insurance fund. More recently, interest in savings accounts likewise has tended to disappear, for a different reason. By agreement of the Cincinnati Clearing House Association the local rate has been set at one and one-half per cent on amounts up to and including $2,500, and one per cent on amounts above that, except that no interest is paid on amounts in excess of $20,000. In Newark, N. J., this week, a large bank announced that it would pay no interest at all on time or savings deposits.

Those who in the past have relied upon savings accounts for their investments have no legitimate kick at the recent turn in events. It is only part of the broader picture Never, anywhere in history, has there been such a plethora of idle money as now in this country. With government bonds selling at a prices which require a six-year maturity to procure one per cent interest, banks would soon go broke if they attempted to pay interest on time or savings accounts at anything like the old rates.

Hobby Seen As Worth While

From the Hagerstown Evening Mail

Do you have a hobby? You should have not only one but several. Hobbies occupy one's mind with worthwhile things and can be educational. A hobby may even make a person famous. Some of America's most famous men made themselves so through hobbies. Some have become great authors because they wrote short stories in high school as a hobby. Others have completed inventions as a result of "fooling around" garages as kids in their spare time.

Not everyone likes the same hobbies. Yet it should not be hard to find hobbies to suit everyone. Some of them may seem foolish but if they furnish recreation they are just as good as the next person's. It makes no difference whether one's hobby is learning poetry or collecting pictures of movie stars as long as it interests one and means something to him.

If you haven't a hobby, start one. Find one that interests you and it will soon become an important factor in your life.

Reason Clear for Hits at Garner

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, D. C., June 7—Why should Jack Garner—or any other established Democrat who tosses his hat into the ring for the 1940 presidential nomination of his party—be called a "back-stabber?" Above all, why should Harold Ickes do the calling? The idea seems to be that it is "back-stabbing" because the great giver of all things good, Mr. Roosevelt, may want the nomination himself. But he hasn't said so and even if he had, there is no more certain single constitutional right of every native-born American citizen than to propose himself for the presidency. Does only Mr. Roosevelt now have that right?

HUGH JOHNSON

He isn't even a Democrat—or if he is, it is of no such variety as Thomas Jefferson or Andrew Jackson would recognize. He is no nearer being a Democrat than, for example, is Mr. Ickes or Mr. Henry Wallace—both of whom have been some kind of Republican for the greater part of their lives.

Would Cause Great Exodus

It is perfectly clear why such political bybirds as Mr. Ickes want to stop the nomination of Mr. Garner, or any other Democrat. If a Democrat ever became president, there would be the greatest exodus from Washington of any semi-socialists, crack-pot economists and pink-to-scarlet political experimenters that has ever happened since the Pied Piper tuned both rats and children out of Hamlin.

It is precisely the economic antics of such as these that have kept our tried and proved profits system in such a state of uncertainty that it hasn't been able to get back to work to employ millions of jobless, when every reason except their existence has shrieked that it is ready and straining to go. There is a good deal of puzzling over the question of what policy any Fourth New Deal opposition could adopt to appeal to the electorate and offset the effect of billions of dollars of spending to buy the votes of the principal great groups of beneficiaries — farmers, Negroes and the unemployed. I think this alone would be enough—a promise that these irresponsible economic tinkerers would step from control of government.

Their Only Hope

Third term for the president? Sure they want a third term. It is their only hope. Under any Republican or any recognizable Democrat their end would come. Not one of them could be elected dog-catcher. The only man in the whole United States who would keep them on and who has so much as a Chinaman's chance of election is Franklin Roosevelt. They will fight for his renominaiton as a drowning man fights for breath and no common sense can blame them.

They are apparently the only brand of political phenomenon that the president wishes to have around him. Yet there is scarcely a responsible Democrat in the party who approves them and to whom their presence and preference are not almost unbearable strains on party loyalty. The president has suggested that all Democrats who feel this strain should get out of the party. If they did, its nomination would be worth nothing, either to Mr. Roosevelt or anybody else.

Fine Republican Chance

Undoubtedly Mr. Roosevelt could force his own renomination and carry his crowd on his back also. But if it came to such forcing plus purging of stalwarts like Garner, as Mr. Ickes seems to threaten, the Republicans will have so good a chance that perhaps even they cannot, as they did in 1936, make enough blunders to lose the election. When Mr. Garner is asked threateningly whether if not nominated he will bolt, he has a right to ask whether if not renominated, Mr. Roosevelt will bolt. Either action would elect a Republican. I know experienced observers who believe that this is exactly Roosevelt strategy, on the theory he will leave a mess no Republican could clean up—and be himself re-elected with a new party and almost by acclamation in 1944.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

New War Term

From the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Along with "undeclared war," we now have the term, "near war," also sure in its destructiveness, although operating more slowly.

These reflections are based upon a report by John G. Winant, American director of the international labor office at Geneva, in which there is the warning that constantly accelerated armament race, diverting billions from normal production, might result eventually in "actual starvation in the lower income groups." The Bank for International Settlements now estimates the world cost of arms at a billion dollars a month.

After pointing out that the diversion to armament of a substantial part of the total income of any nation from the usual production and services reduces the standards of living, Mr. Winant declared that while this "near war" does not result in immediate destruction, it produces almost the same results in "a slower though no less certain way."

There must be faith that there is still enough sanity left in the world to force a halt before a state of chaos is reached.

Laurel Blooming Time

ARTHUR E. HUNGERFORD, of Baltimore, formerly state director of the National Emergency Council, is calling attention to the fact that mountain laurel blooming time is at hand in the Blue Ridge mountains. He is reminding the people of the state that one of the most glorious mountain laurel displays in the state is that at the James H. Gambrill, Jr., state park at High Knob, six miles from Frederick, and urges them to visit it while the laurel is blooming.

They should do so, as this is one of the real beauty spots of the state, with some of the finest scenic views in the country. One should go there, Hungerford says, on a bright day when the sun is shining and remain, if possible, for the fall of eventide when the lights go on in Frederick and in farm houses for miles around. F. W. Beasley, state forester, says the laurel will probably be at its best during the week beginning this coming Sunday. The blooming season is late this year.

People desiring to enjoy the gorgeous displays of mountain laurel and rhododendron should also visit the Western Maryland Allegheny mountain region, where they are to be seen in profusion, and in the contingent mountain territory of northern West Virginia and Pennsylvania. There are fine displays in Preston county, W. Va., and in Somerset and Bedford counties, Pa.

And while on such trips, everybody should stop in Cumberland and thus help along a pleasurable time.

The Case of the Cantaloupe

WHY has no one demanded that the government establish an authoritative test to be used by grocery and market clerks in selecting for the customer a ripe cantaloupe? At present there is no uniformity in the methods employed.

It is well known that from time immemorial watermelon picking has followed a few established, generally recognized rules. The ripe watermelon on the vine must have a "dead curl." Also the watermelon when thumped says "pang" when green and "pung" when ripe.

But in the case of the cantaloupe, proper tests have not been determined. One purveyor presses the end of the fruit with the thumb and if it "squashes" and squirts juice, says, "that will be all right if you want to eat it right away."

Another shakes the cantaloupe near his ear and listens for certain sounds not heard or understood by the prospective customer. Another smells the rind of the fruit at the steam end and on the subtlety of the aroma bases the prediction, "This will be ready for breakfast tomorrow morning."

In these days of government standardization, methods should be prescribed for settling these important questions that do not make so heavy demands on the salesman's special sense of accuracy and his gifts of prophecy.

Visit from Mars

ONE can hardly repress a shock of surprise to learn that the Martian controversy is still raging—not the one started by Orson Welles but the old-timer indulged in by astronomers. It seems that come July 27 the planet Mars will be nearer the earth than at any other time in fifteen years, a mere 36,000,000 miles or so; and a lot of professional Peeping Toms are prepared to see what's what.

Practically all the prominent astronomers have scouted the idea of human or semi-human residents on Mars; but they still aren't sure what makes those lines that look like canals, or what causes the white caps that appear on the northern and southern poles. In a couple of months from now we may have more accurate information. The spectroscopes will be busy trying to analyze the composition of the vapor that rises from the white caps. Some authorities suspect that they will show large amounts of carbon dioxide, thus proving that mythical Martians are at least well stocked with dry ice.

Laymen are still curious about the markings once believed to be canals. Since the lines cut through both hemispheres, philosophers would like to believe they were made by human hands; for that would mean a state of international peace on Mars. Anyway, the planet may give up a few exciting secrets when it ventures to approach our own little sphere.

A Sorry Picture

A RATHER DISHEARTENING PICTURE of farmers with hats in hand seeking favors is painted in a communication from a reader published by the Chicago Drovers' Journal.

"I am heartsick," the communication states. "I have come from a visit to the office of the county AAA committee. I saw one man come in with an air of bravado and in a loud voice demand that this and that be done for him, but in the end take what they handed him. I saw an old man whining for a settlement on his check, on which there apparently had been a mistake, and which had long been in the process of adjustment. I saw a timid soul simply asking his orders. I saw this farmer and that putting in an appearance to learn what they would be permitted to do. I saw a procession of mendicants groveling before their overlords. But more than this, I saw America slipping away. And this is why I am heartsick."

It is enough to make one heartsick and to feel apprehensive over the farmer's plight. The remedies so far tried for curing his situation have utterly failed and he has had to come to the begging attitude described in the communication. Perhaps if actual recovery were allowed to have its way unhindered and unhampered, with the natural laws of supply and demand unimpeded, with business encouraged, instead of restricted, there might be a different picture.

There are still those who sniff at wishing for the good old days, but there were many of them in America in which freedom of enterprise was not restricted and in which the farmer enjoyed the prosperity to which this rich land entitles him. And none can deny that he would far rather stand up with his hat on his head than to be now humbly bowing with it in his hand.

Do It Well

NOT LONG SINCE our Morning Motto was a quotation from the writings of James Ellis, a noted English journalist, poet and litterateur:

"Whatever we attempt to do, let it be done well; it is the well-doing of an act, however trivial, that carries with it the heart's willingness."

This thought, in editorial strain, was exemplified in one of the characteristic John Wanamaker advertisements.

"It is atttention to one's work," the advertisement stated, "that lifts the feet higher up on the life ladder. Getting 'over the top' is possible to whoever steps out until he reaches the goal.

"Whatever is to be done, get at quickly and do it well.

"Recently a man held a piece of cabinet work he had done and said to the foreman: 'What do you think of it?' and the reply was 'It is a fair, rough job; you could bo better.'

"A job of any kind, slighted, stands as a witness against a man who did it.

"It not only ranks as a bad or indifferent workman, but it may lead to careless workmanship and a neglectful habit, which will gradually lower his standing value in his trade.

"No one may hope to rise above his present situation who does not constantly improve upon his part.

"Whatsoever you do, do it well."

This advice is weighted with the experience of centuries. It is, however, too often unheeded or neglected by many whose practice of it would do them great good.

Mean Temperatures

ANY AMATEUR STUDENT of meteorological matters will sooner or later come face to face with the term "mean temperature" and wonder what it means. In a hazy sort of way he will gather that it has something to do with the average temperature readings over a given period, and wonder why the weather sharks don't call it "average" and let it go at that.

Now we have been permitted to understand what it's all about. The month of May had one of the lowest temperatures of many a spring. It was a mean spring month. Last year at about the same time some of the May days came near to breaking the high record. They were mean days too. Put two mean things together and the result can be only something mean.

Matters of science and meteorology are simple once you get the hang of them.

Schools Are Helping

DR. PAUL POPENOE, director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations, bewails the fact that so many marriages do not turn out well. He says much of the trouble comes from the nation that after marriage young people must "settle down."

In the settling down process, the husband begins to consider himself a star boarder rather than a lover, and the wife gets careless about her appearance and disposition. But the professor feels encouraged. He says schools are adding courses teaching right family relations as fast as teachers can be trained.

Hushing the outcry against permitting women to teach after they get married might help. In educational lines practical experience is required along with theoretical knowledge as a qualification for teaching.

An anthropologist of great renown tells us that man in prehistoric times was never stoop-shouldered or bowlegged. Then came taxes.

National Debt week has come and gone, survived by the debt.

"Girls Are No Good"

By MARSHALL MASLIN

When I asked the small boy, who had two brothers, if he didn't want a sister, he made a terrible face. . . . And with his two hands he made a gesture of disgust and derision. . . . And he also said NO! as thought he meant it!

Marshall Maslin

No girls for him! No sisters in HIS family! Girls, you gathered, were a nuisance. They were a great trouble. Inferior, pestiferous, whining, silly, giggly, altogether worthless bits of creation. And not to be spoken of in the same breath with boys! Girls were no good. . . . That's where he stood on that question. So I said no more about it, asked no more questions. If I'd had time I might have argued, but I had only an hour or two to spare and I knew that wouldn't be nearly long enough.

But where do small boys get that attitude? Why are small boys and small girls such enemies? . . . Because in most cases that's what they are—and no sentimentalizing can gloss over the fact. . . . The little boys sneer at the little girls, the little girls complain about the little boys. They "gang up" on each other. They tease and break each other's toys, and sometimes they throw sticks and stones across the great gulf that separates them.

And why is that? Sometimes it's the fault of some silly adult who speaks disparagingly of little boys or girls. . . . But that isn't the end of it because the great majority of grownups haven't that attitude in their maturity and are not interested in maintaining it in children. . . . And curiously enough, it doesn't exist in small boys when they are by themselves.

A small boy will often, when there are no other small boys around, play happily with little girls, without a shadow of a quarrel. He may even take an interest in their dolls. But let other boys come around and that's the end of the friendly interlude. He joins the predatory gang that despises the other sex and begins to give orders. Nobody's going to call HIM a sissy!

Don't ask me why that is! I don't know. Nor do I think anybody can answer it, although some psychologists seriously believe there is natural war between the sexes, all through their lives. . . . The answer may be in the fiber and tissue of the small fellow and he can't help it. It may not have been born in him, but it is a part of the iron code of his tribe and he must obey it. . . . The little girls will have their triumph later on when they are bigger girls and the contemptuous imps have lengthened into gangling love-sick calves.

The British embassy naturally was chosen as the principal place for King George and Queen Elizabeth to meet notabilities during their short stay in Washington. Quite as naturally the White House was picked as the proper place for THEM to be entertained, but it was recognized that they would have to put on a counter-entertainment. The embassy manifestly was the correct place for it.

British Embassy

Now, the White House is a much more controllable place than the British embassy. It's in downtown Washington. Its grounds are not very large. A cordon of troops, if necessary, can be drawn around them. Manifestly only a comparatively limited crowd can get in. Invited guests' credentials can be examined. Uninvited putters-in can be kept at a distance. There are no adjoining premises that police, secret servicers, G-men, soldiers and firemen (firemen, too, were conscripted for the occasion) can't patrol effectively. Numerically speaking, a White House dinner isn't such a whale of an affair, anyway. It's an awful jam, of course. Still, it has its physical limits. It was apparent from the first that their majesties, once inside the executive mansion, after their procession, would be corked up moderately tightly—unable to do their eating and to rest over night without spying eyes peering in at them.

The British embassy is different.

Their Majesties' Embassy

That embassy is at the extreme out-of-town end of aristocratic Massachusets avenue. The only thing beyond it, except open country, is the Naval Observatory.

It's a palace of an embassy, surrounded by acres of parkage.

The only trouble with it, from the standpoint of privacy, is that this parkage is in the midst of privately-owned real estate, the owners of which are at perfect liberty to rent out the realty to folk who are willing to pay fancy prices for a look-in on the king and queen's festivities.

And the king and queen's blow-out initially was publicized as a "garden party"—an outdoor affair; not so exclusive as the exclusive White House dinner.

Oh, no! Nobody could get onto the embassy grounds without an invitation.

But he could climb a tree on their edge, and look at the party.

These independent real estate owners have given the G-men, the state department and others the horse laugh.

The G-Men's Side

Yet the G-men and other secret servicers have had their side.

There are trees, overlooking the British embassy.

But there's underbrush underlying the trees. The trees are all right. But the underbrush is infected by little critters known as fever ticks (wood ticks), which, nipping folk on the legs, as they swish through the grass and bushes, infect 'em with what's known as Spotted Fever—generally fatal.

Accordingly, warns the United States public health service, if you're aiming to climb a tree to watch King George's and Queen Elizabeth's British embassadorial garden party in Washington's outskirts:

Beware of Spotted Fever ticks!

It's the underbrush that's dangerous.

Germs seem to be the critters to worry royalty principally.

Tinkering That Hasn't Worked

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

Barter and the subsidized dumping abroad of domestic commodities constitute the last gasp of a fallacious economic policy.

For the past six years the New Deal has tried to raise prices, particularly farm prices, by purely artificial means and to peg them at predetermined levels. Not only has the program failed to attain its immediate goal; it has cost the country millions of dollars' worth of foreign trade, perhaps permanently.

The Guaranty Trust Company, in its latest monthly survey, finds in this newest move of the New Deal to patch up the tattered fabric of its farm policy "a striking illustration of the situation that has been brought about in recent years, partly by economic forces but more largely by political interference with those forces. . . .

"Both the general price level and the statistical position of farm products, to say nothing of domestic and foreign trade as a whole, might well be more satisfactory today if attempts at price manipulation had been avoided entirely and attention devoted to the single problem of providing a favorable environment for normal business recovery."

Isn't it about time a reappraise this whole business of economic tinkering by governments? It hasn't worked. But more dangerous than that is the tendency of officials to ascribe its failure, not to any flaw in the theory of economic planning itself, but to its incomplete application. Elsewhere, price regulation and output restriction, beginning in a limited way, have culminated in the rigid control of whole economic systems by authoritarian regimes.

Savings Interest Are Hard Hit

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

Up to six or seven years ago, the man with a little, or a lot, of cash saved up could go to the bank, deposit it in either a savings or demand account and be paid interest. On savings accounts he could expect four or four and one-half per cent. It was a good investment, considering its relative security.

The practice of paying interest on demand deposits ceased when the government undertook to insure such deposits, on the theory that banks were in effect paying on such accounts by contributing to the government insurance fund. More recently, interest in savings accounts likewise has tended to disappear, for a different reason. By agreement of the Cincinnati Clearing House Association the local rate has been set at one and one-half per cent on amounts up to and including $2,500, and one per cent on amounts above that, except that no interest is paid on amounts in excess of $20,000. In Newark, N. J., this week, a large bank announced that it would pay no interest at all on time or savings deposits.

Those who in the past have relied upon savings accounts for their investments have no legitimate kick at the recent turn in events. It is only part of the broader picture Never, anywhere in history, has there been such a plethora of idle money as now in this country. With government bonds selling at a prices which require a six-year maturity to procure one per cent interest, banks would soon go broke if they attempted to pay interest on time or savings accounts at anything like the old rates.

Hobby Seen As Worth While

From the Hagerstown Evening Mail

Do you have a hobby? You should have not only one but several. Hobbies occupy one's mind with worthwhile things and can be educational. A hobby may even make a person famous. Some of America's most famous men made themselves so through hobbies. Some have become great authors because they wrote short stories in high school as a hobby. Others have completed inventions as a result of "fooling around" garages as kids in their spare time.

Not everyone likes the same hobbies. Yet it should not be hard to find hobbies to suit everyone. Some of them may seem foolish but if they furnish recreation they are Just as good as the next person's. It makes no difference whether one's hobby is learning poetry or collecting pictures of movie stars as long as it interests one and means something to him.

If you haven't a hobby, start one. Find one that interests you and it will soon become an important factor in your life.

HUGH JOHNSON

Washington, D. C., June 7—Why should Jack Garner—or any other established Democrat who tosses his hat into the ring for the 1940 presidential nomination of his party—be called a "back-stabber?" Above all, why should Harold Ickes do the calling? The idea seems to be that it is "back-stabbing" because the great giver of all things good, Mr. Roosevelt, may want the nomination himself. But he hasn't said so and even if he had, there is no more certain single constitutional right of every native-born American citizen than to propose himself for the presidency. Does only Mr. Roosevelt now have that right?

He isn't even a Democrat—or if he is, it is of no such variety as Thomas Jefferson or Andrew Jackson would recognize. He is no nearer being a Democrat than, for example, is Mr. Ickes or Mr. Henry Wallace—both of whom have been some kind of Republican for the greater part of their lives.

Would Cause Great Exodus

It is perfectly clear why such political bybirds as Mr. Ickes want to stop the nomination of Mr. Garner, or any other Democrat. If a Democrat ever became president, there would be the greatest exodus from Washington of any semi-socialists, crack-pot economists and pink-to-scarlet political experimenters that has ever happened since the Pied Piper tuned both rats and children out of Hamlin.

It is precisely the economic antics of such as these that have kept our tried and proved profits system in such a state of uncertainty that it hasn't been able to get back to work to employ millions of jobless, when every reason except their existence has shrieked that it is ready and straining to go. There is a good deal of puzzling over the question of what policy any Fourth New Deal opposition could adopt to appeal to the electorate and offset the effect of billions of dollars of spending to buy the votes of the principal great groups of beneficiaries — farmers, Negroes and the unemployed. I think this alone would be enough—a promise that these irresponsible economic tinkerers would step from control of government.

Their Only Hope

Third term for the president? Sure they want a third term. It is their only hope. Under any Republican or any recognizable Democrat their end would come. Not one of them could be elected dog-catcher. The only man in the whole United States who would keep them on and who has so much as a Chinaman's chance of election is Franklin D. Roosevelt. They will fight for his renomination as a drowning man fights for breath and no commons sense can blame them.

They are apparently the only brand of political phenomenon that the president wishes to have around him. Yet there is scarcely a responsible Democrat in the party which approves them and to whom their presence and preference are not a most unbearable stamin on party loyalty. The president has suggested that all Democrats who feel this strain should get out of the party. If they did, its nomination would be worth nothing, either to Mr. Roosevelt or anybody else.

Fine Republican Chance

Undoubtedly Mr. Roosevelt could force his own renomination and carry his crowd on his back also. But if it came to such forcing plus purging of stalwarts like Garner, as Mr. Ickes seems to threaten, the Republicans will have so good a chance that perhaps even they cannot, as they did in 1936, make enough blunders to lose the election. When Mr. Garner is asked threateningly whether if not nominated he will bolt, he has a right to ask whether if not renominated, Mr. Roosevelt will bolt. Either action would elect a Republican. I know experienced observers who believe that this is exactly Roosevelt's strategy, on the theory he will leave a mess no Republican could clean up—and be himself re-elected with a new party and almost by acclamation in 1944.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

New War Term

From the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette

Along with "undeclared war," we now have the term, "near war," also sure in its destructiveness, although operating more slowly.

These reflections are based upon a report by John G. Winant, American director of the international labor office at Geneva, in which there is the warning that constantly accelerated armament race, diverting billions from normal production, might result eventually in "actual starvation in the lower income groups." The Bank for International Settlements now estimates the world cost of arms at a billion dollars a month.

After pointing out that the diversion to armament of a substantial part of the total income of a nation from the usual production and services reduces the standard of living, Mr. Winant declared that while this "near war" does not result in immediate destruction, it produces almost the same results in "a slower though no less certain way."

There must be faith that there is still is enough sanity left in the world to force a halt before a state of chaos is reached.

rial of Former Pennsylvania Officials Climaxes Year-Long Political Controversy

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Correspondent

Harrisburg, Pa., June 7—Climax- a year of violent controversy hich saw Pennsylvania's "Little w Deal" swept out of power, Da- l L. Lawrence, Democratic state hairman and secretary of the com- onwealth under former Gov. eorge H. Earle, and 11 others will on trial in county court here, metime in mid-June.

oy E. Brownmiller, former state ghway secretary, will be the first be tried—Monday, June 12.

Lawrence, head of the state or- anization which swept a Demo- atic administration into power 1934 for the first time in 40 years ly to see it break up four years er in the wake of graft charges, s been indicted twice on charges violation of the elections laws. is now free on $11,000 bail.

Lawrence, still a potent figure Pennsylvania politics, will be llowed in trial court by a host other indicited Democrats, among em two other ex-cabinet officials the Earle administration. For- r Governor Earle was not in- ted, but was severely censured the Dauphin county grand jury, hich returned the indictments, for alleged neglect of the duties of his high office.

Other Officials Indicted

Another cabinet official indicted in addition to Lawrence and Brownmiller, is Ralph M. Bashore, secretary of the Democratic state committee and secretary of labor and industry under former Governor Earle.

Two deceased persons were also indicted, Warren Van Dyke, secretary of highways under Earle, and Brownmiller's predecessor in office, and John J. Verona, Pittsburgh Democratic leader.

Others among those indicted are: Carl K. Deen, resident secretary of the Democratic state committee; Robert M. Fager, chairman of the Dauphin county (Harrisburg) Democratic committee; Frank R. Hean, secretary of the state board of pardons and former office manager of the Dauphin county Democratic committee; three others associated with the same county organization, Clyde H. Smith, William Freeland and Wendell P. C. Morgenthaler, and two Pittsburgh insurance men, Victor Skok and James P. Kirk. All are out in $29,000 bail.

Padding Payroll Charged

Brownmiller was charged with padding the state highway department payrolls in Luzerne county, home county of Gov. Arthur H. James, to the extent of $600,000.

Bashore was indicted for alleged extortion of political contributions from state employes as were all the others with the exception of Van Dyke, Kirk and Skok. The latter three were charged with conspiring to divert the state's bonding business for highway construction to a private insurance firm headed by Kirk.

The trials, especially that of Lawrence, will provide the climax to almost a year of political repercussions which have kept Pennsylvania politics in a state of ferment, wrecked an administration and destroyed the presidential aspirations of former Governor Earle, a close friend of President Roosevelt.

Judge Howard Hughes of Washington county court of common pleas will preside over all the trials.

It all started when Charles J. Margiotti, then attorney general under former Governor Earle, broke with the Democratic organization and ran as an independent candidate for Governor. He made sensational charges involving the integrity of Lawrence and Bashore and was subsequently fired by Earle.

Shortly thereafter a grand jury investigation was invoked to probe the charges and after seven months of court battle it opened on December 15, 1938. Its first indictment was returned three weeks later, against Lawrence, followed two months later by indictments against a host of other Democrats.

Previous to the inauguration of the grand jury probe, former Governor Earle called a special session of the legislature to halt the investigation and a legislative committee sat for weeks hearing testimony, after which it absolved the Earle administration of guilt. The state supreme court invalidated the restrictive legislation passed by the general assembly and with the overturn at the polls of the "Little New Deal" administration of Governor Earle the grand jury investigation opened. Subsequently, Earle himself appeared before the juhy to testify. The jury is still sitting and other indictments may follow.

UMMER FOODS . . . NO. 3.

Be Sure You Get Good, Clean Milk

LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The cow, as an enthusiastic toast- aster at a milk banquet said, is e foster-mother of the human ce.

Milk, the best of all foods, must clean; of all foods, it is the most ily contaminated. Probably the eatest advance in medicine in this ntury has been the production mmercially of clean milk. The ectre of other days—"baby's first mmer"—is gone. But the greatest gle cause of the staggering in- nt mortality of our grandfathers' ys was "summer complaint," or fantile diarrhea, from contamin- d milk.

In every city there should be sev- al kinds of safe milk. These should guaranteed by the health depart- nt after proper inspection and pervision.

First Sold in 1893

Pasteurized milk was first sold in w York City in 1893, when Nathan auss established the first of his mous milk stations. Since then it generally agreed by health au- rities that, everything else being ual, pasteurized milk is the safest. The only raw milk which should sold is certified milk. This is milk exceptional quality, produced by ected dairies in accordance with national standards, enforced ficial milk commissions and al medical societies. The physical dition of the herd and of the ry employes, and the condition the stables are carefully super- ed. Regular laboratory examina- ns of the milk are made weekly, oftener.

Low Bacterial Count

Certified milk must not contain re than 10,000 bacteria per cubic timeter; actually it averages a ch lower count. It must be deliv- d to the consumer within 30 urs after production.

Certified milk pasteurized, a re- tly approved product, has re- ted in a milk with the lowest bac- ial count ever known.

Pasteurized milk is the safest and t milk for the family of average economic status. It comes in Grade A and Grade B forms.

Both A and B pasteurized milk are required to come from cattle that are free from tuberculosis. Grade A cattle are examined by veterinarians more frequently than Grade B herds. Grade A milk is cooled at 50 degrees Fahrenheit immediately after milking and Grade B at 60 degrees.

Grade A pasteurized milk, when delivered to the customer, must not contain over 30,000 bacteria colonies per cubic centimeter, Grade B not more than 50,000.

Higher Qualities

The nutritive qualities of Grade A milk are slightly higher than Grade B.

Grade A pasteurized milk is required to be delivered to the consumer within 36 hours after pasteurization.

Grade B pasteurized milk may be sold up to within 54 hours after pasteurization.

Grade B milk is, however, a good safe milk for drinking or cooking.

Pasteurization consists of heating milk to a temperature of 143 degrees Fahrenheit and keeping it there for at least 30 minutes. It destroys disease-producing germs and reduces all germs by about 90 per cent.

Evaporated milk (not the same as condensed milk) is sold in cans and, properly prepared, is a safe, nutritious milk.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. F. G.: "Please tell me through your column about the use of psyllium seed as a laxative. Does the glue-like or lubricating elements of these seeds becomes so mixed with the food in the intestinal tract as to interfere with the action of the digestive juices, etc.?"

Answer: Psyllium seeds are classified as one of the roughage laxatives whose action depends on bulk and not on any medicinal quality. Their jelly-like external capsule does not mix with food as can be demonstrated if you allow some of the seeds to swell up in a glass of yater and then add some crackers that have been chewed in the mouth.

Shoulder Your Beauty Burdens

By HELEN FOLLETT

LORETTA YOUNG . . . exercise, diet keep her shoulders shapely.

BE CHESTY, be normally busty, but see that you don't get a bit too plump on the shoulders. It's not enough to have a svelte and lovely silhouette; one must work to retain it. Life is filled with changes, and getting adipose tissues where they shouldn't be is a change that does not make for human happiness.

Take a peek at your shoulders. If there is a sign of thickness, shrug them. Do this in the privacy of your bedroom, else the family may ask silly questions.

Here is an exercise that is recommended by teachers of physical culture: Stand erect, tummy as close to the back bone as you can get it, feet several inches apart, toes pointing straight ahead. Lower the arms, clasp the hands in front of the body. Take a deep, full breath, expanding the chest to the busting point, lifting the shoulders high, bringing the hands up to the chest as you do that. Twenty times twice a day.

Let the hands hang at the sides, lift them on a line with the shoulders, do a grand old shoulder shrug, pivoting at the waistline, sending the upper part of the body from side to side.

Take some member of your family into your confidence, have her hammer your shouders with her folded hands. Adipose tissue can be pounded into a comatose state which causes it to go off and die.

It is the woman who is on good terms with her finger wave that is able to keep it strong from one shampoo to the next. She understands the desires of her tresses, lets them have their way. Then they won't go stringy.

Begin by combing the curly ends. Sweep the comb through the undulation, getting the lines as smooth as glass, and give a little forward push. Ends can be curly-cued with a narrow brush or a fine, narrow comb.

Every time the hair is waved it should follow the same design. Then the locks are trained. Changing wave lines drives the hair crazy and it is likely to show its teeth and snarl at you.

After trimming your toenails with the scissors, give the eaves a smooth edge by using a beveling file of emery board. Don't cut down at the sides; if you do you will have ingrowing nails.

Soften the surrounding cuticle by massaging with mineral oil. If you chance upon any budding corns, use mineral oil there. The way to prevent them is to wear shoes that do not press upon the flesh.

In the warm weather soft corns are likely to appear on the inner surfaces of the toes. They will disappear if the skin is kept dry. Sprinkle talcum powder on pads of cotton, tuck them between the toes.

If one toe is lifted among its neighbors, be on your guard; see a foot specialist. You may be developing a hammer toe which is a serious matter; amputation is sometimes necessary.

HAVE YOU any beauty problems? Let the Beauty Box Editor help you solve them. Address all inquiries regarding beauty to the Editor of the Beauty Box, care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose an addressed, stamped (three cents) envelope for reply.

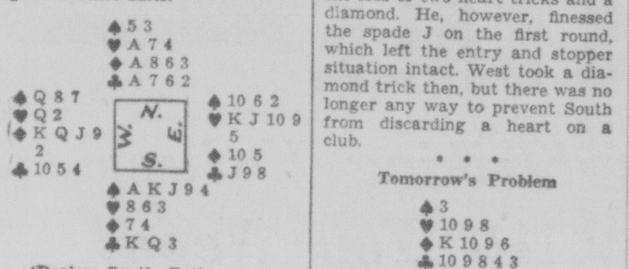
"The Authority on Authorities"

VARY YOUR PROCEDURE

MANY PLAYERS have a set formula for playing suits of particular compositions. For instance, when holding the Ace-King-Jack, they make a practice of laying down one of the top honors to guard against a singleton, and then going across to the other hand to lead for a finesse of the Jack. Sometimes, however, the finesse should be taken on the first round because of the situation regarding entries and stoppers of other suits.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Here is a deal on which South made a game in a duplicate tournament by being slightly unorthodox, yet hardly unsound, in both his bidding and his play. His original 1-Spade, North's 2-Diamonds and his own 2-Spades constituted a series of clear-cut correct calls, the same as made at most other tables. In cases where North then bid 2-No Trumps, the side usually wound up at a No Trump game which could not be made. In cases where North bid 3-Clubs, some Souths tried 3-No Trumps. In this case, however, the 3-Clubs brought forth 3-Spades from South, a third bid usually made only on a six-card suit. North took this to 4-Spades.

West led the diamond K to the A. If South had now played to the spade A, as is customary, and then had used an entry in the dummy to finesse the J and lose it, he would have been set through the loss of two heart tricks and a diamond. He, however, finessed the spade J on the first round, which left the entry and stopper situation intact. West took a diamond trick then, but there was no longer any way to prevent South from discarding a heart on a club.

William Powell Will Represent Allegany County at National 4-H Club Camp

Maryland's delegates to the 1939 National 4-H Club Camp will arrive in Washington June 14, ready for the formal opening of the camp that night, according to Edward G. Jenkins, state boys' club agent. Delegates from the state of Maryland this year are: Katherine Uebel, Baltimore county; Jessie Guard, Garrett county; William Powell, Allegany county and George Lechlider, Montgomery county.

Each year there are four delegates chosen from the state of those 4-H members of outstanding accomplishments in the clubs. Willim Powell, of Allegany county, was recommended for his accomplishments in projects and leadership. At present he is a member of the Junior Extension Club, and a leader of the Williams Road 4-H Club. In the past three years two girls and one boy were selected as delegates from Allegany county: Mary Catherine K. Knowles, Pinto, Frank McFarland, Cumberland, and Mary Wilson of Raleigh.

At this year's camp, the thirteenth to be held at the nation's capital, the group will find delegates from forty-two other states, and Puerto Rico will be represented this year for the first time.

Leadership is the theme to be discussed at daily conferences conducted by the delegates themselves. Training for leadership is an important part of the 4-H Club program, combining fourfold development of Head, Hands, Heart, and Health.

Housed in a city of tents on the shore of the famed Tidal basin, almost in the shadow of the Washington monument, the club boys and girls will have opportunities to learn at first hand of the work being done by the Department of Agriculture and other federal agencies. They will visit the White House, capitol, Mount Vernon, and many historic buildings and national shrines.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and other nationally known leaders will appear on the program, which will close June 21.

Club Division Again Offers Garden Prizes

Entry blanks have been prepared for publication in the daily newspapers for the annual garden contest to be carried out by the Garden Club division of the Cumberland Civic Club. All those interested in contesting for prizes are asked to watch for these entry blanks, fill them in and mail or otherwise send them to Mrs. Albert A. Doub, Sr., 403 Washington street.

Three prizes are offered this year for the best local gardens. There will be a first prize of $5 for the small garden showing the most improvement; a second prize of $2.50 for the small garden showing the most improvement and a sweepstakes prize of $10 for the most outstanding garden as to plan and beauty.

For Brides-Elect

Mrs. James A. Black entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. Walter L. Pierce, 700 Washington street, with a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock, honoring Miss Jane Golden, Miss Margaret Reinhart and Miss Wilma Elizabeth Somerville, brides-elect.

Mrs. Robert King presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Allan Weatherholt Jr., Miss Elsa Mae Poling, Miss Ruth Lee Kamen, Mrs. Fred Hetzel and Mrs. Robert MacDonald Bruce, assisted with the serving.

Players Conclude Season

The last meeting of the season of the bridge-playing section of the St. David's Circle of Emmanuel Episcopal church, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Richard R. Sitzler, 748 Washington street. Two tables of bridge were in play. Mrs. Cyril M. Croft and Mrs. Morris L. Barnes were prize winners.

Pre-Nuptial Dinner

Miss Margery Muncaster, 532 Washington street, will entertain at a small pre-nuptial dinner party at 6:30 this evening at the Cumberland Country Club. Those present will be Miss Jane Golden and Miss Margaret Reinhart, brides-elect; and Miss Dolly Golden and Miss Betty Marquis, the brides' attendants.

Patrol To Drill

In preparation for the Ali Ghan Shrine convention to be held in Baltimore, June 27, 28 and 29, the patrol of the Cumberland Shrine Club will have drill maneuvers this evening. The Cumberland patrol will be one of the outstanding patrols to be represented. The captain is John Morgan; first lieutenant, George W. Brown; and second lieutenant, Julius Hast.

To Have Dance

The Pennsylvania Avenue Alumni Association will hold a dance, Monday, June 12, at the Clary Club. Music will be by Jay Van. The committee incides Mary Ellen Wolford, Joseph Ansel, Geraldine Willetts, Raymond Hoyle, Marian Wishmyer, Virgie Eackles, Raymond Knippenberg, Dorothy Matt and Rita Shannon.

Tag Day for Nursery

June 17 has been designated as Tag Day for the Keating Memorial Nursery, Mrs. John L. Reed, vice president, is the chairman, and Miss Katherine Moore, the assistant chairman. Through the cooperation of the public, Tag Day funds will be used toward feeding and clothing needy children throught the Nursery. Those in charge say the public is not fully aware of the fact that the Day Nursery is a most worthy institution, providing not only a means of special care and recreation for children, but clothing, cleanliness and meals. This is a non-sectarian organization. No food is sent out, but any child can receive a meal at the Nursery. As many as ninety children have been taken care of in this way. This is not for adults, only children. Sister Agnes is superintendent of the Nursery, and Sister Charitina and Sister Rosamond are assistants.

Strawberry Festival

Plans have been completed for holding the annual strawberry festival of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church at Oldtown Friday evening.

The grounds and booths will be open for service from 5 o'clock until the last one has been served. Mrs. Lillian Confer is chairman of the festival.

On this same evening at 7 o'clock in the church proper, Harry Vogtmann, former instructor in the Oldtown high school and now teaching at Fort Hill high school, will show pictures and give a talk on, "How To Go to The World's Fair Without It Costing You So Much". The Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of the church, will introduce the speaker.

Also at 8 o'clock the same evening, the children of the Sunday school, choir and the Young Girl's club will present the pageant, "Voices of Gladness". This is the annual Children's day service. Mrs Eberly Summers is chairman of this service. The entire community is invited to attend these three big events this same evening.

Graduates Honored

The graduating class of 1939 was honored Tuesday evening by the Alumnae Association of Girls' Central High School with the annual banquet and dance given at the Clary Club. One hundred guests attended the banquet and 150 couples attended the dance. Jay Van's Orchestra supplied the music.

Entertainers during the dinner were: Frank Shean, accordian; Robert Miller, guitar. A corsage was presented to Mrs. George R. Lindner for being the first member of the association to have a daughter graduate from Girls' Central High.

Mrs. Chester Everline, president of the alumnae association, presided and introduced the toastmaster, Mrs. Alvin Bergeron. Mrs. John R. Wilkinson was chairman of the banquet, and Miss Mary A. Raphel, chairman of the dance.

"Hobo" Party

A "Hobo" party was held Tuesday night at Constitution park by the Sunday school classes of the Second Baptist church. An entertainment program was given by Ellsworth Emerick, Harry Reid, James Merrill, James Brakeall was master of ceremonies. A talk was given by the Rev. Edgar S. Price.

Tag Day for Nursery

June 17 has been designated as Tag Day for the Keating Memorial Nursery, Mrs. John L. Reed, vice president, is the chairman, and Miss Katherine Moore, the assistant chairman. Through the cooperation of the public, Tag Day funds will be used toward feeding and clothing needy children throught the Nursery. Those in charge say the public is not fully aware of the fact that the Day Nursery is a most worthy institution, providing not only a means of special care and recreation for children, but clothing, cleanliness and meals. This is a non-sectarian organization. No food is sent out, but any child can receive a meal at the Nursery. As many as ninety children have been taken care of in this way. This is not for adults, only children. Sister Agnes is superintendent of the Nursery, and Sister Charitina and Sister Rosamond are assistants.

Strawberry Festival

Plans have been completed for holding the annual strawberry festival of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church at Oldtown Friday evening.

The grounds and booths will be open for service from 5 o'clock until the last one has been served. Mrs. Lillian Confer is chairman of the festival.

On this same evening at 7 o'clock in the church proper, Harry Vogtmann, former instructor in the Oldtown high school and now teaching at Fort Hill high school, will show pictures and give a talk on, "How To Go to The World's Fair Without It Costing You So Much". The Rev. James A. Richards, pastor of the church, will introduce the speaker.

Also at 8 o'clock the same evening, the children of the Sunday school, choir and the Young Girl's club will present the pageant, "Voices of Gladness", This is the annual Children's day service. Mrs Eberly Summers is chairman of this service. The entire community is invited to attend these three big events this same evening.

Graduates Honored

The graduating class of 1939 was honored Tuesday evening by the Alumnae Association of Girls' Central High School with the annual banquet and dance given at the Clary Club. One hundred guests attended the banquet and 150 couples attended the dance. Jay Van's Orchestra supplied the music.

Entertainers during the dinner were: Frank Shean, accordian; Robert Miller, guitar. A corsage was presented to Mrs. George R. Lindner for being the first member of the association to have a daughter graduate from Girls' Central High.

Mrs. Chester Everline, president of the alumnae association, presided and introduced the toastmaster, Mrs. Alvin Bergeron. Mrs. John R. Wilkinson was chairman of the banquet, and Miss Mary A. Raphel, chairman of the dance.

"Hobo" Party

A "Hobo" party was held Tuesday night at Constitution park by the Sunday school classes of the Second Baptist church. An entertainment program was given by Ellsworth Emerick, Harry Reid, James Merrill, James Brakeall was master of ceremonies. A talk was given by the Rev. Edgar S. Price.

Hints on Etiquet

Even if the wedding ceremony planned, is very simple, take time to go through a rehearsal. It will eliminate uncertainties and make things go off more smoothly.

The woman who is entertaining house guests will be considered the ideal hostess if she will allow her guests some time to themselves to relax, rest or read. Constant activity is not usually appreciated on a visit.

At the wedding rehearsal only the key words of the service need be spoken to give the proper clues for the action.

When you see the French term "Petits Fours" on the menu, you will know it means fancy biscuits or small iced cakes.

Acquiring Good Table Manners

Influence Your Child To Realize Advantages of Proper Eating Habits

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

One reason why our children are not very ready to respond to our efforts to promote good manners in them is because we give them the impression that we want them to be mannerly just for our own pride and pleasure. We would realize more improvement if we could make them feel it is to their personal advantage to become mannerly. It would be wise if we could instill in a child of 8 or 10 such thoughts as these, as expressed by a youngster of that age:

"I can see now as I never saw before that to have good table manners is to keep from being selfish. It is to give constant thought about the comfort and happiness of others in our presence. When I tip my chair or slouch while sitting at the table, or lean on my elbows or spread them out and take up a lot of room at the table, or crowd the person next to me, or play with the cup or glass, or make noises with them, I disturb others at the table. Refined people want other persons and things about the table to be neat and dainty and quiet. When I drink liquids fast and noisily, take large mouthfuls, or talk with food in my mouth, or bend my head down near the plate as I eat, I am making myself very unpleasant. When I smack my lips, sip soup, or make any kind of unnecessary noise, or when I butter a piece of bread or try to eat it or a sandwich or a large piece of cake without first breaking it, I suggest piggishness.

Watched Mother

"Last evening I watched my mother as she ate dinner. I noticed that when she asked for a second helping, she laid her knife and fork on the side of her plate, and she kept them there when she was not using them. When she buttered her bread she first broke it into small pieces. Small pieces of bread look more dainty than large ones. I can understand why I often make the table cloth about my plate messy, why it is always neat and tidy about mother's plate. Also I can now understand why mother told me one should never use a spoon which had already been used in food to take sugar from a bowl. I can see why she told me never to leave a spoon in a cup or glass, for if I should not be very careful, I might upset the liquid.

"I also notice that my father has good manners. He sits up straight at the table, never slouches in his chair or tips it. He never crosses his knees at the table, never wraps his feet about the legs of the chair, nor puts them on the rounds of the chair nor on the table legs. I want to be big and mannerly like mother and dad."

Youth, Two Sisters Seeks Attendance Record

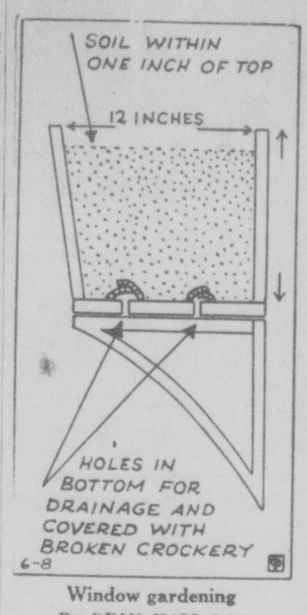
Louisville, Ky., (AP) — Dr. R. S. McPike's children really like to go to school — and they prove it with staggering statistics of perfect attendance records.

Daughter Ollie, 19, was graduated recently from Atherton High School without absence or tardiness in either grade or high schools. Her brother, Ray 17, is nearing graduation in June from Dupont Manual High School with a similar perfect record. Sister Helen, 14, Highland Junior High School senior, hasn't been late or skipped a day of school so far.

When Helen graduates, the three hope to have a total of 36 years of perfect attendance—a record, they claim, for one family. Proud of their achievement, the three children believe "most of the credit belongs to mother and dad." But Ray says some of it was "just plain luck."

"When childhood diseases ganged up on us," he said, "it was generally summertime and you know that was a break."

Today's GARDEN-GRAPH



Window gardening

By DEAN HALL DAY

Window or porch boxes are often the only garden areas available for apartment dwellers. Yet quite an array of plants and flowers can be grown in these box gardens if the proper procedure is followed.

As shown in the illustration, the boxes should be about eight inches deep. A box should be filled with soil to within one inch of the top so it will hold water long enough to permit it to seep slowly down to the roots of the plants. If the soil comes level with the top of the box the water runs off before it properly soaks down to the roots.

To insure good drainage, holes should be bored in the bottom of the box, then covered with broken pieces of crockery to prevent clogging.

The outside of a window or porch box can be painted both for appearance and for preservation, but the inside should be charred to prevent rot. To accomplish this, brush over the inside of the box with paraffin and set a match to it. As soon as the surface oil has burned off turn the box upside down to extinguish the flames. Charring a box in this manner should only be attempted out in the open where there is no danger of the flames spreading.

Champion Snake Killer of Logan Is Not Envied

Logan, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Dewey Vance has at least one claim to distinction which the other folks of isolated Pigeon Branch don't envy him—he's reputed to be the champion snake killer of Logan county.

The rocky, shaly soil of Pigeon Roost branch, far back in the mountains above Sulphur Springs, is just right for snakes, says Dewey, and there's hardly a day when he's tramping the woods he doesn't come back with some rattlers or a snake as an example of his prowess.

Cleaning off some ground near his home, Vance reached into a patch of Linden sprouts near an old stump. Parting the leaves, he noticed a rattler lying coiled ready to strike.

"He didn't strike me, but if he had it would have been too bad," Vance said. "I killed him and found that he was seven and one-half feet long and had twenty-nine rattlers. He must have weighed fifteen pounds."

Vance doesn't believe there will be many snakes in the West Virginia woods this year.

"The woods fires which we had this spring killed hundreds, both the young and old ones," he says.

Tree 80-Feet High Grows on Rock Ledge

Yosemite, Calif., (AP)—Park officials have to keep explaining to visitors how a large pine tree manages to grow on a little ledge in the sheer face of El Capitan, a mighty granite monolith which towers 3,000 feet above the floor of Yosemite valley.

The tree is more than one-third the way up the cliff and surveyors have established it is 80 feet high, though it is impossible to reach it.

The seed was evidently blown on to the ledge more than half a century ago, park officials say, and the necessary nutrition is evidently obtained from the rock and air.

New Sport--Owl Fishing

Talihina, Okla. (AP)—Jim Garvin tossed his baited hook into the Kiamichi river and pulled out a large hoot owl. The bait settled close under the surface near a willow and the owl dived for it.

He never crosses his knees at the table, never wraps his feet about the legs of the chair, nor puts them on the rounds of the chair nor on the table legs. I want to be big and mannerly like mother and dad."

Youth, Two Sisters Seeks Attendance Record

Louisville, Ky., (AP) — Dr. R. S. McPike's children really like to go to school — and they prove it with staggering statistics of perfect attendance records.

Daughter Ollie, 19, was graduated recently from Atherton High School without absence or tardiness in either grade or high schools. Her brother, Ray 17, is nearing graduation in June from Dupont Manual High School with a similar perfect record. Sister Helen, 14, Highland Junior High School senior, hasn't been late or skipped a day of school so far.

When Helen graduates, the three hope to have a total of 36 years of perfect attendance—a record, they claim, for one family. Proud of their achievement, the three children believe "most of the credit belongs to mother and dad." But Ray says some of it was "just plain luck."

"When childhood diseases ganged up on us," he said, "it was generally summertime and you know that was a break."

Today's GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALL DAY

Window or porch boxes are often the only garden areas available for apartment dwellers. Yet quite an array of plants and flowers can be grown in these box gardens if the proper procedure is followed.

As shown in the illustration, the boxes should be about eight inches deep. A box should be filled with soil to within one inch of the top so it will hold water long enough to permit it to seep slowly down to the roots of the plants. If the soil comes level with the top of the box the water runs off before it properly soaks down to the roots.

To insure good drainage, holes should be bored in the bottom of the box, then covered with broken pieces of crockery to prevent clogging.

The outside of a window or porch box can be painted both for appearance and for preservation, but the inside should be charred to prevent rot. To accomplish this, brush over the inside of the box with paraffin and set a match to it. As soon as the surface oil has burned off turn the box upside down to extinguish the flames. Charring a box in this manner should only be attempted out in the open where there is no danger of the flames spreading.

Champion Snake Killer of Logan Is Not Envied

Logan, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Dewey Vance has at least one claim to distinction which the other folks of isolated Pigeon Branch don't envy him—he's reputed to be the champion snake killer of Logan county.

The rocky, shaly soil of Pigeon Roost branch, far back in the mountains above Sulphur Springs, is just right for snakes, says Dewey, and there's hardly a day when he's tramping the woods he doesn't come back with some rattlers or a snake as an example of his prowess.

Cleaning off some ground near his home, Vance reached into a patch of Linden sprouts near an old stump. Parting the leaves, he noticed a rattler lying coiled ready to strike.

"He didn't strike me, but if he had it would have been too bad," Vance said. "I killed him and found that he was seven and one-half feet long and had twenty-nine rattlers. He must have weighed fifteen pounds."

Vance doesn't believe there will be many snakes in the West Virginia woods this year.

"The woods fires which we had this spring killed hundreds, both the young and old ones," he says.

Tree 80-Feet High Grows on Rock Ledge

Yosemite, Calif., (AP)—Park officials have to keep explaining to visitors how a large pine tree manages to grow on a little ledge in the sheer face of El Capitan, a mighty granite monolith which towers 3,000 feet above the floor of Yosemite valley.

The tree is more than one-third the way up the cliff and surveyors have established it is 80 feet high, though it is impossible to reach it.

The seed was evidently blown on to the ledge more than half a century ago, park officials say, and the necessary nutrition is evidently obtained from the rock and air.

New Sport--Owl Fishing

Talihina, Okla. (AP)—Jim Garvin tossed his baited hook into the Kiamichi river and pulled out a large hoot owl. The bait settled close under the surface near a willow and the owl dived for it.

SYNOPSIS

SARAH ANNE MELTON, minister's daughter and close friend of JUDITH DRAKE, daughter of luxury, had a childhood romance with JACK COURTNEY, who attains sudden fame by flying the Pacific.

CHAPTER FIVE

SARAH ANNE hailed her father as she went down the steps of the school. He was walking swiftly, a lean, tall man whose quizzical gray eyes were focused on a traffic light, as though he had to make it. Now he stopped and waited for her.

"The Miller twins are being rushed to the hospital with pneumonia," he explained. "Mostly their mother's nerves, I've a hunch. If they blow their noses, she sends for a doctor. But, anyway, their father called and asked me to hurry."

The Miller twins didn't matter to Sarah Anne. An hour ago she would have been very sorry for the nervous, overwrought mother. Tomorrow morning she might be again. Not just now, at four o'clock on a green and gold afternoon in June.

"Jack comes home tomorrow night," she said. "Isn't it lucky we have an airport? For such a small city it's amazing, but now we all know the reason why. He's flying back, of course."

"Like the boy, don't you?" her father teased.

She laughed and grimaced. "Sort of. He found my monosyllables adequate when I was so timid I couldn't say 'Hello' to most boys."

Jack is coming home, Jack is coming home . . .

To the recurring rhythm of the words she went down the street and opened the wide white gate in the stone wall which surrounded the Drake estate. The terrain was well landscaped with blue spruce and bushes, and a glimpse of riotous gardens far in the rear added brightness. The house was a massive, squatting affair, three stories high, with grilled iron work, and iron lanterns that stood in neat rows across the wide veranda. As Sarah Anne raised the knocker the heavy oak door, which was studded with iron boltheads, opened. A man in blue livery said:

"Miss Judith saw you from the window and asked that you come to her apartment immediately."

That apartment was a restful place, its walls covered with orchid velvet which was drawn at night to shut out sound and sight alike. But now the long windows, in sheer yellow silk, let in the tree-darkened light. The furniture in the sitting room was yellow, too, with a flare of green here and there in a wide cushion for counterpoint, and massive steps which led up to an alcove where the fireplace, a lounge and more chairs waited. They were not yellow. They were green, comfortable, cozy, and a tea table with a flowered tea set, a companion one to Sarah Anne's own, was set before the fire which kept up a pretense of a blaze.

Beyond the sitting room was the bedroom, which was done in white with a touch of blue and rose. Beautiful as the rooms were, Sarah Jane never entered them without being glad for her small, flowered nook under the eaves, in the shadow of the church clock.

"I've ordered tea," Judith greeted her, coming forward in a yellow hostess gown that matched her chairs and tables. "And we've chocolate cakes and crumpets and canapes, all three, because Mother is entertaining something or other in the drawing room. Sit down, and don't say a word until you've swallowed half a cup. You're too excited."

"There, I drank the whole cup!" Sarah Anne said presently. May I talk?" She didn't wait for an answer. "Tomorrow night at eight o'clock Jack drops down from the sky."

"Good! Did he wire you?"

"No, his mother said so."

"There should be some sort of jubilee, don't you think? The town will want its bands out, and of course there's to be a dinner some night next week—the town took it for granted he'd doff his helmet to the new paved roads and the Masonic Temple and postoffice. But tomorrow night . . ."

"He might like to visit with his mother."

"And his old girl. Forgive me, darling. But I've an idea. Why don't you and I fly to meet that ship?"

"We could?"

"Why not? We can follow it in if we can't keep up. Think of greeting him in the clouds with the moon just coming up."

"It's perfectly glorious! If only the night is clear."

It was clear. A few early stars drifted down to the tips of the clouds and the moon, a long way off, looked thin and fragile and loitering. When the silver biplane taxied down the runway at the field, Sarah Anne closed her eyes. She kept them shut until the ship was taking ceiling. She opened them. Now, before she touched earth again, she would see Jack. Odd to let one man, a long-legged, bronzed individual who hadn't thought enough of you even to send postcards, make you so wildly ecstatically happy. Odd—but true.

Up, up, up. On and on. The wind blew their hair back from their eyes and their white dresses merged into the shadows. Then they heard the ship coming, the motors wide. For a moment they watched in admiration, forgetting their purpose in being here. Lights winked from the cabin windows as the great bird came on.

Judith circled to the side and waited, flying slowly as she turned so she would be alongside the passenger plane as it came past.

Now the excitement in Sarah Jane's heart began. She saw the eagerness in Judith's eyes, too. Edith was welcoming home a birdman who had done a good job. But she, Sarah Anne, was bringing greetings to a boy she used to know.

The larger ship was passing. Suppose Jack was on the other side! Suppose he was asleep in his chair!

He was neither. His face appeared at the window and he waved his hand high in welcome. For a moment he did not see who the occupants of the small biplane were. He narrowed his eyes. Someone played a light over the girls in the dusk. He saw their faces, softly, yet clearly. One small, eager, dark. The other vital, framed with shining amber hair.

Some one played a light over the girls in the dusk.

He put the memory away, though he did not know it then. He thought only that it was grand of Sarah Anne to fly to meet him and the other girl must be that one who had telephoned about the endorsement. Drake, her name was Edith, Eunice, something like that. Golly, it would be good to see Sarah Anne.

He wanted to see his mother, too. He hadn't been with her much for a long time. But now, with this record established — though why people thought it was anything to go up in the air about—that was a bad pun, but he hadn't meant to pun at all—he couldn't see—anyway, with this record he should land a fairly good job and be able to give his mother some comforts, maybe a luxury now and then. She had sacrificed for him, though he had tried to make the burden as easy as he could. It was swell to be almost home.

Because there were four bands at the airfield, and a welcoming delegation from the Chamber of Commerce, and a special car draped in colored bunting to convey him to his mother's house, he could only wave to Sarah Anne. But she saw him and her heart became acrobatic and wild. He broke away from the reception committee to come to her, take her hands in his lean brown ones, and smile into the dark eyes.

"Going to be home, Sarah Anne? I'll be over pretty soon."

"I'll be waiting." She remembered Judith then and spoke again. "This is Judith!"

"Judith! Now I have the name. I couldn't think." He grinned at her, too. "I'll see you both."

I'll see you both

That meant nothing at all. But, "I'll be over later" had been magic.

"He'll have to get along without my chaperonage one night," Judith was saying. "I'm going on a swimming party over at Pineville. We're swimming by moonlight and having supper cooked over a fire. You might like to bring him—it's some of the Little Theater group . . ."

"Not tonight," Sarah Anne answered. "Thanks just the same. He'll be tired."

But two hours later she was saying, "Would you like to go on a swimming party? Now, tonight?"

Aged Couple Marries After 67-Year Romance

Bloomington, Ind., (AP) — A 67-year-old romance blossomed here in the marriage of John Webb, 82, and Mrs. Nancy Heltonburg Craycraft, 79.

The two were friends as children. But each married another when grown up. Seven years ago Webb's first wife died. Last January Mrs. Craycraft became a widow.

"Then Nancy became my housekeeper," explained Webb, a retired sawmill operator, "and we got along so well we decided we'd get married."

Huntington Lads Lured by Alaska

Seek Fame and Fortune in the Far North

Huntington, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Two former Marshall College students, members of prominent Huntington families, have turned to the far north to seek fame and fortune.

Gwynn Lytton, 25, son of Mrs. Rose Lytton, and William Prichard, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pritchard, parked their belongings into a new automobile presented them by Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard, and started on the first leg of 5,000 mile trip by auto, boat and train to the interior of Alaska.

"We'll try placer mining for awhile," said Lytton, and if that doesn't work out, we'll try to get into some other business."

"We may try to get jobs teaching school if nothing else turns up," Pritchard said, "but we are both confident we'll make good in Alaska."

Both Lytton and Pritchard emphasized that they were not just taking a trip. "We're going to stay."

The two young men plan to visit Hollywood and the San Francisco fair before selling the automobile in Seattle and taking the boat for Seward, Alaska. From there they will go by train to Anchorage. From there on they'll be on their own.

Injuries Don't Keep This Boy from School

Shady Springs, W. Va., June 7. (AP) —Injuries couldn't keep 14-years-old Billy Simmons from school, because he's the rare boy who likes his studies.

Finishing the eighth grade, Billy announced he intended to keep his attendance record — perfect for eight years—intact through high school.

But last winter the youth ran his bicycle over an embankment to avoid being struck by an automobile.

To keep from missing school became Billy's major problem. His injuries were painful but he heeded them not, and hobbled around his classes.

His parents had to take him school in an automobile.

Dick Tracy—Lights Out

Huntington Lads Lured by Alaska

Seek Fame and Fortune in the Far North

Huntington, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Two former Marshall College students, members of prominent Huntington families, have turned to the far north to seek fame and fortune.

Gwynn Lytton, 25, son of Mrs. Rose Lytton, and William Prichard, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pritchard, parked their belongings into a new automobile presented them by Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard, and started on the first leg of 5,000 mile trip by auto, boat and train to the interior of Alaska.

"We'll try placer mining for awhile," said Lytton, and if that doesn't work out, we'll try to get into some other business."

"We may try to get jobs teaching school if nothing else turns up," Pritchard said, "but we are both confident we'll make good in Alaska."

Both Lytton and Pritchard emphasized that they were not just taking a trip. "We're going to stay."

The two young men plan to visit Hollywood and the San Francisco fair before selling the automobile in Seattle and taking the boat for Seward, Alaska. From there they will go by train to Anchorage. From there on they'll be on their own.

Injuries Don't Keep This Boy from School

Shady Springs, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Injuries couldn't keep 14-years-old Billy Simmons from school, because he's the rare boy who likes his studies.

Finishing the eighth grade, Billy announced he intended to keep his attendance record — perfect for eight years—intact through high school.

But last winter the youth ran his bicycle over an embankment to avoid being struck by an automobile.

To keep from missing school became Billy's major problem. His injuries were painful but he heeded them not, and hobbled around his classes.

His parents had to take him school in an automobile.

Aged Couple Marries After 67-Year Romance

Bloomington, Ind., (AP) — A 67-year-old romance blossomed here in the marriage of John Webb, 82, and Mrs. Nancy Heltonburg Craycraft, 79.

The two were friends as children. But each married another when grown up. Seven years ago Webb's first wife died. Last January Mrs. Craycraft became a widow.

"Then Nancy became my housekeeper," explained Webb, a retired sawmill operator, "and we got along so well we decided we'd get married."

The ideal week-end hostess invites as guests at one time only people she is sure will be congenial.

Home Building Investigation May Have Wide Ramifications in Labor and Business Circles

High building costs, contend some New Deal economists, have been one of the factors retarding a business upswing. Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division in the attorney general's office.

By JACK VINCENT
Central Press Correspondent

Washington, June 7—"Watch from now on!"

That is the word going out today from high New Dealers as they launch their "trust-busting" drive against the home-building and construction industry.

The inquiry, before it is over, may have wide-spread ramifications in both labor and business circles.

Once completed, it also may become the cornerstone of an administration drive to help stem the recession through a nationwide drive for construction of low-cost homes.

It is hoped by some New Dealers that the investigation into the home-building industry will be completed in time to have a big construction boom underway by the time the 1940 election campaign rolls around.

Average Home Too High

While the New Deal has spent millions in slum-clearance programs, President Roosevelt is pictured as believing that the cost of building a home for the average person is still too high.

Some New Deal economists believe that high building costs have been one of the factors retarding a real business upswing.

The department of justice is in charge of the trust-busting drive in the housing field. At the present time, there is no disposition by the department to "get tough." Officially, the department says its hopes that ultimately such an investigation will help every line of the construction industry by creating more work.

The anti-trust investigation into the building industry will touch five principal subjects. They are:

1. Production of building materials.
2. Distribution of building materials.
3. Practices of contractors.
4. Practices of labor.
5. Investigation of local legislative restraints on trade, such as oppressive building codes.

All subjects are to be put under an exhaustive probe to determine whether there exists any factors now restraining trade.

In the long run, it may mean that houses can be put up much cheaper than they are now. One phase of the investigation is to determine whether cheaper building materials are being withheld from the market.

Of particular interest, however, is the probe into labor practices. Both the A. F. of L. and CIO are keeping watchful eyes on it. The building trades are dominated by A. F. of L. unions. As a matter of fact, building trades comprise the federation's strong hold. On the other hand, the CIO has no building trades unions and it is almost certain to make capital of any investigation which hits its rival A. F. of L.

Thurman W. Arnold, head of the anti-trust division in the attorney general's office, in speaking of labor, says:

"Building trades unions participate in . . . policies of restraint and add new restraints of their own.

"Strong Arm Squads"

"In recent years, they have been frequently used as the strong-arm squads for collusive agreements among contractors, refusing to supply labor where the contractors' ring wishes labor withheld. In other cases, unions themselves have refused to permit the use of new products or new processes because of their fear that the new method might make it possible to erect a house with fewer hours of labor than the old.

"Where such a pattern of restraints has resulted in the development of a considerable number of independent contractors who threaten to use non-union labor, some unions have evolved two official scales of wages for the same work—one to be applied in private work awarded to independent contractors and a higher one to be charged on public contracts in which conditions of award require that full labor rates must be paid."

Arnold has placed Corwin Edwards, well-known economist and assistant attorney general in charge of the investigation. And Arnold says:

"Watch him from now on."

Cherry River Navy May Take Women

Ladies' Auxiliary Is Proposed for Spud and Splinter Festival

Richwood, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—The Cherry River Navy, whose motto is "every man an admiral," may put the finishing touches on a completely unorthodox outfit this year by organizing a ladies' auxiliary for the third annual Spud and Splinter Festival, August 17-19.

For three days each year the town pays homage to its two principal products, clothespins and potatoes, and welcomes back for a homecoming the persons who formerly lived in Richwood as well as the 1,700-odd "admirals."

Now it seems the ladies want some recognition, too.

President A. B. Campbell of the festival association said some names already have been mentioned for the proposed organization, among them the "Sea Hags" and "Ladies of the Navy."

The navy already has its flagship, "Clothespin," which turned loose broadside after broadside of clothespins upon festival crowds last year, and each year the admirals select their "sweetheart."

Campbell said the program of previous years probably would be followed, with August 17 as "Nicholas County Day," when the "Potato Queen" will be crowned; August 18 as "Admirals Day" and August 19 as "Lumberjack Day" with contests for woodmen.

All subjects are to be put under an exhaustive probe to determine whether there exists any factors now restraining trade.

In the long run, it may mean that houses can be put up much cheaper than they are now. One phase of the investigation is to determine whether cheaper building materials are being withheld from the market.

Of particular interest, however, is the probe into labor practices. Both the A. F. of L. and CIO are keeping watchful eyes on it. The building trades are dominated by A. F. of L. unions. As a matter of fact, building trades comprise the federation's strong hold. On the other hand, the CIO has no building trades unions and it is almost certain to make capital of any investigation which hits its rival A. F. of L.

Thurman W. Arnold, head of the anti-trust division in the attorney general's office, in speaking of labor, says:

"Building trades unions participate in . . . policies of restraint and add new restraints of their own.

"Strong Arm Squads"

"In recent years, they have been frequently used as the strong-arm squads for collusive agreements among contractors, refusing to supply labor where the contractors' ring wishes labor withheld. In other cases, unions themselves have refused to permit the use of new products or new processes because of their fear that the new method might make it possible to erect a house with fewer hours of labor than the old.

"Where such a pattern of restraints has resulted in the development of a considerable number of independent contractors who threaten to use non-union labor, some unions have evolved two official scales of wages for the same work—one to be applied in private work awarded to independent contractors and a higher one to be charged on public contracts in which conditions of award require that full labor rates must be paid."

Arnold has placed Corwin Edwards, well-known economist and assistant attorney general in charge of the investigation. And Arnold says:

"Watch him from now on."

Cherry River Navy May Take Women

Ladies' Auxiliary Is Proposed for Spud and Splinter Festival

Richwood, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—The Cherry River Navy, whose motto is "every man an admiral," may put the finishing touches on a completely unorthodox outfit this year by organizing a ladies' auxiliary for the third annual Spud and Splinter Festival, August 17-19.

For three days each year the town pays homage to its two principal products, clothespins and potatoes, and welcomes back for a homecoming the persons who formerly lived in Richwood as well as the 1,700-odd "admirals."

Now it seems the ladies want some recognition, too.

President A. B. Campbell of the festival association said some names already have been mentioned for the proposed organization, among them the "Sea Hags" and "Ladies of the Navy."

The navy already has its flagship, "Clothespin," which turned loose broadside after broadside of clothespins upon festival crowds last year, and each year the admirals select their "sweetheart."

Campbell said the program of previous years probably would be followed, with August 17 as "Nicholas County Day," when the "Potato Queen" will be crowned; August 18 as "Admirals Day" and August 19 as "Lumberjack Day" with contests for woodmen.

Yanks Win as DiMaggio Returns to Lineup

New York Downs Chicago White Sox Five to Two

DiMaggio Triples in First Time at Bat; Gomez Wins Fourth Game

Yankees Score Three Runs in Fifth on Errors and Wild Pitch

Chicago, June 7 (AP) — An outfield shakeup which returned Joe DiMaggio to the lineup today put the New York Yankees back in winning form with a 5 to 2 count over the Chicago White Sox.

Making his first appearance in centerfield since being injured April 29, DiMaggio in his first time at bat tripled behind Tommy Henrich's single for New York's initial run.

He got no other hits but in the fifth inning was intentionally walked to fill the bases and scored one of the Yankees' three runs in that frame when Ray Radcliff dropped Bill Dickey's fly. Lefty Thornton Lee made a wild pitch and George Selkirk sent a sacrifice fly to center.

New York's other run was scored by Joe Gordon on a squeeze play in the second inning with Lefty Gomez doing the bunting.

Although forced to retire after the seventh inning because of the heat, Gomez got credit for his fourth victory against two defeats.

Passeau Pitches Cubs To 7 to 1 Victory Over N.Y. Giants

New York, June 7 (AP)—Reaction set in today against the New York Giants after their hitting spree of yesterday and they collected only five safteies off Claude Passeau in losing their series opener to the Chicago Cugs 7 to 1.

The Giants led off in the third with their only run on Burgess Whitehead's triple and Joe Moore's double, but Jimmy Gleeson tied the score for the Cubs with a homer in the fourth and errors helped them to go ahead with two tallies in the fifth and three more in the seventh.

Max Baer's Facial Glamor Missing Since Nova Fight

By JOHN LARDNER
(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, June 7.—Max Baer's wife swooned dead away when she saw him after the Lou Nova fight; his son, aged 2, applied for a separate establishment, and now the movies have instructed Max to spend at least a couple of months getting beautiful again before they can consider exposing the fans to the sight of this once lovely face without selling blinkers with every ticket.

Max has a picture job waiting for him as soon as he gets back in Hedy Lamarr's class. Right now, however, Lamaar is leading by several laps, and Boris Karloff is closing ground with every stride. With a shave and a shine, Karloff could bag Max's job as romeo, or whatever Shakespearian belle it is that they plan to have him play.

Beauty Surgeon's Job, in Reverse

Nova did a perfect beauty surgeon's job on Max, in reverse. Taking the alabaster brow, he tattoed a picture of Claffey's wake across the front of it. Taking each starry eye in turn, he filled it with cement. Moving with artistic zeal down to the nose, he turned this classic feature into a side view of the road up Pike's peak. Proceeding south to Max's mouth, the show piece of the Baer family, he pulled it inside out. Standing off and studying the effect in toto, as artists will, Lou admitted that he might have done better, but not without dynamite.

When Max went home that night, developments were somewhat startling.

"Is dinner ready, Honey?" he asked, and was surprised to see his wife go down without a blow being struck.

The next morning, his infant son took one look at the kisser which he had been accustomed to contemplate with admiration, if not respect, and promptly sent word to the valet to pack his bags.

This business non-plussed the old champ until he went to the mirror to shave. Then he perceived that the job had already been attended to, with a lawnmower.

"This is a pretty bucket of halibut," said Maxie, shying back ten feet like a frightened horse. "What will the boys say in Hollywood?"

The boys in Hollywood, having just studied the air-mailed pictures of Max's pan in the post-Nova stage, took instant measures.

"You still have the skin you love to touch," they wired, "but only about one square inch of it. Grow some more, and keep in touch with us."

Cinch To Succeed Montana

They were consoling Max out at Tony Galento's training camp the other day, with the idea that he might learn to play Bull Montana parts.

"You're a cinch," said Mr. Galento reassuringly. "They ain't had a good gorilla out there since Montana quit."

Mr. Montana, in case you have forgotten, was the actor who made up for the role of gorilla by taking off his hat.

"Your face has indeed got a cirious slant to it, Max," said Mr. Joe Jacobs. "Several slants, in fact. But you don't have to worry about holding your job in the movies. They are still making war pictures out there, and they can save a hell of a lot of dough by dubbing in your face for the battlefield pictures. Clark Gable and three of his chums could hide in that shellhole on the left."

Somehow, this line of conversation, refreshing and inspiring though it was, failed to cheer Mr. Baer up to any noticeable extent. And Mr. Galento did not help matters by mentioning the fact that he himself had once been badly cut up around the face in a fight.

"I looked terrible for a while," said Tony, "but the cuts cleared up and I got my old looks back."

"You did, eh?" said Mr. Baer gloomily. "Well, what happened to them after that?"

"I still got 'em," said Mr. Galento with pride.

"God help us," said Mr. Baer.

At a late hour, however, the toast of Livermore was feeling better about the whole thing.

"You know," said Maxie, "I have been looking around, and I am still the best-looking heavyweight in the world by ten miles. So how can the movies do without me?"

That's a fair question, ably put.

Guldahl Favored, Weeds or No Weeds To Hamper Rivals

But Mowing of Kneehigh Grass Bordering Fairways Will Aid Them

BY BILL BONI

Philadelphia, June 7 (AP)—Robbed of some of his confident, almost arrogant, swagger by what seemed like a trifling incident, big Ralph Guldahl still was firmly entrenched tonight as the popular and betting favorite on the eve of the 43rd National Open golf championship.

When he last played the Spring Mill course in practice rounds, the rough bordering the fairways was kneehigh. On the strength of that, combined with his own ability to play 'em straight down the middle, Guldahl predicted he had an excellent chance of winning his third straight title because his rivals would be scrambling their seconds and thirds out of the weeds.

Today, though, Guldahl discovered that the grass has been cut down to short-hair length, and the champion said he thought it unfair. He feels that there should be a proper reward for accuracy, and that he won't get it if the other stars in the 165-man field can make their shots out of the rough as easily as he can from the fairways.

Don't Affect Betting Odds

But Guldahl's personal feelings didn't affect the betting odds. Those still quoted the Madison (N. J.) pro as top choice at 6-1, with Sam Snead, Henry Picard, Byron Nelson, Harry Cooper and Dick Metz figured to give him the best run for top money of $1,000 and the championship.

Cooper and Nelson boosted their stock considerably by turning in smart final practice-round scores. Cooper was two over par for the 6,786-yard layout with a 71, and Nelson turned in a 72. Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., shot a 70, the best round of the day.

Guldahl, in one of the final threesomes, reported a 72, together with Olin Dutra.

These last trial rounds were played under virtually perfect weather conditions. In spite of that, not one of the stars was able to equal par. Jimmy Hines and Paul Runyan, the P.G.A. champion, equalled Cooper's 71; Al Huske of Dekalb, Ill., and Denny Shute, former P.G.A., and British open titleholder, had 73's and Vic Ghezzi, the veteran Wiffy Cox and Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh went one stroke higher.

Predictions for a winning 72-hole score still hovered around 284. That would be eight over par.

Pigeon Race Won By "Lone Star"

Frostburg, June 7—The Algonquin Pigeon Racing club with headquarters and racing center at Gilmore, this county, flew its yearling bird race Sunday, June 4. The race was flown under hazardous conditions caused by rain storms along the race course from Cincinnati, O., to Allegany county, resulting in the loss of many fine specimens of Racing Homers. A race as disastrous as this one is known to pigeon fanciers as a "smash race." However some birds performed in an outstanding manner.

"Lone Star", a blue bar cock, owned by Alpha Ambrose, Gilmore, won first diploma with an average speed of 1313.92 yards per minute. Second diploma, also captured by Ambrose with a blue check cock, "Railroad Special", with an average speed of 1278.71 yards per minute. "Popeye", a black check cock from "Clear View" loft, owned by G. F. Martens, Frostburg, won third diploma with an average speed of 1099.73 yards per minute. Fourth diploma was won by "Red Oak", a blue bar hen with an average speed of 1086.97 yards per minute. This bird is owned by Francis Hughes of Midland, a new comer, whose birds are setting a torrid pace for the old timers of the club.

The remaining club members places as follows: Joe Myers, 1076.72; McKenzie and Garlitz, 1076.06; John Seib, 1069.44; Roy McKenzie, 1065.05; Elmer Ward, 1029.60; Ben Seib, 1023.09; Boettcher and Ahearn, 1021.31; Arch Cameron, 1001.81; Yates and Yates, 980.85; Thomas Gray, 970.11; John Donald, 901.95; John Myers, 737.54. No bird homed day of the race from the loft of Sam Gardner, Dewey Groves, Alvin Gentry, William Johnson or Thomas and Lauder.

The sixth race of the current season will be flown Sunday, June 11, from Mitchell, Ind., a distance of 400 miles.

Tony Lazzeri Released By Giants After Costly Fumble and Slow Fielding

New York, June 7 (AP)—Tony Lazzeri, the former star infielder of the New York Yankees who in less than two full seasons has been shunted from the Chicago Cubs to the Brooklyn Dodgers to the New York Giants, was given his unconditional release again today.

The veteran made two of the Giants' four errors today, one of the fumbles letting in two runs, and in addition batters twice beat out bunts in his direction.

Lazzeri was signed by the Giants immediately after being turned loose in mid-May by the Dodgers, but did not play for New York until May 26 because of a lengthy attack of tonsilitis.

Lou Chiozza was expected to play third for the Giants tomorrow.

Chuck Klein, Signed Just before Game Time Played Right Field

Boston, June 7 (AP)—Righthander Bill Swift held the Boston Bees to seven scattered hits today while shutting them out, 2-0, in his first start of the season for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The visitors' winning rally came in the fourth when Chuck Klein, the Philadelphia castoff who was signed by the Pirates a few hours before game-time, opened with a single and was batted around by Gus Suhr and Lee Handley for what proved to be the winning run.

Swift drove in the Pirates' other run in the sixth, after Brubaker and Suhr hit safely.

Senators Take Doubleheader From Indians

Washington Scores Seven Runs in Ninth to Win Second Game

Cleveland, June 7 (AP) — The Washington Senators came through with seven runs in the ninth inning to win a night cap from the Cleveland Indians 13 to 9 and sweep a double bill. Two home runs by Roberto Estalella helped the Nats to a 10 to 4 victory in the opener.

James Bloodworth, Nat infielder came to bat for Masterson with two on base in that final inning. He singled and scored Cecil Travis. Then the Nats put together two more singles and a triple by Travis to score six more runs.

The double-header saw an outburst of circuit clouts. In addition to Estalella's first game homer in the fifth, of the first game with one man on and the other in the sixth with the bases empty. Lewis got one for Washington in the seventh of the second game.

Jeff Heath hit two Indian homers, one in the first and one in the second game and Bruce Campbell produced a third for the Indians in the nightcap.

Post's Hold S. E. League Lead As Keegan's Move Into Runner-Up Berth

King's defeated the Trinity M. E. and the Post's defeated the Lacy's 9-4 on the Penn Avenue field, while the Candy Kitchen topped the Liberty Dairy 4-3 and Keegan's won from Royal Crown 5 to 4 on the Taylor Tinplate field in South End Booster League games yesterday. The Post's-Lacy's battle was featured by the starting of a brother rivalry on the mound with A. Weltman hurling for the Posts and G. Weltman toeing the slab for the Lacy's. Both gave way to relief hurlers. Earl Robinette was the big gun in the Post's attack accounting for five of the winning runs and playing a sensational game afield.

Pete Reynolds had a homer for the Lacy's in the fourth with a mate aboard. The victory enabled Post's to keep its one game lead.

Keegan's moved into second place with its victory over the Royal Crown crew. Pannone's two errors in the sixth caused the downfall of the Crowns after Campbell had limited the winners to two hits. All the Keegan runs were scored on errors.

Harold Fraley pitched four-hit ball to win over Liberty Dairy, while Swartley of the Dairy crew was limiting the Candy Kitchen batsmen to the same number only to lose.

Earl Nixon's single in the seventh drove in the winning runs for King's in their victory over the Trinity team. Sam Brady of the King's and Gene Howell of the Trinity had homers.

THE OPEN PARADE

Philadelphia C. C., Philadelphia, June 8—Led by 16-year-old Stockton Rodgers of Florida shortly after the dewy dawn, the Open Golf parade gets under way.

Who are the members of this big cast facing the 6,800 yards of rolling sweep? They cover the water hazards of the map from California to Massachusetts — from Maine to Texas—from Florida to Oregon.

It might be that you'd like to meet a few of them as they maren away from the first tee on their opening hike, headed for the stretch run late Saturday afternoon:

RALPH GULDAHL — Age 27; height, 6 feet 1; weight, 210. Texas born, Viking descent; dark hair, round face; quit golf to make a living, borrowed clubs and came back. Amazing example of the three big Cs: Confidence, Concentration, Control. Round-shouldered, careful, deliberate—as easy to ruffle as the Rockies. No weak shot from driver to putter in his bag. Odds 6 to 1.

SAMMY SNEAD—Age 26; 6 feet; weight, 175; all-around athlete in West Virginia; hill-billy entry; quiet, pleasant type, half-shy. One of the longest of the hitters with flatter arc into the ball; capable of extremely brilliant play; lacks concentration of Guldahl at times; a crowd pleaser—overdue for a major title. Could use more cut on his pitches to the green. His flatter trajectory on longer shots doesn't help with the more lofted irons. Odds 8 to 1.

BYRON NELSON—Age 27; height 6 feet; weight 180—another Texan. Sandy-haired; aggressive mood under fire; one of the best of the wooden club players; could use more calmness or philosophy after bad shot. The Marines couldn't make him quit—always dangerous. Watch him handle driver, brassie or spoon. One of the top birdie shooters. Odds 8 to 1.

HENRY PICARD—Age 31; height, 6 feet 1; weight, 185; new Met champion; a grand swinger and fine all-around golfer, inclined at times to get discouraged against bad breaks; on the quiet side, can play every shot, but could use more of Guldahl's or Hagen's confidence in himself; Massachusetts born and South Carolina trained. Now known as the Hershey Hurricane. Odds 10 to 1.

ED DUDLEY—Age 30; height, 6 feet 1; weight, 190 pounds. Georgia born—pro at the Philadelphia Country Club. One of golf's greatest swingers and stylists; quick to smile, everybody likes him. At times he doesn't seem to care much whether he wins or loses; could sink his teeth deeper into his play; a golfer who should have gone further, but who is still a grand golfer and a grand fellow. (Get those teeth into it, Ed, and hustle a little harder.) Odds 14 to 1.

DICK METZ — Age 30, 6 feet; weight, 17'. The motion picture face of golf pro at Albert Lasker's Mill Stream course, Chicago; biggest money winner of year. Smart, keen and always a factor; one of the best with any brand of wood; good enough to win, with any breaks. Odds 14 to 1.

GENE SARAZEN—Age 37; 5 feet 8; weight, 176; facing his twentieth successive Open test. Connecticut farmer; winner of United States and British Opens, also P. G. A. champion. Arkansas born. Runner-up in recent Metropolitan after double tie with Picard; cool, smart, straight, none too long; magnificent around the greens; could use extra yardage off tea, but spoon play offsets loss of driving length. Odds 14 to 1.

HARRY COOPER — Age 35; height 5 feet 8½; weight 165—the hard luck man of golf; should have won before; lowest average scorer in United States Opens over many years; no one is straighter; one of the best of the putters; at times takes bad breaks too much to heart; his foot action something to copy; just won Goodall round robin; back on his game. Odds 8 to 1.

HORTON SMITH—Age 31; height 6 feet 2; weight, 153. Lean and willowy, full of class; Missouri born; a sensation nine or ten years ago, when he mopped up from one ocean to another; quiet, a trifle shy, and one of the greatest putters of all time. Odds 20 to 1.

BEN HOGAN—Age 27; height, 5 feet 10; weight, 150. Texas born; one of the longer hitters and one of the leading younger stars, willing to practice four hours a day at every chance; ambitious, with flashes of brilliancy; gets more distance out of his poundage than any other entry. Odds 12 to 1.

JOHNNY REVOLTA — Age 28; height, 6 feet; weight, 170; from Wisconsin; once wore mop of hair deeper than any rough—marvelous bunker and chip shot player—among the best of putters, he lost recent big tournament by 6-putting one green on short nole for an 8. It won't happen again—always has a chance. Odds 14 to 1.

LAWSON LITTLE—Age 29 — five feet 10—weight 175 pounds—double amateur champion of U. S. and Great Britain—one of the longer hitters—as pro has never quite gotten winning touch around the greens he knew as an amateur avalanche. Odds 15 to 1.

BILLY BURKE—Age 36—height 5 feet 10—weight 176—steadier thran two clocks—always out there shooting—fine putter—one of the best of the veteran campaigners. Odds 40 to 1.

JIMMY HINES—Age 32—height 6 feet 1—weight—178—ex-Met champion—Lakeville entry—fine, free swinger—close up at Denver's Open test. Odds 15 to 1.

CRAIG WOOD—Age 33—height 6 feet —weight 195—long hitter — capable of brilliant golf—the hope of Winged Foot—improved putting has improved his chance. Odds 15 to 1.

WEE BOBBY CRUICKSHANK—Age 45; height, 5 feet 5; weight, 150. Soldier, gentleman, scholar, fisherman and golfer — one of Scotland's finest athletes before he spent four years with the Black Watch in the World war; has come within ace of winning three United States Opens; close to being the top of them all for everything it takes to make a man. Odds 40 to 1.

PAUL RUNYAN—Age 31; height, 5 feet 7; weight, 155 pounds; P. G. A. champion. Arkansas born. Runner-up in recent Metropolitan after double tie with Picard; cool, smart, straight, none too long; magnificent around the greens; could use extra yardage off tea, but spoon play offsets loss of driving length. Odds 14 to 1.

OLIN DUTRA—Age 38; 6 feet 2; weight, 211. Black-haired Californian, winner of the Open at Merion; has faith in Pennsylvania turf; one of the best allaround golfers, who also could use more determination with the game he has. That word "determination" is also a big thing in golf. Good enough to win again if he plays his game and fights it out. Odds 15 to 1.

TOMMY ARMOUR — Age 43; 6 feet; weight, 175. The Silver Scot—mentally one of the most brilliant men in sport, with a tongue sharper than a Damascus blade; winner of United States and British Opens, also P. G. R.; a master stylist with any club; one of the great teachers; afflicted by jitters now around the greens, jitters or the yips; the greatest pair of hands in golf, but don't get him into an argument. Odds 30 to 1.

'Dream Game' Of Baseball Will Be Played on Monday

Collins-Wagner To Choose Up Sides for Climax Game of Centennial

Stars of Several Teams To Make Up Teams In Contest

New York, June 7 (AP)—Baseball's "dream game" will be played at the climax of the baseball centennial celebration at Cooperstown, N. Y. Monday.

On the diamond devised by Abner Doubleday when he originated the game 100 years ago, ranking stars of the National and American League will choose up sides and go to it.

The major league chapter winds up the heydey of baseball which includes the formal opening and dedication of the national baseball museum and hall of fame and the dedication of baseball's birthplace.

The 11 living members of baseball's hall of fame will be there. So will 30-odd current stars of the big leagues.

Eddie Collins, one of the diamond's immortals, now vice president of the Boston Red Sox, will choose up one team. Old Honus Wagner, still coaching the Pittsburgh Pirates, will pick the other.

To Be Scrambled Lineup

Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, will lead a player delegation of Mel Ott, the 1938 National League home run champion; shortstop Bill Jurges and southpaw Carl Hubbell.

Thus, after the choose up, Hubbell may be pitching to Ott, with Arndt Jorgens, Yankee catcher, behind the bat. It will be that scrambled.

The Cubs will send manager Gabby Hartnett, Billy Herman, Stan Hack and Dizzy Dean. Dolph Camilli, the home run smasher and "Cookie" Lavagetto will represent the Dodgers. Old Syl Johnson, dean of the pitchers and Murray Arnovich, National League hitting pace maker, will be there for the Phils.

The Cards will contribute slugger Joe Medwick and will name another man in place of Pepper Martin, now injured, who originally was slated to participate. The Cincinnati representatives will be Johnny Vander Meer, double no-hit pitching star, and Ernie Lombardi, National league's "most valuable player" last year.

Arky Vaughan, Paul Waner and, of course, Honus Wagner, will be on deck for the Pirates. The Boston Bees also will name two representatives.

Yanks Win as DiMaggio Returns to Lineup

New York Downs Chicago White Sox Five to Two

Yankees Score Three Runs in Fifth on Errors and Wild Pitch

Chicago, June 7 (AP) — An outfield shakeup which returned Joe DiMaggio to the lineup today put the New York Yankees back in winning form with a 5 to 2 count over the Chicago White Sox.

Making his first appearance in centerfield since being injured April 29, DiMaggio in his first time at bat tripled behind Tommy Henrich's single for New York's initial run.

He got no other hits but in the fifth inning was intentionally walked to fill the bases and scored one of the Yankees' three runs in that frame when Ray Radcliff dropped Bill Dickey's fly. Lefty Thornton Lee made a wild pitch and George Selkirk sent a sacrifice fly to center.

New York's other run was scored by Joe Gordon on a squeeze play in the second inning with Lefty Gomez doing the bunting.

Although forced to retire after the seventh inning because of the heat, Gomez got credit for his fourth victory against two defeats.

Passeau Pitches Cubs To 7 to 1 Victory Over N.Y. Giants

New York, June 7 (AP)—Reaction set in today against the New York Giants after their hitting spree of yesterday and they collected only five safeties off Claude Passeau in losing their series opener to the Chicago Cugs 7 to 1.

The Giants led off in the third with their only run on Burgess Whitehead's triple and Joe Moore's double, but Jimmy Gleeson tied the score for the Cubs with a homer in the fourth and errors helped them to go ahead with two tallies in the fifth and three more in the seventh.

Max Baer's Facial Glamor Missing Since Nova Fight

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

New York, June 7.—Max Baer's wife swooned dead away when she saw him after the Lou Nova fight; his son, aged 2, applied for a separate establishment, and now the movies have instructed Max to spend at least a couple of months getting beautiful again before they can consider exposing the fans to the sight of this once lovely face without selling blinkers with every ticket.

Max has a picture job waiting for him as soon as he gets back in Hedy Lamarr's class. Right now, however, Lamaar is leading by several laps, and Boris Karloff is closing ground with every stride. With a shave and a shine, Karloff could bag Max's job as romeo, or whatever Shakespearian belle it is that they plan to have him play.

Beauty Surgeon's Job, in Reverse

Nova did a perfect beauty surgeon's job on Max, in reverse. Taking the alabaster brow, he tattoed a picture of Claffey's wake across the front of it. Taking each starry eye in turn, he filled it with cement. Moving with artistic zeal down to the nose, he turned this classic feature into a side view of the road up Pike's peak. Proceeding south to Max's mouth, the show piece of the Baer family, he pulled it inside out. Standing off and studying the effect in toto, as artists will, Lou admitted that he might have done better, but not without dynamite.

When Max went home that night, developments were somewhat startling.

"Is dinner ready, Honey?" he asked, and was surprised to see his wife go down without a blow being struck.

The next morning, his infant son took one look at the kisser which he had been accustomed to contemplate with admiration, if not respect, and promptly sent word to the valet to pack his bags.

This business non-plussed the old champ until he went to the mirror to shave. Then he perceived that the job had already been attended to, with a lawnmower.

"This is a pretty bucket of halibut," said Maxie, shying back ten feet like a frightened horse. "What will the boys say in Hollywood?"

The boys in Hollywood, having just studied the air-mailed pictures of Max's pan in the post-Nova stage, took instant measures.

"You still have the skin you love to touch," they wired, "but only about one square inch of it. Grow some more, and keep in touch with us."

Cinch To Succeed Montana

They were consoling Max out at Tony Galento's training camp the other day, with the idea that he might learn to play Bull Montana parts.

"You're a cinch," said Mr. Galento reassuringly. "They ain't had a good gorilla out there since Montana quit."

Mr. Montana, in case you have forgotten, was the actor who made up for the role of gorilla by taking off his hat.

"Your face has indeed got a cirious slant to it, Max," said Mr. Joe Jacobs. "Several slants, in fact. But you don't have to worry about holding your job in the movies. They are still making war pictures out there, and they can save a hell of a lot of dough by dubbing in your face for the battlefield pictures. Clark Gable and three of his chums could hide in that shellhole on the left."

Somehow, this line of conversation, refreshing and inspiring though it was, failed to cheer Mr. Baer up to any noticeable extent. And Mr. Galento did not help matters by mentioning the fact that he himself had once been badly cut up around the face in a fight.

"I looked terrible for a while," said Tony, "but the cuts cleared up and I got my old looks back."

"You did, eh?" said Mr. Baer gloomily. "Well, what happened to them after that?"

"I still got 'em," said Mr. Galento with pride.

"God help us," said Mr. Baer.

At a late hour, however, the toast of Livermore was feeling better about the whole thing.

"You know," said Maxie, "I have been looking around, and I am still the best-looking heavyweight in the world by ten miles. So how can the movies do without me?"

That's a fair question, ably put.

Guldahl Favored, Weeds or No Weeds To Hamper Rivals

BY BILL BONI

Philadelphia, June 7 (AP)—Robbed of some of his confident, almost arrogant, swagger by what seemed like a trifling incident, big Ralph Guldahl still was firmly entrenched tonight as the popular and betting favorite on the eve of the 43rd National Open golf championship.

When he last played the Spring Mill course in practice rounds, the rough bordering the fairways was kneehigh. On the strength of that, combined with his own ability to play 'em straight down the middle, Guldahl predicted he had an excellent chance of winning his third straight title because his rivals would be scrambling their seconds and thirds out of the weeds.

Today, though, Guldahl discovered that the grass has been cut down to short-hair length, and the champion said he thought it unfair. He feels that there should be a proper reward for accuracy, and that he won't get it if the other stars in the 165-man field can make their shots out of the rough as easily as he can from the fairways.

Don't Affect Betting Odds

But Guldahl's personal feelings didn't affect the betting odds. Those still quoted the Madison (N. J.) pro as top choice at 6-1, with Sam Snead, Henry Picard, Byron Nelson, Harry Cooper and Dick Metz figured to give him the best run for top money of $1,000 and the championship.

Cooper and Nelson boosted their stock considerably by turning in smart final practice-round scores. Cooper was two over par for the 6,786-yard layout with a 71, and Nelson turned in a 72. Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., shot a 70, the best round of the day.

Guldahl, in one of the final threesomes, reported a 72, together with Olin Dutra.

These last trial rounds were played under virtually perfect weather conditions. In spite of that not one of the stars was able to equal par. Jimmy Hines and Paul Runyan, the P.G.A. champion, equalled Cooper's 71; Al Huske of Dekalb, Ill., and Denny Shute, former P.G.A., and British open titleholder, had 73's and Vic Ghezzi, the veteran Wiffy Cox and Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh went one stroke higher.

Predictions for a winning 72-hole score still hovered around 284. That would be eight over par.

Pigeon Race Won By "Lone Star"

Frostburg, June 7—The Algonquin Pigeon Racing club with headquarters and racing center at Gilmore, this county, flew its yearling bird race Sunday, June 4. The race was flown under hazardous conditions caused by rain storms along the race course from Cincinnati, O., to Allegany county, resulting in the loss of many fine specimens of Racing Homers. A race as disastrous as this one is known to pigeon fanciers as a "smash race." However some birds performed in an outstanding manner.

"Lone Star", a blue bar cock, owned by Alpha Ambrose, Gilmore, won first diploma with an average speed of 1313.92 yards per minute. Second diploma, also captured by Ambrose with a blue check cock, "Railroad Special", with an average speed of 1278.71 yards per minute. "Popeye", a black check cock from "Clear View" loft, owned by G. F. Martens, Frostburg, won third diploma with an average speed of 1099.73 yards per minute. Fourth diploma was won by "Red Oak", a blue bar hen with an average speed of 1086.97 yards per minute. This bird is owned by Francis Hughes of Midland, a new comer, whose birds are setting a torrid pace for the old timers of the club.

The remaining club members places as follows: Joe Myers, 1076.72; McKenzie and Garlitz, 1076.06; John Seib, 1069.44; Roy McKenzie, 1065.05; Elmer Ward, 1029.60; Ben Seib, 1023.09; Boettcher and Ahearn, 1021.31; Arch Cameron, 1001.81; Yates and Yates, 980.85; Thomas Gray, 970.11; John Donald, 901.95; John Myers, 737.54. No bird homed day of the race from the loft of Sam Gardner, Dewey Groves, Alvin Gentry, William Johnson or Thomas and Lauder.

The sixth race of the current season will be flown Sunday, June 11, from Mitchell, Ind., a distance of 400 miles.

Tony Lazzeri Released By Giants After Costly Fumble and Slow Fielding

New York, June 7 (AP)—Tony Lazzeri, the former star infielder of the New York Yankees who in less than two full seasons has been shunted from the Chicago Cubs to the Brooklyn Dodgers to the New York Giants, was given his unconditional release again today.

The veteran made two of the Giants' four errors today, one of the fumbles letting in two runs, and in addition batters twice beat out bunts in his direction.

Lazzeri was signed by the Giants immediately after being turned loose in mid-May by the Dodgers, but did not play for New York until May 26 because of a lengthy attack of tonsilitis.

Lou Chiozza was expected to play third for the Giants tomorrow.

Chuck Klein, Signed Just before Game Time Played Right Field

Boston, June 7 (AP)—Righthander Bill Swift held the Boston Bees to seven scattered hits today while shutting them out, 2-0, in his first start of the season for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The visitors' winning rally came in the fourth when Chuck Klein, the Philadelphia castoff who was signed by the Pirates a few hours before game-time, opened with a single and was batted around by Gus Suhr and Lee Handley for what proved to be the winning run.

Swift drove in the Pirates' other run in the sixth, after Brubaker and Suhr hit safely.

Washington Scores Seven Runs in Ninth to Win Second Game

Cleveland, June 7 (AP) — The Washington Senators came through with seven runs in the ninth inning to win a night cap from the Cleveland Indians 13 to 9 and sweep a double bill. Two home runs by Roberto Estalella helped the Nats to a 10 to 4 victory in the opener.

James Bloodworth, Nat infielder came to bat for Masterson with two on base in that final inning. He singled and scored Cecil Travis. Then the Nats put together two more singles and a triple by Travis to score six more runs.

The double-header saw an outburst of circuit clouts. In addition to Estalella's first game homer in the fifth, of the first game with one man on and the other in the sixth with the bases empty, Lewis got one for Washington in the seventh of the second game.

Jeff Heath hit two Indian homers, one in the first and one in the second game and Bruce Campbell produced a third for the Indians in the nightcap.

Post's Hold S. E. League Lead As Keegan's Move Into Runner-Up Berth

King's defeated the Trinity M. E. and the Post's defeated the Lacy's 9-4 on the Penn Avenue field, while the Candy Kitchen topped the Liberty Dairy 4-3 and Keegan's won from Royal Crown 5 to 4 on the Taylor Tinplate field in South End Booster League games yesterday. The Post's-Lacy's battle was featured by the starting of a brother rivalry on the mound with A. Weltman hurling for the Posts and G. Weltman toeing the slab for the Lacy's. Both gave way to relief hurlers. Earl Robinette was the big gun in the Post's attack accounting for five of the winning runs and playing a sensational game afield.

Pete Reynolds had a homer for the Lacy's in the fourth with a mate aboard. The victory enabled Post's to keep its one game lead.

Keegan's moved into second place with its victory over the Royal Crown crew. Pannone's two errors in the sixth caused the downfall of the Crowns after Campbell had limited the winners to two hits. All the Keegan runs were scored on errors.

Harold Fraley pitched four-hit ball to win over Liberty Dairy, while Swartley of the Dairy crew was limiting the Candy Kitchen batsmen to the same number only to lose.

Earl Nixon's single in the seventh drove in the winning runs for King's in their victory over the Trinity team. Sam Brady of the King's and Gene Howell of the Trinity had homers.

THE OPEN PARADE

Philadelphia C. C., Philadelphia, June 8—Led by 16-year-old Stockton Rodgers of Florida shortly after the dewy dawn, the Open Golf parade gets under way.

Who are the members of this big cast facing the 6,800 yards of rolling sweep? They cover the water hazards of the map from California to Massachusetts — from Maine to Texas—from Florida to Oregon.

It might be that you'd like to meet a few of them as they maren away from the first tee on their opening hike, headed for the stretch run late Saturday afternoon:

RALPH GULDAHL — Age 27; height, 6 feet 1; weight, 210. Texas born, Viking descent; dark hair, round face; quit golf to make a living, borrowed clubs and came back. Amazing example of the three big Cs: Confidence, Concentration, Control. Round-shouldered, careful, deliberate—as easy to ruffle as the Rockies. No weak shot from driver to putter in his bag. Odds 6 to 1.

SAMMY SNEAD—Age 26; 6 feet; weight, 175; all-around athlete in West Virginia; hill-billy entry; quiet, pleasant type, half-shy. One of the longest of the hitters with flatter arc into the ball; capable of extremely brilliant play; lacks concentration of Guldahl at times; a crowd pleaser—overdue for a major title. Could use more cut on his pitches to the green. His flatter trajectory on longer shots doesn't help with the more lofted irons. Odds 8 to 1.

BYRON NELSON—Age 27; height 6 feet; weight 180—another Texan. Sandy-haired; aggressive mood under fire; one of the best of the wooden club players; could use more calmness or philosophy after bad shot. The Marines couldn't make him quit—always dangerous. Watch him handle driver, brassie or spoon. One of the top birdie shooters. Odds 8 to 1.

HENRY PICARD—Age 31; height, 6 feet 1; weight, 185; new Met champion; a grand swinger and fine all-around golfer, inclined at times to get discouraged against bad breaks; on the quiet side, can play every shot, but could use more of Guldahl's or Hagen's confidence in himself; Massachusetts born and South Carolina trained. Now known as the Hershey Hurricane. Odds 10 to 1.

ED DUDLEY—Age 30; height, 6 feet 1; weight, 190 pounds. Georgia born—pro at the Philadelphia Country Club. One of golf's greatest swingers and stylists; quick to smile, everybody likes him. At times he doesn't seem to care much whether he wins or loses; could sink his teeth deeper into his play; a golfer who should have gone further, but who is still a grand golfer and a grand fellow. (Get those teeth into it, Ed, and hustle a little harder.) Odds 14 to 1.

DICK METZ — Age 30, 6 feet; weight, 17'. The motion picture face of golf pro at Albert Lasker's Mill Stream course, Chicago; biggest money winner of year. Smart, keen and always a factor; one of the best with any brand of wood; good enough to win, with any breaks. Odds 14 to 1.

GENE SARAZEN—Age 37; 5 feet 8; weight, 176; facing his twentieth successive Open test. Connecticut farmer; winner of United States and British Opens, also P. G. A. Caddie when he was 10. Italian parentage. Smart, keen, alert—fastest player in the field; great stretch runner; finds concentration harder every year, especially through 72 holes; almost sure to have one or two spectacular rounds; one of the most colorful of all the entries. Odds 20 to 1.

OLIN DUTRA—Age 38; 6 feet 2; weight, 211. Black-haired Californian, winner of the Open at Merion; has faith in Pennsylvania turf; one of the best allaround golfers, who also could use more determination with the game he has. That word "determination" is also a big thing in golf. Good enough to win again if he plays his game and fights it out. Odds 15 to 1.

TOMMY ARMOUR — Age 43; 6 feet; weight, 175. The Silver Scot—mentally one of the most brilliant men in sport, with a tongue sharper than a Damascus blade; winner of United States and British Opens, also P. G. R.; a master stylist with any club; one of the great teachers; afflicted by jitters now around the greens, jitters or the yips; the greatest pair of hands in golf, but don't get him into an argument. Odds 30 to 1.

WEE BOBBY CRUICKSHANK—Age 45; height, 5 feet 5; weight, 150. Soldier, gentleman, scholar, fisherman and golfer — one of Scotland's finest athletes before he spent four years with the Black Watch in the World war; has come within ace of winning three United States Opens; close to being the top of them all for everything it takes to make a man. Odds 40 to 1.

PAUL RUNYAN—Age 31; height, 5 feet 7; weight, 155 pounds; P. G. A. champion. Arkansas born. Runner-up in recent Metropolitan after double tie with Picard; cool, smart, straight, none too long; magnificent around the greens; could use extra yardage off tea, but spoon play offsets loss of driving length. Odds 14 to 1.

HARRY COOPER — Age 35; height 5 feet 8½; weight 165—the hard luck man of golf; should have won before; lowest average scorer in United States Opens over many years; no one is straighter; one of the best of the putters; at times takes bad breaks too much to heart; his foot action something to copy; just won Goodall round robin; back on his game. Odds 8 to 1.

HORTON SMITH—Age 31; height 6 feet 2; weight, 153. Lean and willowy, full of class; Missouri born; a sensation nine or ten years ago, when he mopped up from one ocean to another; quiet, a trifle shy, and one of the greatest putters of all time. Odds 20 to 1.

BEN HOGAN—Age 27; height, 5 feet 10; weight, 150. Texas born; one of the longer hitters and one of the leading younger stars, willing to practice four hours a day at every chance; ambitious, with flashes of brilliancy; gets more distance out of his poundage than any other entry. Odds 12 to 1.

JOHNNY REVOLTA — Age 28; height, 6 feet; weight, 170; from Wisconsin; once wore mop of hair deeper than any rough—marvelous bunker and chip shot player—among the best of putters, he lost recent big tournament by 6-putting one green on short hole for an 8. It won't happen again—always has a chance. Odds 14 to 1.

LAWSON LITTLE—Age 29 — five feet 10—weight 175 pounds—double amateur champion of U. S. and Great Britain—one of the longer hitters—as pro has never quite gotten winning touch around the greens he knew as an amateur avalanche. Odds 15 to 1.

BILLY BURKE—Age 36—height 5 feet 10—weight 176—steadier thran two clocks—always out there shooting—fine putter—one of the best of the veteran campaigners. Odds 40 to 1.

JIMMY HINES—Age 32—height 6 feet 1—weight—178—ex-Met champion—Lakeville entry—fine, free swinger—close up at Denver's Open test. Odds 15 to 1.

CRAIG WOOD—Age 33—height 6 feet —weight 195—long hitter — capable of brillant golf—the hope of Winged Foot—improved putting has improved his chance. Odds 15 to 1.

'Dream Game' Of Baseball Will Be Played on Monday

Collins-Wagner To Choose Up Sides for Climax Game of Centennial

Stars of Several Teams To Make Up Teams In Contest

New York, June 7. (AP)—Baseball's "dream game" will be played at the climax of the baseball centennial celebration at Cooperstown, N. Y. Monday.

On the diamond devised by Abner Doubleday when he originated the game 100 years ago, ranking stars of the National and American League will choose up sides and go to it.

The major league chapter winds up the heydey of baseball which includes the formal opening and dedication of the national baseball museum and hall of fame and the dedication of baseball's birthplace.

The 11 living members of baseball's hall of fame will be there. So will 30-odd current stars of the big leagues.

Eddie Collins, one of the diamond's immortals, now vice president of the Boston Red Sox, will choose up one team. Old Honus Wagner, still coaching the Pittsburgh Pirates, will pick the other.

To Be Scrambled Lineup

Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, will lead a player delegation of Mel Ott, the 1938 National League home run champion; shortstop Bill Jurges and southpaw Carl Hubbell.

Thus, after the choose up, Hubbell may be pitching to Ott, with Arndt Jorgens, Yankee catcher, behind the bat. It will be that scrambled.

The Cubs will send manager Gabby Hartnett, Billy Herman, Stan Hack and Dizzy Dean. Dolph Camilli, the home run smasher and "Cookie" Lavagetto will represent the Dodgers. Old Syl Johnson, dean of the pitchers and Murray Arnovich, National League hitting pace maker, will be there for the Phils.

The Cards will contribute slugger Joe Medwick and will name another man in place of Pepper Martin, now injured, who originally was slated to participate. The Cincinnati representatives will be Johnny Vander Meer, double no-hit pitching star, and Ernie Lombardi, National league's "most valuable player" last year.

Arky Vaughan, Paul Waner and, of course, Honus Wagner, will be on deck for the Pirates. The Boston Bees also will name two representatives.

Dun Lucky Sets Charles Town Track Record

Romney Royal and James Pal Repeat With Old Stand By

Smallest Daily Double of Meeting Brings only $8.80 Return

Charles Town, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—Ewart Johnson's Dun Lucky set a new mile and a quarter track record today, speeding home in the feature sixth race in 2.05 3-5 to bring his owner $800 and his backers $4.00 for their $2 winning tickets.

Dun Lucky, an even money favorite, stepped into the lead in the first sprint from the post and there wasn't a horse in the field fast enough to challenge his record-breaking pace.

Jinneal tried hard to catch him, and so did Happy Road, but the best they could do was to finish second and third respectively.

The smallest daily double of the meeting, $8.50, was paid on Fernbrake's victory in the second race and Stand By's in the third.

Stand By, a 13-year-old gelding owned by E. H. Titmus Jr., scored his second victory of the meeting by today's triumph. He covered the Charles Town course in the good time of 1.16 1-5.

The results:

FIRST—White Sweets, $8.40, $5.40, $4.40; Boulder Dam, $6.00, $3.60; Duchess Del, $5.20.

SECOND—Fernbrake, $4.00, $3.20, $2.40; Asterisk, $9.20, $5.80; Aster Princess, $2.60.

THIRD—Stand By, $5.60, $3.00, $2.60; Small Change, $4.00, $3.20; Tuleyries Star, $4.00.

FOURTH—National, $7.80, $4.60, $3.60; Centermarch, $5.40, $4.20; Radial, $18.20.

FIFTH—Romney Royal, $12.80, $6.60, $5.40; Lady Buck, $4.20, $3.20; Mad Foot $5.60.

SIXTH—Dun Lucky, $4.00, $3.60, $3.00; Jinneal, $9.40, $4.20; Happy Road, $4.40.

SEVENTH—James Pal, $7.20, $3.40, $2.60; Ivonia, $3.60, $2.80; Ladys Favor, $2.80.

EIGHTH—War Rumor, $14.40, $8.40, $5.80; Best Policy, $17.40, $10.00; Morvim, $5.60.

CHARLES TOWN SCRATCHES

FIRST RACE—Chessie, Double On Sea, Mr. Mex, Easter Herald, Dolled Up, Beaufast.

SECOND—Kissin Kid, Ladette, Prairie Man, Some Groucher, Herlero, Margie Wrack.

THIRD—Goodworth, Judith B, Winnadoes, Black Brigade, Miss Wing Dunsany.

FOURTH—Canter Belle, Mr. Melvin, Balkanese, Ruth Lerner, Dusky Devil, Bursting.

FIFTH—Goldun.

SIXTH—Lynx Eye.

EIGHTH—Justa Jimmie, Computer, High Explosion, Monologue, Flying Centaur.

NINTH—Declared off.

"Miss Marilyn" Wins Feature At Wheeling

Wheeling, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Mrs. J. Bronnenberg's Miss Marilyn, a 5 to 2 shot, captured the Variety Club cup race, a six and one-half furlong dash today at Wheeling Downs.

The winner broke the barrier in second place behind Reigh Tetrarch but assumed the lead at the first pole and never relinquished it.

The winner paid $8.40, $4.00, 4.20. The Wink, top favored in the betting, was second, paying $4.60 and $3.20. Lumjoy was third.

Arabian Myth, winner of the first paid $21.20, $24.80 and $7.80 and Taddy Bane taking the second race, paid $5.40, $3.40, $2.60. Linked in the daily double the two paid $168.20.

Other Victors:

Third: Darling Mary $14.60, $7.60, $5.80.

Fourth: Hiludur Queen, $18.20, $6.20, $2.60.

Sixth: Incendiary $35.40, $12, $11.80.

Seventh: Harry G, $7.40, $3.20, $2.60.

Jockeys Suspended

Jockey A. F. Martinez, who rode Miss Marilyn, was suspended for the balance of the season for rough riding coming out of the starting gate in the first race of the day. He will be permitted to ride horses which he has contracted for prior to the suspension however, which made him possible to ride in the fifth event.

Jockey J. Atkinson also was suspended for the balance of the meeting for "conduct detrimental to the best interests of racing." His case was referred to the state racing commission for such further action as they see fit to take.

Philadelphia Beats Detroit 5 to 4

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics won the series opener from the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 4, here today, scoring all their runs off the pitching of Schoolboy Rowe. Dixie Walker and Rudy York of Detroit hit home runs.

PUNK PLUG PICKER Alias Paddock Pete

In the money yesterday but not in enough to do any good—second and third. Talking about being in the mahogany, my subscriber, S.S.S., rolled and tossed in it with two wins for nine and sixteen dollars yesterday. Takes lots of 'oomph' to do that!

Carnage and Robespierre are a pair of over-due duds at Delaware Park. I'm trying to 'oomph' the two of 'em today. I hope they win, by George VI!

Three quarts,

Saddle Strap Sam's Postscript to P.P.

Dear P. P.:

I ain't bragging . . . just dragging!

If that guy who yelled "My Kingdom for a Horse!" knew anything he'd a looked up a bookie first. What good's a horse without a place to put a petunia or two on it!

I had four horses yesterday . . . two of them I'd a given to that guy who wanted a horse . . he could of had "Merry Gesture" and "Good Omen" yesterday . . . they ran in the soup can . . . Two of them won . . . "Jadaan" paid $9.50, $5.60 and 3.20 . . . "Pandonna" paid $16.60, 8.80 and $6.20.

Why ain't there no bookies??? the guys ask . . . Maybe somebody's been following our picks recently??? . . . Who knows!!!

What good's a horse without a bet on its beezer or thereabouts . . . would they be running the races without the mutuels?

What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander . . . I'll take mine with a little "horse's neck" on the side . . . or in front.

You may think I'm off my scale after that chord but, waxing musical, and for reasons not to be accounted for I'm singing with "Pagliacci." I know "Can't Wait" is the hot potato in the Aqueduct fourth and feature race but "Pagliacci" has a way of winning opening day features and once again I'm overboard hook, line and singer.

I like "Beau Fast" in the third and "Famous Clayton" in the seventh at Charles Town . . . What do you think . . . or will thinking do any good at Charles Town.

If you see "Oatsie B" going at Lincoln, get a load of it, and when "Ellen Baker" gets the nod at Detroit wake up and get aboard . . . whether it's today, tomorrow or next week.

Saddle Strap Sam.

Westvaco at Hyndman.
Cumberland at Lonaconing.

GAMES NEXT SUNDAY
Frostburg at Westvaco.
Cumberland at Midland.

Some unfinished business—the 12-inning 5-5 deadlock of Sunday, May 14, will be taken up by the Frostburg Merchants and Hyndman Eagles of the Bi-State Baseball League at Hyndman this afternoon at 5:15.

The league's executive council voted out regularly scheduled twilight games at a meeting last week, but with all Saturday dates filled until late in August it will be necessary for tie and postponed games to be played off during the early evening hours.

Hyndman also has a rained out contest with Midland to play within the next several weeks and must find a suitable mid-week date for this Sunday's engagement with Lonaconing. The game, carded for Hyndman, cannot be staged because a carnival booked for feature that town's Homecoming celebration next week will be setting up equipment on the Eagles' home field Sunday.

Today's clash will be in reality the fourth meeting between the Eagles and Frostburg. The Merchants leading the loop with five wins and two losses, topped Hyndman by 7-1 and 4-1 scores following the 5-5 affair. Bill Farrady's boys, incidentally, have copped four of their last five engagements.

The circuit's calendar calls for Hyndman to play at home again Saturday with Westvaco A. A. furnishing the opposition. In other games Saturday the Cumberland Colts will play at Lonaconing and Midland at Frostburg.

Raymond "Dizzy" Ambrose, ace of the Cumberland staff last season but signed by Midland this year, has been given an indefinite suspension by the Red Sox management for failing to report for the club's last three games.

Cumberland also turned in a contract for Franklin See of Ellerslie, Allegany High's all-conference first baseman, while Hyndman signed Pitcher John Wilson Reynolds, recently turned loose by the Colts and released Calvin Wilson of Bedford, Pa.

Frostburg went over the 20-player limit by forwarding contracts for Pitcher Bill Crane and Alton Nave, infielder and catcher, and only one of the two will be eligible for today's game at Hyndman.

Dun Lucky Sets Charles Town Track Record

Romney Royal and James Pal Repeat With Old Stand By

Smallest Daily Double of Meeting Brings only $8.80 Return

Charles Town, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—Ewart Johnson's Dun Lucky set a new mile and a quarter track record today, speeding home in the feature sixth race in 2.05 3-5 to bring his owner $800 and his backers $4.00 for their $2 winning tickets.

Dun Lucky, an even money favorite, stepped into the lead in the first sprint from the post and there wasn't a horse in the field fast enough to challenge his record-breaking pace.

Jinneal tried hard to catch him, and so did Happy Road, but the best they could do was to finish second and third respectively.

The smallest daily double of the meeting, $8.50, was paid on Fernbrake's victory in the second race and Stand By's in the third.

Stand By, a 13-year-old gelding owned by E. H. Titmus Jr., scored his second victory of the meeting by today's triumph. He covered the Charles Town course in the good time of 1.16 1-5.

The results:

FIRST—White Sweets, $8.40, $5.40, $4.40; Boulder Dam, $6.00, $3.60; Duchess Del, $5.20.

SECOND—Fernbrake, $4.00, $3.20, $2.40; Asterisk, $9.20, $5.80; Aster Princess, $2.60.

THIRD—Stand By, $3.60, $3.00, $2.60; Small Change, $4.00, $3.20; Tuleyries Star, $4.00.

FOURTH—National, $7.80, $4.60, $3.60; Centermarch, $5.40, $4.20; Radial, $18.20.

FIFTH—Romney Royal, $12.80, $6.60, $5.40; Lady Buck, $4.20, $3.20; Mad Foot $5.60.

SIXTH—Dun Lucky, $4.00, $2.60, $3.00; Jinneal, $9.40, $4.20; Happy Road, $4.40.

SEVENTH—James Pal, $7.20, $3.40, $2.60; Ivonia, $3.60, $2.80; Ladys Favor, $2.80.

EIGHTH—War Rumor, $14.40, $8.40, $5.80; Best Policy, $17.40, $10.00; Morvim, $5.60.

"Miss Marilyn" Wins Feature At Wheeling

Wheeling, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Mrs. J. Bronnenberg's Miss Marilyn, a 5 to 2 shot, captured the Variety Club cup race, a six and one-half furlong dash today at Wheeling Downs.

The winner broke the barrier in second place behind Reigh Tetrarch but assumed the lead at the first pole and never relinquished it.

The winner paid $8.40, $4.00, 4.20. The Wink, top favored in the betting, was second, paying $4.60 and $3.20. Lumjoy was third.

Arabian Myth, winner of the first paid $21.20, $24.80 and $7.80 and Taddy Bane taking the second race, paid $5.40, $3.40, $2.60. Linked in the daily double the two paid $168.20.

Other Victors:

Third: Darling Mary $14.60, $7.60, $5.80.

Fourth: Hiludur Queen, $18.20, $6.20, $2.60.

Sixth: Incendiary $35.40, $12, $11.80.

Seventh: Harry G, $7.40, $3.20, $2.60.

Jockeys Suspended

Jockey A. F. Martinez, who rode Miss Marilyn, was suspended for the balance of the season for rough riding coming out of the starting gate in the first race of the day. He will be permitted to ride horses which he has contracted for prior to the suspension however, which made him possible to ride in the fifth event.

Jockey J. Atkinson also was suspended for the balance of the meeting for "conduct detrimental to the best interests of racing." His case was referred to the state racing commission for such further action as they see fit to take.

Philadelphia Beats Detroit 5 to 4

In the money yesterday but not in enough to do any good—second and third. Talking about being in the mahogany, my subscriber, S.S.S., rolled and tossed in it with two wins for nine and sixteen dollars yesterday. Takes lots of 'oomph' to do that!

Carnage and Robespierre are a pair of over-due duds at Delaware Park. I'm trying to 'oomph' the two of 'em today. I hope they win, by George VI!

Saddle Strap Sam's Postscript to P.P.

Dear P. P.:

I ain't bragging . . . just dragging!

If that guy who yelled "My Kingdom for a Horse!" knew anything he'd a looked up a bookie first. What good's a horse without a place to put a petunia or two on it!

I had four horses yesterday . . . two of them I'd a given to that guy who wanted a horse . . he could of had "Merry Gesture" and "Good Omen" yesterday . . . they ran in the soup can . . . Two of them won . . . "Jadaan" paid $9.50, $5.60 and 3.20 . . . "Pandonna" paid $16.60, 8.80 and $6.20.

Why ain't there no bookies??? the guys ask . . . Maybe somebody's been following our picks recently??? . . . Who knows!!!

What good's a horse without a bet on its beezer or thereabouts . . . would they be running the races without the mutuels?

What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander . . . I'll take mine with a little "horse's neck" on the side . . . or in front.

You may think I'm off my scale after that chord but, waxing musical, and for reasons not to be accounted for I'm singing with "Pagliacci." I know "Can't Wait" is the hot potato in the Aqueduct fourth and feature race but "Pagliacci" has a way of winning opening day features and once again I'm overboard hook, line and singer.

I like "Beau Fast" in the third and "Famous Clayton" in the seventh at Charles Town . . . What do you think . . . or will thinking do any good at Charles Town.

If you see "Oatsie B" going at Lincoln, get a load of it, and when "Ellen Baker" gets the nod at Detroit wake up and get aboard . . . whether it's today, tomorrow or next week.

Saddle Strap Sam.

Some unfinished business—the 12-inning 5-5 deadlock of Sunday, May 14, will be taken up by the Frostburg Merchants and Hyndman Eagles of the Bi-State Baseball League at Hyndman this afternoon at 5:15.

The league's executive council voted out regularly scheduled twilight games at a meeting last week, but with all Saturday dates filled until late in August it will be necessary for tie and postponed games to be played off during the early evening hours.

Hyndman also has a rained out contest with Midland to play within the next several weeks and must find a suitable mid-week date for this Sunday's engagement with Lonaconing. The game, carded for Hyndman, cannot be staged because a carnival booked for feature that town's Homecoming celebration next week will be setting up equipment on the Eagles' home field Sunday.

Today's clash will be in reality the fourth meeting between the Eagles and Frostburg. The Merchants leading the loop with five wins and two losses, topped Hyndman by 7-1 and 4-1 scores following the 5-5 affair. Bill Farrady's boys, incidentally, have copped four of their last five engagements.

The circuit's calendar calls for Hyndman to play at home again Saturday with Westvaco A. A. furnishing the opposition. In other games Saturday the Cumberland Colts will play at Lonaconing and Midland at Frostburg.

Raymond "Dizzy" Ambrose, ace of the Cumberland staff last season but signed by Midland this year, has been given an indefinite suspension by the Red Sox management for failing to report for the club's last three games.

Cumberland also turned in a contract for Franklin See of Ellerslie, Allegany High's all-conference first baseman, while Hyndman signed Pitcher John Wilson Reynolds, recently turned loose by the Colts and released Calvin Wilson of Bedford, Pa.

Frostburg went over the 20-player limit by forwarding contracts for Pitcher Bill Crane and Alton Nave, infielder and catcher, and only one of the two will be eligible for today's game at Hyndman.

Stocks Advance Early in Day, but Final Prices at Close Are Mixed

Lessening of War Danger Seen as Reason for Advances

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Jupne 7 (AP)—Buying in some of the higher-priced issues moved the stock market forward another notch today.

The creeping advance showed a little speed in the forenoon, then slackered before the finish. Final prices were mixed but gains out weighed the losses.

Brokers said there were indications some investors who sold out in the March war scare were replacing their holdings in belief conditions in Europe had improved and business in this country would profit by the respite from the war alarms.

Hopes for improvement in business after mid-year mounted in some quarters. A rebound in automobile production was expected to help recovery in the current week. May chain store and mail order reports on the whole showed the best sales for the month in two years, analyhis noted.

But the stock market traders operated cautiously while they waited to see whether the list would not cut through the present "resistance area," as it was described by chart theorists.

Transactions slowed to 530,640 shares compared with 600,410 yesterday.

Up fractions to a point in the curb were Lockheed, American Airlines, American Cyanamid "B", American Gas & Electric and Gulf Oil. Turnover of 104,000 shares compared with 709,000 Tuesday.

Foreign Exchanges

New York, June 7 (AP)—A break in the Shanghai dollar caught the foreign exchange market off guard today.

Closing rates follow: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain 4.68 9-16; 60 day bills 4.67 11-16; Canada, Montreal in New York in Montreal 100.06¼; Belgium 17.03; Denmark 20.92; Finland 2.07; France 2.65⅛; Germany 40.12, Benevolent 20.75, Travel 23.50; Greece .85⅞; Italy 5.26¼; Netherlands 53.25; Japan 27.35; Hongkong 29.10; Shanghai 14.68.

Bonds Advance

New York, June 7. (AP)—The bond market worked selectively higher today despite backwardness of the government section and some hesitancy in recently favored utilities and industrials.

The government list was at no time under pressure, but the small offerings that trickled in were sufficient to depress prices. Bond men said the reverse was due more to the recent sharp runup than to any specific favor.

Total sales of $6,721,200 face value, compared with $7,091,100 the day before.

Chicago Grain Prices

Chicago, June 7 (AP) — Wheat futures gained nearly a cent a bushel today, but best prices were not held and the close was ⅜ off to ⅜ up. Trade was rather light.

Buying demand appeared to center in deferred deliveries and late in the session July contracts which had advanced ¾ cent at 76½, were reported sold against purchases of September, which reached 76⅜, up ⅞ cent, before feeling weight of offerings. July wheat closed ⅛-⅜ lower at 75½-⅝ and September ⅛-⅜ higher at 75¾-⅞.

Theatres Today

Romance, Adventure and Drama Are Blended In "Panama Lady"

Imbued with the exciting atmosphere of the jungle, RKO Radio's "Panama Lady," starting today at the Liberty Theatre, bring Lucille Ball as star and Allan Lane as its hero in the stormy romance of a cabaret entertainer and an adventurous oil prospector in the wilds of Panama.

Miss Ball as a dancer without means of returning to the States is in love with a flyer who makes a precarious living running guns and ammunition to tropic revolutionists, but he casts her off when she threatens to interefer with his personal safety. Desperate, she helps her former employer get a wandering oil prospector drunk. When the victom recovers, he raises a row, and the only way she can avoid going to jail is to accompany the prospector to his camp in the jungle as his housekeeper.

The girl agrees, hoping the flyer will soon come to rescue her. But unexpected happenings follow. A jealous native serving maid tries twice to poison her; she finds herself becoming interested in her "captor;" and when at last the aviator does arrives, though for a more sinister reason than she suspects, she has to make a dramatic choice between the two men, with exciting results.

"The Storm" and "Texas Stampede" Ends Run Today

"Trigger Smith" and "Million Dollar Ransom"

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy Theatre will be the double feature hit consisting of Jack Randall in the shooting, singing western hit "Trigger Smith". The second feature will be Herman Brix and Joan Barclay in "Million Dollar Ransom". In addition to the two feature hits there will be the last chapter of the serial "The Spider's Web" with an all star cast.

His Children Contrive To Restore Dad's Glory

How a shiftless, drink-loving father is led to regain his former eminence in the world through the scheming and the hero-worshipping of his two youngsters, forms the delightful theme of John Barrymore's new screen vehicle, "The Great Man Votes," now at the Garden Theatre.

Barrymore plays the part of the great man, a former scholar and educator of distinction, who has slid down the social scale until he is only a night-watchman, but, who, despite his drinking and his tarnished reputation, is still adored by his offspring. Vigorously defending their father at school, the two children manage to get him embroiled with the local political boss who, after having Barrymore fired from his job, finds he needs his vote for his party, and that without it he will lose his own profitable position.

Woman lawyer defends own husband against charge of murdering "the other woman"! Hot spot idol on trial for life! Successful Portia fails as wife! Throbbing ryhthms beat wildly to the tempestuous tempo of love-lashed lives!

Lanny Ross and Gloria Stuart are featured in Columbit's newest drama of three tangled lives, "The Lady Objects," now at the Garden Theatre.

DAGWOOD MEETS THE BOSS

So far as "Blondie" is concerned, man's place is in the home and the sooner husband Ragwood Bumstead learns it, the happier will be the Bumstead homestead. It's a scene from Columbia's "Blondie Meets the Boss," sequel to "Blondie," based on the Chic Young cartoon strip. Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake are featured in the film, opening Thursday at the Strand Theatre.

AT EMBASSY SUNDAY

Constance Bennett and Vincent Price in "Service De Luxe," the first run hit opening Sunday at the Embassy Theatre.

Bumsteads Make Sequel to "Blondie"

The sensational success of "Blondie" has led Columbia to produce a second film based upon the same loveable comic strip characters—the Bumsteads . . . Blondie, Dagwood and Baby Dumpling. This new film, "Blondie Meets the Boss," opening today at the Strand Theatre with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake again featured.

Said to be even funnier than its predecessor, 'Blondie Meets the Boss" opens a note characteristic with Dagwood; he is in difficulty with his boss. Blondie's efforts to save his job for him results only in her taking his place at the office. Dagwood is forced to stay home and do the housework. Ensuing events are climaxed by a jitterbug contest. Dagwood inadvertently wins the contest, but almost loses Blondie in the process.

Tomorrow evening at nine p. m., Billy Purl, the famous and popular comedian will stage his first "Jitterbug Contest." Twenty couples have already entered and the most popular couple at the finish of the contests will be awarded a trip to the New York World's Fair.

"Moulin Rouge Revue" Coming to Strand Sunday

Solly Childs brings his "Moulin Rouge Revue" to the Strand stage Sunday midnight and also Monday and Tuesday. This big company of thirty-five artists is guaranteed by the Strand management to be one of the best seen here this year.

The following is the list of the acts appearing:

Miss Elizabeth Graves, internationally famous dance artist who has played all the leading cities here in the United States and on the European Continent. She is well-known for her lovely creations and beautiful dances. Wells Bros. Trio, an outstanding aerial act that was a late feature of the Cole Bros. Circus. They are really sensational. Donley Sisters, a very clever sister team who present a very artistic Russian number and other novelties. Eleanor King, the unusual contortionist; Ruth Morgan, the military tapster; Lee Bishop and Madame Queen the most sensational dog act appearing on the stage.Queenie walks on the wire blindfolded and does countless other amazing tricks. She is almost human and will win your heart. Joe Kelso and Miss Shirley Lee; Mr. Kelso is an actor of world wide fame. An Australian who has toured the Orient, India, and Africa. He is a great magician, juggler, dancer and impersonator of actors of past and present renown. Miss Shirley Lee is the pert drum major and dancer with the lovely smile and twinkling toes. Bobbie Vail is one who is known for his Broadway successes and who pops in and out during the show and keeps the audience laughing. Raul and Rita, one of America's foremost dance teams. Direct from Hollywood successes. They have played in R. K. O. pictures and also played in George Raft's picture "Bolero". Also, Girls, Girls, Girls.

AT MARYLAND

James Stewart, Claudette Colbert in "It's a Wonderful World" the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, opening today at the Maryland Theatre, for a four day showing.

A bevy of beautiful girls from the deep south, glamorous, and talented. They present well-routined numbers, gorgeously costumed. Sollie Childs' stage band will furnish the music.

No Inferiority Complex For Claudette Colbert

Claudette Colbert's versatility has again been tested in "It's a Wonderful World," in which she currently appears on the Maryland screen with James Stewart.

Whether it has been comedy, drama, romance, farce, or satire, Miss Colbert has always been at home in her various roles. From the panoplied grandeurs of "Cleopatra" to the puritanical "Maid of Salem" or the care-free heroine of "It Happened One Night," wherewith she romped away with the Academy Award honors, Miss Colbert has demonstrated that, whatever the role or the period she was mistress of the situation.

Miss Colbert was christened Claudette, but her father by a curious process of "shortening," as he called it, renamed her Lily. She came to New York with her parents at the age of thirteen, and remained Lily Chauchoin until her first stage appearance. This came with a three line part in "The Wild Westcotts." Among her subsequent Broadway successes were "A Kiss in a Taxi," "The Barker," "Tin Pan Alley," "Dynamo" and "See Naples and Die."

Coming to pictures, she scored in a long list of hits, among them "The Sign of the Cross," "Three Cornered Moon," "Four Frightened People," "Cleopatra," "I Met Him In Paris," "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," "Zaza," and "Midnight."

Stocks Advance Early in Day, but Final Prices at Close Are Mixed

BY FREDERICK GARDNER

New York, Jupne 7 (AP)—Buying in some of the higher-priced issues moved the stock market forward another notch today.

The creeping advance showed a little speed in the forenoon, then slackered before the finish. Final prices were mixed but gains out weighed the losses.

Brokers said there were indications some investors who sold out in the March war scare were replacing their holdings in belief conditions in Europe had improved and business in this country would profit by the respite from the war alarms.

Hopes for improvement in business after mid-year mounted in some quarters. A rebound in automobile production was expected to help recovery in the current week. May chain store and mail order reports on the whole showed the best sales for the month in two years, analyhis noted.

But the stock market traders operated cautiously while they waited to see whether the list would not cut through the present "resistance area," as it was described by chart theorists.

Transactions slowed to 530,640 shares compared with 600,410 yesterday.

Up fractions to a point in the curb were Lockheed, American Airlines, American Cyanamid "B", American Gas & Electric and Gulf Oil. Turnover of 104,000 shares compared with 709,000 Tuesday.

Bonds Advance

New York, June 7. (AP)—The bond market worked selectively higher today despite backwardness of the government section and some hesitancy in recently favored utilities and industrials.

The government list was at no time under pressure, but the small offerings that trickled in were sufficient to depress prices. Bond men said the reverse was due more to the recent sharp runup than to any specific favor.

Total sales of $6,721,200 face value, compared with $7,091,100 the day before.

Chicago Grain Prices

Chicago, June 7 (AP) — Wheat futures gained nearly a cent a bushel today, but best prices were not held and the close was ⅝ off to ⅜ up. Trade was rather light.

Buying demand appeared to center in deferred deliveries and late in the session July contracts which had advanced ¾ cent at 76½, were reported sold against purchases of September, which reached 76⅜, up ⅞ cent, before feeling weight of offerings. July wheat closed ⅛-⅜ lower at 75½-⅝ and September ⅛-⅜ higher at 75⅜-⅝.

DAGWOOD MEETS THE BOSS

So far as "Blondie" is concerned, man's place is in the home and the sooner husband Ragwood Bumstead learns it, the happier will be the Bumstead homestead. It's a scene from Columbia's "Blondie Meets the Boss," sequel to "Blondie," based on the Chic Young cartoon strip. Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake are featured in the film, opening Thursday at the Strand Theatre.

Romance, Adventure and Drama Are Blended In "Panama Lady"

Imbued with the exciting atmosphere of the jungle, RKO Radio's "Panama Lady," starting today at the Liberty Theatre, bring Lucille Ball as star and Allan Lane as its hero in the stormy romance of a cabaret entertainer and an adventurous oil prospector in the wilds of Panama.

Miss Ball as a dancer without means of returning to the States is in love with a flyer who makes a precarious living running guns and ammunition to tropic revolutionists, but he casts her off when she threatens to interefer with his personal safety. Desperate, she helps ner former employer get a wandering oil prospector drunk. When the victom recovers, he raises a row, and the only way she can avoid going to jail is to accompany the prospector to his camp in the jungle as his housekeeper.

The girl agrees, hoping the flyer will soon come to rescue her. But unexpected happenings follow. A jealous native serving maid tries twice to poison her; she finds herself becoming interested in her "captor;" and when at last the aviator does arrives, though for a more sinister reason than she suspects, she has to make a dramatic choice between the two men, with exciting results.

"The Storm" and "Texas Stampede" Ends Run Today

"Trigger Smith" and "Million Dollar Ransom"

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy Theatre will be the double feature hit consisting of Jack Randall in the shooting, singing western hit "Trigger Smith". The second feature will be Herman Brix and Joan Barclay in "Million Dollar Ransom". In addition to the two feature hits there will be the last chapter of the serial "The Spider's Web" with an all star cast.

His Children Contrive To Restore Dad's Glory

How a shiftless, drink-loving father is led to regain his former eminence in the world through the scheming and the hero-worshipping of his two youngsters, forms the delightful theme of John Barrymore's new screen vehicle, "The Great Man Votes," now at the Garden Theatre.

Barrymore plays the part of the great man, a former scholar and educator of distinction, who has slid down the social scale until he is only a night-watchman, but, who, despite his drinking and his tarnished reputation, is still adored by his offspring. Vigorously defending their father at school, the two children manage to get him embroiled with the local political boss who, after having Barrymore fired from his job, finds he needs his vote for his party, and that without it he will lose his own profitable position.

Lanny Ross and Gloria Stuart are featured in Columbit's newest drama of three tangled lives, "The Lady Objects," now at the Garden Theatre.

AT EMBASSY SUNDAY

Constance Bennett and Vincent Price in "Service De Luxe," the first run hit opening Sunday at the Embassy Theatre.

Bumsteads Make Sequel to "Blondie"

The sensational success of "Blondie" has led Columbia to produce a second film based upon the same loveable comic strip characters—the Bumsteads . . . Blondie, Dagwood and Baby Dumpling This new film, "Blondie Meets the Boss," opening today at the Strand Theatre with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake again featured.

Said to be even funnier than its predecessor, 'Blondie Meets the Boss" opens a note characteristic with Dagwood; he is in difficulty with his boss, Blondie's efforts to save his job for him results only in her taking his place at the office. Dagwood is forced to stay home and do the housework. Ensuing events are climaxed by a jitterbug contest. Dagwood inadvertently wins the contest, but almost loses Blondie in the process.

Tomorrow evening at nine p. m., Billy Purl, the famous and popular comedian will stage his first "Jitterbug Contest." Twenty couples have already entered and the most popular couple at the finish of the contests will be awarded a trip to the New York World's Fair.

"Moulin Rouge Revue" Coming to Strand Sunday

Solly Childs brings his "Moulin Rouge Revue" to the Strand stage Sunday midnight and also Monday and Tuesday. This big company of thirty-five artists is guaranteed by the Strand management to be one of the best seen here this year.

The following is the list of the acts appearing:

Miss Elizabeth Graves, internationally famous dance artist who has played all the leading cities here in the United States and on the European Continent. She is well-known for her lovely creations and beautiful dances. Wells Bros. Trio, an outstanding aerial act that was a late feature of the Cole Bros. Circus. They are really sensational. Donley Sisters, a very clever sister team who present a very artistic Russian number and other novelties. Eleanor King, the unusual contortionist; Ruth Morgan, the military lapster; Lee Bishop and Madame Queen the most sensational dog act appearing on the stage.Queenie walks on the wire blindfolded and does countless other amazing tricks. She is almost human and will win your heart. Joe Kelso and Miss Shirley Lee; Mr. Kelso is an actor of world wide fame. An Australian who has toured the Orient, India, and Africa. He is a great magician, juggler, dancer and impersonator of actors of past and present renown. Miss Shirley Lee is the pert drum major and dancer with the lovely smile and twinkling toes. Bobbie Vail is one who is known for his Broadway successes and who pops in and out during the show and keeps the audience laughing. Raul and Rita, one of America's foremost dance teams. Direct from Hollywood successes. They have played in R. K. O. pictures and also played in George Raft's picture "Bolero". Also, Girls, Girls, Girls.

AT MARYLAND

James Stewart, Claudette Colbert in "It's a Wonderful World" the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, opening today at the Maryland Theatre, for a four day showing.

A bevy of beautiful girls from the deep south, glamorous, and talented. They present well-routined numbers, gorgeously costumed. Sollie Childs' stage band will furnish the music.

No Inferiority Complex For Claudette Colbert

Claudette Colbert's versatility has again been tested in "It's a Wonderful World," in which she currently appears on the Maryland screen with James Stewart.

Whether it has been comedy, drama, romance, farce, or satire, Miss Colbert has always been at home in her various roles. From the panoplied grandeurs of "Cleopatra" to the puritanical "Maid of Salem" or the care-free heroine of "It Happened One Night," wherewith she romped away with the Academy Award honors, Miss Colbert has demonstrated that, whatever the role or the period she was mistress of the situation.

Miss Colbert was christened Claudette, but her father by a curious process of "shortening," as he called it, renamed her Lily. She came to New York with her parents at the age of thirteen, and remained Lily Chauchoin until her first stage appearance. This came with a three line part in "The Wild Westcotts." Among her subsequent Broadway successes were "A Kiss in a Taxi," "The Barker," "Tin Pan Alley," "Dynamo" and "See Naples and Die."

Coming to pictures, she scored in a long list of hits, among them "The Sign of the Cross," "Three Cornered Moon," "Four Frightened People," "Cleopatra," "I Met Him In Paris," "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," "Zaza," and "Midnight."

Eleven Year Old Webster Springs, W. Va. Boy Burns To Death

Four Persons Are Injured in Early Morning Blaze

Clarence Sell Trapped in Burning Home after Collapse of Stairs

Webster Springs, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Eleven-year-old Clarence Sell died today when fire swept a suburban duplex home, injuring four persons and leaving seven others homeless.

Claude L. Sell, 38, the boy's father, Dana June Sell, a nine-month old daughter, and Cleo Harvey, 19, were taken to a Buckhannon hospital with serious burns.

Junior Harvey, 12, was burned but not severely.

Awakened at 1 a. m., the Harvey family roused the Sells on the upper floor, but the dwelling in Cherry Falls district was far gone in flames.

Sell rushed to the street and then discovered his son was not with him. He battled his way back through the fire and found the youth in a bedroom.

Sell picked up the boy and started out only to lose his clasp on the youth when a stairway collapsed beneath them.

The father fell through the flames and was rescued but the boy struck a landing and was trapped there.

The Harvey girl and the others injured were rushed to Buckhannon but attaches at the hospital said the girl could not live.

Seven other members of the two families reached safety unharmed after the alarm was given.

Fire Chief Lorraine Marsh said the cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

"Nationalists" Elect Speaker At Boys' State

Sunburned Delegate Holds up Message of "Governor" Wolfard

Jacksonas Mill, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—A sunburned "delegate" held up "Governor" Rodney Wolfard's message to the legislature of Boys State today—the uncomfortable member's vote was needed by the "Nationalists" to elect the speaker of the House.

With settlement of election contests in the American Legion's practical school in government for high school boys, the Nationalists and federalists found themselves tied at 20 seats each in the House of Delegates.

Parliamentary maneuvering brought about a deadlock in House organization. The Nationalists leaders staved off the appearance of the goverinor for fifteen minutes while they hurried the ailing delegate from the infirmary to cast his vote for Thomas Honaker of Beckley, who was declared the speaker.

In the Senate, the Nationalists held a clear-cut 13-7 majority in spite of two pending contests and had little trouble in naming Lee Barksdale of Charleston as president.

Wolfard, Huntington high school athlete, gave the law-makers an admnitration program with "economy as the watchword.

He sought exemption of basic foodstuff from the consumers sales tax, a wholesale tax reform, civil service for school teachers and employees of the department of public assistance, and elimination of the one-cent extra gasoline tax.

Included in the "governor's" recommendations were establishment of dental and pharmaceutical schools at West Virginia University, tax exemption for those lands under forestry department supervision and creation of a state advertising commission.

Free textbooks for all pupils through the eighth grade was a major gubernatorial aim.

The Nationalists also gained the clerkship of both chambers.

Frostburg Man Will Become a Priest Today

John Sleeman Will Be Ordained in Cathedrol at Baltimore

Frostburg, June 7. —The Rev. Mr. John Thomas Sleeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sleeman, 115 Mt. Pleasant street, this city, will be ordained to the holy priesthood Thursday, by the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, D. D., in the Cathedral of the Assumption, Baltimore, and will sing his first solemn high mass Sunday, June 11, at 10:30 a. m., in St. Michael's church, Frostburg. The senior choir will sing. Due to the fact that the Rev. Mr. Sleeman is a native son of the parish and a popular resident of the community, the service will undoubtedly be largely attended.

A reception will be held at the home of his parents Sunday from 8 to 10 p. m. He will sing a special mass for the children Monday morning at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. Sleeman received his education at St. Michael's parochial school, Frostburg; LaSalle Institute, Cumberland; St. Charles College, Catonsville, and St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore.

He will celebrate his first low mass in the convent of the Ursuline Sisters, Washington, D. C., next Friday morning.

Dahlgren Heads Alumni

Clyde R. Dahlgren, a member of Oakland high school faculty, was elected to serve as president of the State Teachers' Alumni Association of State Teachers' College, at Frostburg. He succeeds Frank J. Getty, principal of Grantsville high school.

In assuming his office, Mr. Dahlgren becomes the head of an alumni group now numbering more than 1300 members.

Noel Spier Cook, popular attorney of Frostburg and Cumberland, and attorney for the city of Lonaconing, becomes the new vice-president. Mr. Cook, who has always taken an active part in the affairs of Frostburg college, succeeds Miss Mary Hanson.

Miss Dorothy Thomas, a member of the Cresaptown school faculty, was elected to succeed Miss Athalia E. Everline as secretary of the association.

Miss Theresa B. Nicht, of Allegany high school faculty, was re-elected as treasurer for the current year.

The nominating committee, recently appointed by the retiring president, Mr. Getty, was comprised of Miss Ruby Dahlgren, Joseph Downey and Robert W. Jones.

Mrs. King Dies

Mrs. Cecelia Campbell King, 71, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Eckhart, died June 1 at 721 Armstrong street, Kansas City, Kan., where she resided for a half century. She was a native of England and came to Eckhart at the age of four and resided there sixteen years before going to Kansas. Funeral services were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's Catholic church of which she had been a member for fifty years.

Under the caption, "A Life of Motherhood," a Kansas City newspaper published a lengthy account of Mrs. King's life, a part of which is as follows:

"Although Mrs. King reared five children of her own, she found time to shelter fifteen others for periods of six months to ten years. About eight years after she was married, her next door neighbor, Mrs. R. Dennett, died, leading two small children. Mrs. King took them into her family. A short time later two other children were left orphans in the neighborhood. They, too, went to live at the King home "When her sister, Mrs. Peter Campbell, died, leaving three children, Mrs. King cared for them until they were old enough to make their own living. Then her niece, Mrs. Ralph Shook, died leaving four children. She mothered her niece's children until their father took them to Maryland to live."

Mrs. King was a sister of the late Mrs. Joseph Eberly of Frostburg.

Frostburg Briefs

Directors Are Re-elected by Cooperative

Hardy County Light and Power Group Holds It's Annual Meeting

Moorefield, June 7 — Elmer A. Kessel, John Parsons, Virgil Ely, H. L. Wise and Roy Bean were re-elected as the board of directors of the Hardy County Light and Power Association, Inc. at the annual stockholders meeting in the Hardy County Court house Tuesday morning.

Hess and Barton, contractors constructing the R.E.A. financed cooperative will complete the erection of the 150 mile project this week and are preparing to move their equipment out of the state.

At a meeting of the board of directors immediately following the stockholders meeting Elmer Kessel was reelected president for the ensuing year, H. L. Wise was re-elected vice-president, Roy Bean secretary and John Parsons treasurer.

Hansel Harper, superintendent of the cooperative reported on the progress and development of the association and the proposed plans for the future. Another twenty miles of line has been added to the project which goes into Pendleton county and a certificate of convenience and necessity has been granted by the West Virginia Public Service Commission. He particularly urged the members of the cooperative to buy and use only advertised standard electrical equipment in their homes and farms.

County Agent S. L. Dodd addressing the stockholders on cooperation gave an outline of rural electrification and education from the standpoint of his duties as a county agent.

Miss Susie Welton was appointed president of the new organization.

Want Cattle Returned

A special meeting of the Farm Bureau has been called for Thursday night to take steps to return the Reymann Memorial Farms pure bred herd of Ayershire cattle to Wardensville. A delegation will be selected to go before the state Board of Control to state the case.

The famous Reymann Memorial herd was moved to Morgantown after a fire destroyed the largest barn last year and the university authorities are making all efforts to keep the herd from being returned to Hardy county, in spite of the fact that the state legislature made a special appropriation of $13,000 to rebuild the barn.

A meeting was held in Wardensville last week which included State Senator J. A. Proctor, Delegate C. C. Heishman, S. C. Warden, Pete Baker, Joe Frye, and others to discuss what action to take in returning the herd to Wardensville.

Brief Items

Mrs. Arnold Garrett, Mathias, was granted a lease on the restaurant at the Lost River State Park for the 1939 season. The Conservation Commission erected a modern restaurant with every facility which will seat thirty-two persons. The restaurant opened today for service to the general public.

The swimming pool is under construction but there is some doubt whether it will be completed this summer.

Clerk C. C. Wise recorded the deed this week from the Gilkeson Sisters to the U. S. Government for nine acres near Old Fields, for the site of the proposed bass hatchery and growing ponds which will be erected by the Bureau of Fisheries.

Total receipts for the clerk's offices were $214.40 for the month of May of which $91.40 was for fees recording, $2 for guardian cases, $9 for marriage licenses, $2 other fees and $101 fishing and hunting licenses. There were forty-two resident state wide hunting and fishing licenses sold, seven one day tourist fishing licenses and two non-resident state wide fishing licenses.

C. C. Wise was appointed trustee

Five Indictments Are Returned by Tucker Jurymen

Petit Jurors Will Report to Judge at Parsons Monday

Parsons, W. Va., June 7. —The Tucker county grand jurors met here yesterday and returned five felony indictments. Petit jurors are to report Monday morning.

Two indictments were returned yesterday against Odford Stainaker, this city, on robbery charges. A. K. Helmick was indicted on a bad check charge; Wallace Waldron for robbery of a store at Pierce and Luther Phillips, this city, on a charge of manslaughter. Phillips was driver of a car which wrecked a few weeks ago, killing his brother.

The grand jurors also inspected the county jail here and approved it as clean and sanitary.

4-H Club Picnic

The county 4-H Club leaders met last night at the Horseshoe Forest camp, near Leadmine and supper was served on the grounds. About thirty were present. Miss Hazel Thomas, Davis, president of the organization, presided. Plans were discussed for the county camp which is to be held at the Horseshoe camp from July 24 to 29. An interesting talk was made by I. B. Boggs, State 4-H agent.

Brief Mention

Jimmy Plumb, 10, East Parsons, was the victim of a very odd accident yesterday. While playing near his home, he ran against a truck belonging to R. B. Daniels. He apparently failed to see the truck on the road and ran against it. Taken to the Tucker County hospital, an examination disclosed he suffered a broken collar bone and right arm in two places.

All members of the Parsons Womans Club are requested to attend a meeting of the club Friday night in their club headquarters. There will be a musical program in charge of the music committee, assisted by Mrs. Herman Lambert. Hostesses will be Mesdames D. Ralph Hansford, Elmer Ours, S. L. Coberly and B. F. Long.

Parsons will have no baseball team this summer, it was learned today. No grounds are available and Sunday ball playing has been banned here.

Relatives received word here today that Willie Fitzwater, former resident of Clover district, was ill at his home near Greenville, O.

Edward Bartkus of W. V. U., native of Thomas, was a visitor in this city yesterday.

Representatives are here in an effort to organize a Protective Home Circle, which has been organized in many of the larger cities of the nation.

Gillis-Healy Marriage Was Lovely Event

Ceremony Performed at Westernport by Rev. Victor Dowgiallo

Westernport, June 7—Miss Mildred A. Healy and Joseph Gillis were married this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Peter's church, Westernport, by the Rev. Victor Dowgiallo, assistant pastor. The Rev. F. A. Spiller, Parsons, assisted in the ceremony.

Mrs. Mary Dumas, Parsons, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and the bride's brother, Patrick. Healy, was best man.

Miss Mary Hannon played the wedding music and during the ceremony Miss Grace Plum, Keyser, sang "Ave Maria" and Emmet Haran sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother". A duet, "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy", was sung by Miss Plum and Mr. Haran.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast, with Mrs. M. F. O'Donnell, Miss Irene O'Donnell and Mrs. O. D. Collett assisting, was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Gillis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Healy, Piedmont, is a graduate of St. Peter's high school and attended Marshall college, Huntington, W. Va., and completed a technician's course at Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser. She is employed at Elkins, W. Va., in the Children's Bureau of the Department of Public Assistance.

Mr. Gillis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gillis, Parsons, is a graduate of Parsons high school and the Boyer Business college, Washington, D. C.

After a trip to the Eastern cities, the couple will reside in Parsons, where Mr. Gillis is in business.

Garden Party

The annual garden party of the Westernport-Luke Civic club will be held Thursday afternoon, from 2 to 4 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. E. J. Roberts, garden chairman.

The program, which will be presented on the lawn, will include a minuet and a parasol drill by pupils of Luke school; numbers by the Bruce high school quartet, composed of Victor Kalbaugh, Richard Pagenhardt, Keith Clark and Edward Fazenbaker; an accordion solo, Frank Roberts; and the crowning of the queen, June Michael, by pupils of Hammond Street school.

The public is invited to attend.

O'Rourke Graduates

John F. O'Rourke, Westernport, was graduated with honors from the School of Engineering of Johns Hopkins university at the commencement exercises Tuesday. His average was the highest in a class of fifty-one students.

A son of Mrs. Margaret O'Rourke, Westernport, he is a graduate of St. Peter's high school, class of 1928, where he also took a post graduate course. He was employed at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper plant for several years and attended Potomac State school,

Eleven Year Old Webster Springs, W. Va. Boy Burns To Death

Four Persons Are Injured in Early Morning Blaze

Clarence Sell Trapped in Burning Home after Collapse of Stairs

Webster Springs, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Eleven-year-old Clarence Sell died today when fire swept a suburban duplex home, injuring four persons and leaving seven others homeless.

Claude L. Sell, 38, the boy's father, Dana June Sell, a nine-month old daughter, and Cleo Harvey, 19, were taken to a Buckhannon hospital with serious burns.

Junior Harvey, 12, was burned but not severely.

Awakened at 1 a. m., the Harvey family roused the Sells on the upper floor, but the dwelling in Cherry Falls district was far gone in flames.

Sell rushed to the street and then discovered his son was not with him. He battled his way back through the fire and found the youth in a bedroom.

Sell picked up the boy and started out only to lose his clasp on the youth when a stairway collapsed beneath them.

The father fell through the flames and was rescued but the boy struck a landing and was trapped there.

The Harvey girl and the others injured were rushed to Buckhannon but attaches at the hospital said the girl could not live.

Seven other members of the two families reached safety unharmed after the alarm was given.

Fire Chief Lorraine Marsh said the cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

"Nationalists" Elect Speaker At Boys' State

Sunburned Delegate Holds up Message of "Governor" Wolfard

Jacksons Mill, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—A sunburned "delegate" held up "Governor" Rodney Wolfard's message to the legislature of Boys State today—the uncomfortable member's vote was needed by the "Nationalists" to elect the speaker of the House.

With settlement of election contests in the American Legion's practical school in government for high school boys, the Nationalists and federalists found themselves tied at 20 seats each in the House of Delegates.

Parliamentary maneuvering brought about a deadlock in House organization. The Nationalists leaders staved off the appearance of the goverinor for fifteen minutes while they hurried the ailing delegate from the infirmary to cast his vote for Thomas Honaker of Beckley, who was declared the speaker.

In the Senate, the Nationalists held a clear-cut 13-7 majority in spite of two pending contests and had little trouble in naming Lee Barksdale of Charleston as president.

Wolfard, Huntington high school athlete, gave the law-makers an administration program with "economy as the watchword.

He sought exemption of basic foodstuff from the consumers sales tax, a wholesale tax reform, civil service for school teachers and employees of the department of public assistance, and elimination of the one-cent extra gasoline tax.

Included in the "governor's" recommendations were establishment of dental and pharmaceutical schools at West Virginia University, tax exemption for those lands under forestry department supervision and creation of a state advertising commission.

Free textbooks for all pupils through the eighth grade was a major gubernatorial aim.

The Nationalists also gained the clerkship of both chambers.

John Sleeman Will Be Ordained in Cathedrol at Baltimore

Frostburg, June 7.—The Rev. Mr. John Thomas Sleeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sleeman, 115 Mt. Pleasant street, this city, will be ordained to the holy priesthood Thursday, by the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, D. D., in the Cathedral of the Assumption, Baltimore, and will sing his first solemn high mass Sunday, June 11, at 10:30 a. m., in St. Michael's church, Frostburg. The senior choir will sing. Due to the fact that the Rev. Mr. Sleeman is a native son of the parish and a popular resident of the community, the service will undoubtedly be largely attended.

A reception will be held at the home of his parents Sunday from 8 to 10 p. m. He will sing a special mass for the children Monday morning at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Mr. Sleeman received his education at St. Michael's parochial school, Frostburg; LaSalle Institute, Cumberland; St. Charles College, Catonsville, and St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore.

He will celebrate his first low mass in the convent of the Ursuline Sisters, Washington, D. C., next Friday morning.

Dahlgren Heads Alumni

Clyde R. Dahlgren, a member of Oakland high school faculty, was elected to serve as president of the State Teachers' Alumni Association of State Teachers' College, at Frostburg. He succeeds Frank J. Getty, principal of Grantsville high school.

In assuming his office, Mr. Dahlgren becomes the head of an alumni group now numbering more than 1300 members.

Noel Spier Cook, popular attorney of Frostburg and Cumberland, and attorney for the city of Lonaconing, becomes the new vice-president. Mr. Cook, who has always taken an active part in the affairs of Frostburg college, succeeds Miss Mary Hanson.

Miss Dorothy Thomas, a member of the Cresaptown school faculty, was elected to succeed Miss Athalia E. Everline as secretary of the association.

Miss Theresa B. Nicht, of Allegany high school faculty, was re-elected as treasurer for the current year.

Mrs. King Dies

Mrs. Cecelia Campbell King, 71, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Eckhart, died June 1 at 721 Armstrong street, Kansas City, Kan., where she resided for a half century. She was a native of England and came to Eckhart at the age of four and resided there sixteen years before going to Kansas. Funeral services were held Saturday morning at St. Mary's Catholic church of which she had been a member for fifty years.

Under the caption, "A Life of Motherhood," a Kansas City newspaper published a lengthy account of Mrs. King's life, a part of which is as follows:

"Although Mrs. King reared five children of her own, she found time to shelter fifteen others for periods of six months to ten years. About eight years after she was married, her next door neighbor, Mrs. R. Dennett, died, leading two small children. Mrs. King took them into her family. A short time later two other children were left orphans in the neighborhood. They, too, went to live at the King home "When her sister, Mrs. Peter Campbell, died, leaving three children, Mrs. King cared for them until they were old enough to make their own living. Then her niece, Mrs. Ralph Shook, died leaving four children. She mothered her niece's children until their father took them to Maryland to live."

Mrs. King was a sister of the late Mrs. Joseph Eberly of Frostburg.

Jimmy Plumb, 10, East Parsons, was the victim of a very odd accident yesterday. While playing near his home, he ran against a truck belonging to R. B. Daniels. He apparently failed to see the truck on the road and ran against it. Taken to the Tucker County hospital, an examination disclosed he suffered a broken collar bone and right arm in two places.

All members of the Parsons Womans Club are requested to attend a meeting of the club Friday night in their club headquarters. There will be a musical program in charge of the music committee, assisted by Mrs. Herman Lambert. Hostesses will be Mesdames D. Ralph Hansford, Elmer Ours, S. L. Coberly and B. F. Long.

Parsons will have no baseball team this summer, it was learned today. No grounds are available and Sunday ball playing has been banned here.

Relatives received word here today that Willie Fitzwater, former resident of Clover district, was ill at his home near Greenville, O.

Edward Bartkus of W. V. U., native of Thomas, was a visitor in this city yesterday.

Representatives are here in an effort to organize a Protective Home Circle, which has been organized in many of the larger cities of the nation.

Gillis-Healy Marriage Was Lovely Event

Ceremony Performed at Westernport by Rev. Victor Dowgiallo

Westernport, June 7—Miss Mildred A. Healy and Joseph Gillis were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Peter's church, Westernport, by the Rev. Victor Dowgiallo, assistant pastor. The Rev. F. A. Spiller, Parsons, assisted in the ceremony.

Mrs. Mary Dumas, Parsons, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and the bride's brother, Patrick. Healy, was best man.

Miss Mary Hannon played the wedding music and during the ceremony Miss Grace Plum, Keyser, sang "Ave Maria" and Emmet Haran sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother". A duet, "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy", was sung by Miss Plum and Mr. Haran.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast, with Mrs. M. F. O'Donnell, Miss Irene O'Donnell and Mrs. O. D. Collett assisting, was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Gillis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Healy, Piedmont, is a graduate of St. Peter's high school and attended Marshall college, Huntington, W. Va., and completed a technician's course at Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser. She is employed at Elkins, W. Va., in the Children's Bureau of the Department of Public Assistance.

Mr. Gillis, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gillis, Parsons, is a graduate of Parsons high school and the Boyer Business college, Washington, D. C.

After a trip to the Eastern cities, the couple will reside in Parsons, where Mr. Gillis is in business.

Garden Party

The annual garden party of the Westernport-Luke Civic club will be held Thursday afternoon, from 2 to 4 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. E. J. Roberts, garden chairman.

The program, which will be presented on the lawn, will include a minuet and a parasol drill by pupils of Luke school; numbers by the Bruce high school quartet, composed of Victor Kalbaugh, Richard Pagenhardt, Keith Clark and Edward Fazenbaker; an accordion solo, Frank Roberts; and the crowning of the queen, June Michael, by pupils of Hammond Street school.

The public is invited to attend.

O'Rourke Graduates

John F. O'Rourke, Westernport, was graduated with honors from the School of Engineering of Johns Hopkins university at the commencement exercises Tuesday. His average was the highest in a class of fifty-one students.

A son of Mrs. Margaret O'Rourke, Westernport, he is a graduate of St. Peter's high school, class of 1928, where he also took a post graduate course. He was employed at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper plant for several years and attended Potomac State school,

Miss Sliger and Dr. Coffman Wed At Keyser, W.Va.

Ceremony Performed at Trinity Church by The Rev. C. K. Spiggle

Keyser, W. Va., June 7—This afternoon at 3:30 Miss Mary Evelyn Sliger and Dr. Robert Thornhill Coffman were married at Trinity Lutheran church here by the Rev. C. K. Spiggle, the Lutheran ring ceremony being used.

Lockard Conley, Baltimore, presiding at the organ, played the wedding march. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Genevieve Garrett Nilan, Hurricane, W. Va., former head of the Potomac State School department of music, sang "At Dawning," "Beloved, It Is Morning," and "O Promise Me."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Harry A. Sliger. She wore a white satin dress with a train, and a long tulle veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, with an orchid in the center.

Mrs. Richard A. Sliger, Frederick, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a dress of blue marquisette and a blue hat, and carried an arm bouquet of daisies.

The bridesmaids — Mrs. George Perdew, Cumberland, sister of the groom; Miss Harriet Kuykendall, Berkeley Springs, and Dr. Betty Bess—wore dresses of pink, chartreuse and yellow marquisette, and carried arm bouquets of daisies. Barbara Stanhagen, cousin of the bride was flower girl. She wore pink organdy.

The best man was William E. Coffman, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were the bride's brother, Arnold T. Sliger, and Dr. Fuller Whitworth and Dr. Harry M. Beck, both of Baltimore.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for the bridal party, relatives and close friends was given at the home of Mrs. Coffman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sliger on Water street.

Mrs. Coffman is a graduate of Keyser high school and Potomac State school, and is a member of Eta Upsilon Gamma sorority.

Dr. Coffman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Coffman, Keyser, is a graduate of Keyser high school, Potomac State School, and the Medical School of the University of Maryland.

After a honeymoon trip the couple will reside at 209 West Madison street, Baltimore, while Dr. Coffman completes his interne work at the University of Maryland.

Out of town guests at the wedding today were: Dr. Edward Prezinski, Dr. Louis Jannarone, and Mrs. Clinton Clinedist, Baltimore; Mrs. Charles Fleckenstein, Morgan-town: Richard A. Sliger, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Grove, Frederick; Mrs. R. E. Sliger, Grantsville; Mr. and Mrs. George Sliger, Mrs. Clarence Rhodes, and Mrs. Blanche Reese, Westernport; Miss Nellie Thrasher, and George Davis, Piedmont; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Smallwood, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Young, and Mrs. William Stolle, Berryville, Va.; Mrs. Anna Doak and Miss Frances Doak, Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Arnold, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Arnold, Jr., Towson; Mrs. Edward Trumpler, and Miss Marsue Trumpler, Govans; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davis, Covington, Va., and Mrs. Elmer Dakan, Jr., Bridgeport.

Brief News Items

W. Byron Kesner, Keyser, brought to town yesterday a live chicken-hawk with a wing spread of thirty-six inches, that he stunned with a rock when he saw it in a tree along the road.

Kesner said the hawk was in the tree with its back to the road—route 46 on Cabin Run Ridge, about five miles east of here. He stopped his car and threw a rock which clipped the fowl on the back of the head, according to his story, and when it fell from the tree he tied it up and brought it to Keyser.

Kesner said he gave the hawk, which had completely regained consciousness when he got to town, to a boy for a pet. The bird was apparently unharmed, he said.

The anonymous "Cheerio," conductor of a Sunday night radio program broadcast from New York and Harrison Isles, whose orchestra is featured on the program, spent last night in Keyser at Isles' home on Spring street.

The two are en route to San Francisco, where the program will be broadcast for the next three months.

Miss Jane Ann Hutton, Baltimore, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ethelynd Hutton.

Fourth Annual Strawberry Fete Gets under Way

Mary Louise Thorn of Clarksburg Will Be Crowned Queen

Buckhannon, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—The strawberry country dressed up in party clothes tonight for the fourth annual festival honoring one of Central West Virginia's important crops.

Hundreds crowded Buckhannon streets and went to the horse show which formally signalized the opening of the two-day celebration.

Comely Mary Louise Thorn of Clarksburg and her attractive princesses were among the early arrivals.

Tomorrow Mary Louise will receive the crown and diadem of the fourth strawberry queen in impressive ceremonies.

Russell Westfall, the area's leading strawberry producer will share the throne as king of the festival.

Just before the coronation, a thousand school children from the four cooperating counties—Harrison, Upshur, Barbour and Lewis—will march in review before the "royalty."

Secretary of State William S. O'Brien, Commissioner of Agriculture, J. B. McLaughlin, Road Commissioner Burr H. Simpson, Representative Andrew Edmiston and other officials will be present at the coronation.

The first afternoon will be given over to a contest to determine the champion fiddler of the central area. The winners later will play for a square dance.

The climax of the celebration is scheduled for Friday. It is the presentation of an outdoor pageant, "The Magic World," under the direction of Perce Ross.

Queen Mary Lou IV and her maids of honor, Elizabeth Law of Jane Lew and Virginia Snider of Salem, will share honors tomorrow night at the queen's ball.

Mrs. Margaret Thomas, Bowery street. Miss Thomas will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Nellie Lee and Miss Mary Patterson.

Train Kills One Man And Injures Another

Bluefield, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Charles Helmandollar, 60-year-old tinner who was found unconscious today beside the body of a companion on the railroad tracks near Tazewell, Va., was given an even chance to recover by physicians.

Investigators expressed the opinion that Helmandollar and Will Cox, 60, farm laborer, were struck by a Norfolk and Western train.

Dr. P. E. Johnson estimated Cox had been dead since midnight.

Bossy Has Right To Roam Streets In Durbin

Durbin, W. Va., June 7 (AP) — If cows want to roam Durbin's streets, they've the town's approval.

Citizens voted down a proposal that all livestock owners confine their cattle. Said a voter:

"Those cows have been roaming around the streets here for as long as I can remember, and I don't see any sense in penning them up now."

Eight Workmen Hurt When Gas Line Blows Up

E. D. Taylor, of Dunbar, W.Va. Suffers Compound Fracture of Skull

South Charleston, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—One workman suffered possibly fatal injuries and seven others also were hurt today when a valve cap was blown from the end of a new gas line when it was tested with compressed air.

E. C. Skeen, assistant fire chief who witnessed the accident, said all the men were "blown out of the" three-foot deep ditch about sixty feet from the municipal fire station. The mishap occurred at 3 p. m.

E. D. Taylor, 52-year-old Dunbar resident suffered a compound fractured skull when the cap struck him on the back of the head. Dr. R. H. Dunn said Taylor's chances for recovery were "very slim."

Only one other workman was kept in the hospital after treatment for injuries. He was Cecil Finney, 31, of Dunbar, who suffered "brush burns" on the back.

Dr. Dunn said the men were employes of the big Two-Mile Gas Company.

The other injured men, who were treated for bruises, lacerations and shock, were:

Dana Wallace, 24, of Hurricane; H. R. Chaney, 32, of Hurricane; D. L. Shepard, 44, of Charleston; Leonard Moss, 24, of St. Albans; J. B. Taylor, 24, of Dunbar, son of E. D. Taylor; and O. T. Sinnett, 46 of Highlawn.

Skeen said he was watching the men "run an air test on the gas line" when the accident occurred.

"It shot the cap off the end of the pipe like a cannon" the assistant fire chief reported. "It went about 300 feet. I had an ambulance called and we put the men into it and rushed them to the hospital."

The gas line was being laid under U. S. Route 60, the main highway between Charleston and Huntington, which runs through south Charleston.

Parkersburg Police Officer Is Dismissed

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—Acting Police Chief C. W. Hylbert announced the dismissal of Patrolman J. Gordon Williams for failure to "cooperate" in the investigation of the robbery of the police headquarters safe.

On April 24 William G. Albright, merchant, left $726 in the strongbox for safe keeping over the week-end.

When he called for the money, it was missing from the unlocked safe.

A few days later, officers followed directions given in a note which a policeman said he found tacked to his front door and recovered about $500 of the money on a side road near Mineral Wells.

Hylbert declined at that time to identify the officer.

Yesterday, in making public Williams' discharge, the chief said Williams had reported finding the note.

Miss Sliger and Dr. Coffman Wed At Keyser, W.Va.

Ceremony Performed at Trinity Church by The Rev. C. K. Spiggle

Keyser, W. Va., June 7—This afternoon at 3:30 Miss Mary Evelyn Sliger and Dr. Robert Thornhill Coffman were married at Trinity Lutheran church here by the Rev. C. K. Spiggle, the Lutheran ring ceremony being used.

Lockard Conley, Baltimore, presiding at the organ, played the wedding march. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Genevieve Garrett Nilan, Hurricane, W. Va., former head of the Potomac State School department of music, sang "At Dawning," "Beloved, It Is Morning," and "O Promise Me."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Harry A. Sliger. She wore a white satin dress with a train, and a long tulle veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, with an orchid in the center.

Mrs. Richard A. Sliger, Frederick, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a dress of blue marquisette and a blue hat, and carried an arm bouquet of daisies.

The bridesmaids — Mrs. George Perdew, Cumberland, sister of the groom; Miss Harriet Kuykendall, Berkeley Springs, and Dr. Betty Bess—wore dresses of pink, chartreuse and yellow marquisette, and carried arm bouquets of daisies. Barbara Stanhagen, cousin of the bride was flower girl. She wore pink organdy.

The best man was William E. Coffman, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were the bride's brother, Arnold T. Sliger, and Dr. Fuller Whitworth and Dr. Harry M. Beck, both of Baltimore.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for the bridal party, relatives and close friends was given at the home of Mrs. Coffman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sliger on Water street.

Mrs. Coffman is a graduate of Keyser high school and Potomac State school, and is a member of Eta Upsilon Gamma sorority.

Dr. Coffman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Coffman, Keyser, is a graduate of Keyser high school, Potomac State School, and the Medical School of the University of Maryland.

After a honeymoon trip the couple will reside at 209 West Madison street, Baltimore, while Dr. Coffman completes his interne work at the University of Maryland.

Out of town guests at the wedding today were: Dr. Edward Prezinski, Dr. Louis Jannarone, and Mrs. Clinton Clinedist, Baltimore; Mrs. Charles Fleckenstein, Morgantown; Richard A. Sliger, and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Grove, Frederick; Mrs. R. E. Sliger, Grantsville; Mr. and Mrs. George Sliger, Mrs. Clarence Rhodes, and Mrs. Blanche Reese, Westernport; Miss Nellie Thrasher, and George Davis, Piedmont; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Smallwood, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Young, and Mrs. William Stolle, Berryville, Va.; Mrs. Anna Doak and Miss Frances Doak, Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Arnold, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Arnold, Jr., Towson; Mrs. Edward Trumpler, and Miss Marsue Trumpler, Govans; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davis, Covington, Va., and Mrs. Elmer Dakan, Jr., Bridgeport.

Brief News Items

W. Byron Kesner, Keyser, brought to town yesterday a live chickenhawk with a wing spread of thirty-six inches, that he stunned with a rock when he saw it in a tree along the road.

Kesner said the hawk was in the tree with its back to the road—route 46 on Cabin Run Ridge, about five miles east of here. He stopped his car and threw a rock which clipped the fowl on the back of the head, according to his story, and when it fell from the tree he tied it up and brought it to Keyser.

Kesner said he gave the hawk, which had completely regained consciousness when he got to town, to a boy for a pet. The bird was apparently unharmed, he said.

The anonymous "Cheerio," conductor of a Sunday night radio program broadcast from New York and Harrison Isles, whose orchestra is featured on the program, spent last night in Keyser at Isles' home on Spring street.

The two are en route to San Francisco, where the program will be broadcast for the next three months.

Miss Jane Ann Hutton, Baltimore, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ethelynd Hutton.

Mary Louise Thorn of Clarksburg Will Be Crowned Queen

Buckhannon, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—The strawberry country dressed up in party clothes tonight for the fourth annual festival honoring one of Central West Virginia's important crops.

Hundreds crowded Buckhannon streets and went to the horse show which formally signalized the opening of the two-day celebration.

Comely Mary Louise Thorn of Clarksburg and her attractive princesses were among the early arrivals.

Tomorrow Mary Louise will receive the crown and diadem of the fourth strawberry queen in impressive ceremonies.

Russell Westfall, the area's leading strawberry producer will share the throne as king of the festival.

Just before the coronation, a thousand school children from the four cooperating counties—Harrison, Upshur, Barbour and Lewis—will march in review before the "royalty."

Secretary of State William S. O'Brien, Commissioner of Agriculture, J. B. McLaughlin, Road Commissioner Burr H. Simpson, Representative Andrew Edmiston and other officials will be present at the coronation.

The first afternoon will be given over to a contest to determine the champion fiddler of the central area. The winners later will play for a square dance.

The climax of the celebration is scheduled for Friday. It is the presentation of an outdoor pageant, "The Magic World," under the direction of Perce Ross.

Queen Mary Lou IV and her maids of honor, Elizabeth Law of Jane Lew and Virginia Snider of Salem, will share honors tomorrow night at the queen's ball.

Train Kills One Man And Injures Another

Bluefield, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—Charles Helmandollar, 60-year-old tinner who was found unconscious today beside the body of a companion on the railroad tracks near Tazewell, Va., was given an even chance to recover by physicians.

Investigators expressed the opinion that Helmandollar and Will Cox, 60, farm laborer, were struck by a Norfolk and Western train.

Dr. P. E. Johnson estimated Cox had been dead since midnight.

Helmandollar suffered a fractured skull.

Bossy Has Right To Roam Streets In Durbin

Durbin, W. Va., June 7 (AP) — If cows want to roam Durbin's streets, they've the town's approval.

Citizens voted down a proposal that all livestock owners confine their cattle. Said a voter:

"Those cows have been roaming around the streets here for as long as I can remember, and I don't see any sense in penning them up now."

Eight Workmen Hurt When Gas Line Blows Up

E. D. Taylor, of Dunbar, W.Va. Suffers Compound Fracture of Skull

South Charleston, W. Va., June 7. (AP)—One workman suffered possibly fatal injuries and seven others also were hurt today when a valve cap was blown from the end of a new gas line when it was tested with compressed air.

E. C. Skeen, assistant fire chief who witnessed the accident, said all the men were "blown out of the" three-foot deep ditch about sixty feet from the municipal fire station. The mishap occurred at 3 p. m.

E. D. Taylor, 52-year-old Dunbar resident suffered a compound fractured skull when the cap struck him on the back of the head. Dr. R. H. Dunn said Taylor's chances for recovery were "very slim."

Only one other workman was kept in the hospital after treatment for injuries. He was Cecil Finney, 31, of Dunbar, who suffered "brush burns" on the back.

Dr. Dunn said the men were employes of the big Two-Mile Gas Company.

The other injured men, who were treated for bruises, lacerations and shock, were:

Dana Wallace, 24, of Hurricane; H. R. Chaney, 32, of Hurricane; D. L. Shepard, 44, of Charleston; Leonard Moss, 24, of St. Albans; J. B. Taylor, 24, of Dunbar, son of E. D. Taylor; and O. T. Sinnett, 46 of Highlawn.

Skeen said he was watching the men "run an air test on the gas line" when the accident occurred.

"It shot the cap off the end of the pipe like a cannon" the assistant fire chief reported. "It went about 300 feet. I had an ambulance called and we put the men into it and rushed them to the hospital."

The gas line was being laid under U. S. Route 60, the main highway between Charleston and Huntington, which runs through south Charleston.

Parkersburg Police Officer Is Dismissed

Parkersburg, W. Va., June 7 (AP)—Acting Police Chief C. W. Hylbert announced the dismissal of Patrolman J. Gordon Williams for failure to "cooperate" in the investigation of the robbery of the police headquarters safe.

On April 24 William G. Albright, merchant, left $726 in the strongbox for safe keeping over the weekend.

When he called for the money, it was missing from the unlocked safe.

A few days later, officers followed directions given in a note which a policeman said he found tacked to his front door and recovered about $500 of the money on a side road near Mineral Wells.

Hylbert declined at that time to identify the officer.

Yesterday, in making public Williams' discharge, the chief said Williams had reported finding the note.

Frostburg Gunmen Grab $200 in Daylight Raid

Red-Head Thugs Hit Eagles Safe In Daring Swoop

Ordered Up Drinks, Then Pulled Guns, Custodian Relates

Police were searching today for two young bandits who netted nearly $200 from a daring daylight robbery at the Eagles home in Frostburg yesterday.

The two men forced Joseph Elrick, steward at the club, to open the safe at gunpoint and hand over receipts amounting to more than $170, Frostburg Police Chief Benjamin H. Thomas reported last night.

After taking the money, the bandits backed out of the room, backed down the stairs, keeping Elrick covered, and then fled, Chief Thomas said. Whether they fled in an automobile or on foot remained unknown.

Bandits Red-Headed

Elrick described the two men as about 28 years old, about five feet, nine inches tall, and of medium build. They were bare-headed.

The custodian said they walked into the club shortly after 1 p. m. and ordered drinks, one a whiskey, and the other a beer. As the custodian set the drinks before them, he noticed they had slipped dark masks over their eyes, he told reporters.

Then, one of them suddenly whipped out a gun and ordered, "Open the safe."

Elrick said he opened the safe, and the men ordered him to hand over a leather money bag containing about $170 in currency and coins.

Keeping him covered, they backed out of the place, he went on.

Messenger Sent for Chief

He then ran to the phone and called City Hall. Clerk Roland A. Lammert answered the phone and sent a messenger for Chief Thomas, who arrived at the scene a scant ten minutes later. He was subsequently joined in the investigation by Officers Hugh Duncan and Walter Eichhorn.

After obtaining a description of the bandits, Chief Thomas called the LaVale sub-station of the State Police, which broadcast a look-out for the men.

Elrick declared the men were "total strangers" to him. "But I'd recognize 'em if I saw 'em again," he added.

The men made no effort to obtain the money in the cash register, Elrick said, taking only what was in the safe.

Door Wide Open

The headquarters of Frostburg Aerie, 1273, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is on the second floor of a building at the corner of East Main and Uhl streets, with entrance on Uhl street. Because of the warm day, the downstairs door, usually kept closed, was open, and the men walked right in. No one was in the club except Elrick.

Police said an attempt had been made to burglarize the club about six weeks ago, but the would-be burglanrs apparently were frightened off. Holes had been bored in the street door in an apparent effort to remove a panel and slip the night-latch, but the job was not finished.

Costly Modern X-Ray Apparatus Installed by Memorial Hospital

Memorial hospital can now x-ray fat patients just as well as the slender variety.

X-raying the stouter patients was not so easy before the hospital installed its new $6,000 apparatus. Now it just takes a little longer.

The new apparatus has just been put into operation, and replaces a piece of equipment sixteen years old, and the progress of x-ray technique has been great in those sixteen years.

Bought with Bazaar Funds

The apparatus was purchased with funds raised by the gala bazaar put on last November by the hospital auxiliary and a large portion of the citizenry.

The new high-powered equipment is of the latest design, and entirely electric shock proof, Harvey H. Weiss, hospital superintendent, declared.

It is already in use, and to hear one of the nurse technicians tell about it, it operates about as simply as a $2 box camera. Only it didn't seem that simple to reporters.

The principle is the same as photography. A negative fourteen by seventeen inches is slipped into place under the patient, the x-rays turned on for a brief flash, and then the nurse takes her negative and ducks into the dark room.

Readable in Ten Minutes

In ten minutes, if it is an emergency case, the x-ray picture can be read. Ordinarily, doctors wait until the plates are dry to read them at their leisure.

The apparatus has three main uses. One is the taking of x-ray pictures to aid in making diagnosis or determining method of treatment. The pictures show, of course, broken bones, foreign obstructions, and numerous organic abnormalities.

Special preparations, including feeding the patient certain metallic salts, are necessary to make readable x-ray pictures of body organs.

Treat Skin Diseases

The second chief use is for fluroscopic examination, which shows, for example, the process of specially prepared foods through the system. The purpose here is also to obtain a diagnosis.

The third chief use is curative rather than diagnostic. X-rays transmitted by the new apparatus can also be used in treating a number of skin diseases.

Hospital authorities seem very proud of the new piece of equipment. Not only can they work faster, but more efficiently and handle the more difficult type of work required, they believe.

The apparatus was manufactured in Covington, Ky.

Queen City Lodge Elects New Officers

Aaron Wood last night was elected chancellor commander of the Queen City Lodge No. 136, Knights of Pythias.

Other officers elected were Lamar Minnicks, vice-chancellor; Frank J. Davis, prelate; Edward Crist, master-at-arms; John C. Fisher, master of work; Eugene E. Dyche, keeper of records and seal; Nelson W. Russler, master of finance; August F. Weltman, master of exchequer; William W. Shoemaker, inner guard; and Harry E. Chase, outer guard.

Frank J. Davis was elected as delegate to the grand lodge in September in Baltimore and Walter E. Kline, alternate.

Leroy Snyder Named To Playground Post

Leroy Snyder was reelected president of the Gephart Playground Association at a meeting last night at the Gephart school.

Other officers named were Nelson T. Warren, vice-president; A. J. Kompaneck, treasurer; and Mrs. Earl F. Bittinger, secretary.

Plans were discussed for a festival and amateur contest at the playground Friday night, June 23. The committee in charge headed by W. J. Cubbage, is to make final arrangements for the affair at a meeting Monday night.

DeMolay Alumni Party

Cumberland's DeMolay Alumni group will hold a stag party tomorrow at 6:15 p. m., at the home of Myron Landis, on Bedford road.

Creditor Dismisses Receivership Petition Against Pottery Firm

Dismissal of an equity petition asking a receivership for the Mt. Savage Refractories Company at Ellerslie was noted yesterday in Circuit court.

The dismissal order was entered by Estel C. Kelley, attorney for James H. Thompson, after "satisfactory settlement" of Mr. Thompson's claim of $186.45 against the firm.

Fire in Sawdust Couldn't Wait

A fire which wouldn't wait for firemen to extinguish it was listed as a "false alarm" last night by South End firemen.

The firemen were summoned to Maryland avenue and Spring street at 6 p. m., when some one pulled Box 614. But when they arrived, there was no fire to be seen anywhere—not even any suspicious-looking smoke. Bystanders told them that sawdust had ignited on a truck but was extinguished by the driver, who then drove off.

Playground Meeting

The North End Playground Association will hold an open meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Columbia Street school. Plans for various social events will be discussed.

Vets To Attend State Meeting

Senator Lee To Speak At VFW Encampment

United States Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, will be one of the principal speakers at the annual state encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, June 16-18, at Hagerstown, which will be attended by a large delegation from Henry Hart Post No. 1411, of Cumberland, and its auxiliary.

The drum corps of the Cumberland post will participate in the colorful parade on Saturday, June 17, which is scheduled as one of the features of the three-day program. Drum corps from all over the state will take part in the parade and will vie for trophies which will be awarded to the crack outfits.

Headquarters for the affair will be the Hotel Alexander, Hagerstown, with State Commander Charles J. Peters presiding at the meetings. Veterans from nearby towns in Pennsylvania and West Virginia will attend the sessions.

Senator Lee, who served as a buck private in the World war and who is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and a number of similar groups, will speak at the convention banquet on Saturday evening.

The encampment will elect officers, and an entertainment program is being arranged for the visitors by committees from the Hagerstown post.

Austin G. Snyder Heads Bus Drivers Union Here

Austin B. Snyder has been elected the new president of Local No. 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, it was announced yesterday.

Other officers elected who participated in a banquet Tuesday night at the Hotel Gunter, Frostburg, were: Jack Lochner, vice-president; Elton Cornelius, financial secretary and treasurer; Edward McKee, recording secretary; Edward Geary, warden; Robert Magruder, conductor; and Burr Powell, Paul Burley and John Downall, members of the executive board.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

The News said yesterday that Edgar M. Lewis, chief clerk of the Cumberland Trial Magistrate's court, would go to Hagerstown for a meeting of the police association. The News erred.

It was no fault of the News, however. Clerk Lewis happened to drop into his office on the way to the meeting, saw all the work that ought to be done, and cancelled his trip.

— o —

We have just attended the review, revue, and seevue of bathing beauties at Celanese pool, and luckily enough we escaped falling in the water.

We would like to give our women readers a graphic description of what the girls are wearing this season, but darn it, somehow we can't seem to remember.

We could write a lot about what they weren't wearing, however.

There was quite a crowd out to see the show, and quite a traffic jam, but what's a traffic jam at a bathing beauty show?

The girls, we might add, were very, very attractive, and no matter what the suit styles are, curves seem to be the thing.

We noticed that blondes were rather scarce amidst this array of Cumberland pulchritude. Maybe we weren't noticing, but we can't remember seeing one out-and-out blonde in the parade.

— o —

A number of our readers, who have peaked in on the excavations for the new McCrory building have been worrying lately for fear the steam shovel there will dig such a deep hole that they won't be able to get it out again and will have to build the building around it.

Maybe so. We belong among those absent-minded persons who paint themselves into corners, etc, but nevertheless we went up yesterday afternoon to give Mr. Vandegrift our advice. We looked the situation over and can tell our readers not to worry too much about that steam shovel. It looks now like they'll be able to get it out all right.

Celanese Machinists Hold Union Smoker

Approximately 75 members of the Mountain City Lodge, Local 1140, Celanese Machinists, last night held a smoker at the Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Paul W. England, vice-president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor and secretary of the machinists local, made a report last night to the members present.

Members enjoyed a social evening, refreshments, and a boxing match that wound up in a draw.

Councilmen Tell How They Stand On Port Issue

Mayor and Conlon Strongly Favor It; Others Cautious

Cumberland's proposed modern municipal airport still remained a burning issue at City Hall yesterday with Mayor Thomas W. Koon and Commissioner Thomas F. Conlon coming out in favor of the project and Commissioners Irvine, Edwards, and Reynolds adopting an ear-to-the-ground policy.

Meanwhile, members of the city airport commission and the Chamber of Commerce airport committee met yesterday, endorsed the project, and set about gathering facts and figures to lay before the Mayor and City Council as arguments in favor of the project.

Mayor Strong for Port

"We need an airport," Mayor Koon declared yesterday at City Hall." Any city without an airport in five or ten years will be like a city without a railroad today.

"We must find jobs for WPA men this winter and we might as well get something we absolutely need.

"The excuse has been offered, 'we have no money.' That excuse has always been made when we went out for any improvement.

"Now understand, I'm not in favor of continuing WPA indefinitely. But as long as we are obliged to have it and other cities are obliged to have it, we should use it for the good of the city."

U. S. Pays Lion's Share

Mayor Koon stated that the city would be obliged to pay around fifteen or twenty percent of the cost of building an airport. The government would pay the balance, he said.

The mayor declared that the city would certainly build such a port eventually, so why not build it when it could take advantage of a government which stands willing to shoulder around eighty per cent of the cost.

Interviewed at his store at 300 Pulaski street last night, Commissioner Harry Irvine declared, "When Cumberland needs an airport she'll get it the same as she's gotten everything else that she needed.

Irvine Questions Cost

"But when the mayor proposed taking the $100,000 flood bonds for it, the city attorney told him that he couldn't do it. We don't know how much this sort of a job would cost, but I'll tell you one thing, if Ralph Rizer (city engineer) says it will cost $20,000 you can be sure that it will cost at least $40,000."

Mr. Irvine, with a white grocer's apron wrapped around him, then leaned on his counter and declared that "it looks to me as if Harold Smith and the Chamber of Commerce are trying to put me on the spot. Smith is getting $3,000 a year to boost the Chamber and I'm getting $1,200 to protect the taxpayers. And I intend to do it.

Raps News Paper

"And here's something else for you to print. I can't understand the inconsistency of the Cumberland News, which raps Roosevelt five days of the week for spending so much money and then on the sixth day comes out and advocates holding him up for an air port. I just can't figure it out."

Commissioner Irvine stated that "they are trying to hurt me politically and make out that I'm against labor. That is not so and it never has been so and I'm against putting folks on starvation rations the way some have been. They want to see 'Smoke' out of there."

"Let Uncle Sam Do It"

"Another thing I can't see is why they should hide behind WPA on this business," said Irvine. "Supposing they do build an airport. What are they going to do with WPA after that? We would still have the same problem. And if they start such a project, will the 400 furloughed B. & O. men get a chance to work on it? Or will anybody paying taxes get on it?

"If Uncle Sam wants that airport so bad why don't he just go ahead and put it in. And if those airline concerns want an airport why don't they put it in just the same way as railroads build their own depots when they need one.

"It Just Won't Work"

"The fact remains that we don't know anything about this business. We haven't the slightest idea how much it would cost to begin with, and we don't have the slightest idea where the money would come from to build it. Everyday, we get bills for this and bills for that and somebody has to pay them. And we can't keep on floating bonds forever. It just won't work out."

Commissioner Conlon stated yesterday that an airport "would be a good thing for the city. We should have an airport. It would cost money but anything that's good costs money.

Conlon All For It

"I think the boys acted a little hastily the other day, although I do feel that a further investigation should be made and that we should know the cost of such a project. If we hook up with the CAA and the State of West Virginia, on the matter it ought to work out fine."

Asked what he thought about the matter, Commissioner Edgar Reynolds replied quietly that "I have always been strong for airports, in fact, I was connected with one during the war, but you can't go plunging into a thing like this without asking yourself some questions.

Reynolds Asks Questions

"How much is it going to cost? And if we ever find that out, where are we going to get the money to actually pay our share of the cost? And as everybody knows, we have roads that should be taken care of just as soon as possible.

"And then too, what about the Savage River Dam job. We need that too."

When asked about the airport question, Commissioner William Edwards thought for a minute and then stated gravely, "I am deeply interested in seeing Cumberland keep abreast with other progressive cities in our country.

Edwards Cautious

"I realize, too, that the unemployment situation is a matter for serious consideration; in fact, is a problem too great for the Mayor and City Council to solve, but before I vote to obligate the property owners of Cumberland for the purchase and maintenance of an airport, I must know the approximate cost, how the money can be provided to meet the cost, and what assurance we could have that the project would be an asset rather than a liability to the city.

"If an airport can be constructed and maintained without additional burden to our taxpayers, then I'm for it."

Swim Suit Revue Reveals the Mode, Reveals 27 Beautiful Models, Too

Modern swim suits, play suits, and figures were displayed last night under the spotlights at the Celanese pool, as some of Cumberland's prettiest models paraded up and down the boardwalks to the applause of an overflow crowd.

The show was Rosenbaum's sixth annual beach-wear revue, and will be repeated tonight at 8 o'clock, with the Celanese band under the direction of Thomas Powers as an added attraction.

Twenty-seven girls displayed exactly 108 garments, ranging from strapless bathing suits to play suits which might as well be bathing suits.

Featured, of course, were the two-piece suits (and no longer does a two-piece bathing suit mean one with a modest little skirt), but the one-piece models predominated and were practically as revealing.

A commentator explained the various styles, fabrics, and weaves. Some of the audience seemed to be noting such things and some didn't.

The bathing beauties, naturally, didn't go near the water, but entertainment in the pool was provided while the models made quick changes in the bath house.

George Seymour, 10-year-old swimmer who is getting himself quite a reputation, demonstrated his fast crawl. So, too, did two shapely young mermaids, Wilda Lovenstein and Jean McDonough.

William Taylor, Allegany high senior, and Thomas Hopwood gave a diving exhibition, and George Seymour made a swan dive. Thomas Hopwood won an innertube race, and Wilma Lovenstein won a balloon shoving contest.

Cresaptown Sportsmen To Dredge Trout Runs

The Cresaptown Square Circle Unit last night met at Fireman's Hall, Cresaptown, where a program was mapped out to improve hunting and fishinug conditions in the Cresaptown and Rawlings areas.

According to the plan devised by the members, Warrior Run and Mill Run will be dredged and prepared for trout planting next fall and spring. H. M. Armstrong, president, had charge of the meeting, and Ira McKenzie, J. Wesley Kelley and Joseph M. Minke, spoke.

'Story of Nursing Story of Mercy'

Priest Tells Graduates Of Their High Purpose

"You are entering a honored and respected profession and undertaking a grave responsibility," members of the graduating class of the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing were told last night at their commencement exercises at St. Patrick's Catholic church.

The Rev. Francis J. McKeown, assistant pastor of the host church, was the speaker. He told the ten young nurses that theirs was a wonderful achievement and congratulations were in order.

"But," he added, "your achievement in completing a difficult course of study would be meaningless and the congratulations empty were it not for your high purpose. "That high purpose is to relieve the sufferings of mankind."

"It is not enough to look back to Florence Nightingale," he went on. "It is necessary to see and appreciate the ideals behind her life."

It is important, too, he said, that the nurses know the background of their profession, its history of service, unfailing allegiance to duty, and self-sacrifice.

"The story of nursing is the story of mercy," de declared.

Urging them to live up to the high ideals of their profession, he said they might join that illustrious group of "shining examples of service to others whose names are written indelibly on the pages of history and enshrined in the hearts of mankind."

The Rev. Father Boniface, O. M. Cap., presided at the exercises and presented the diplomas. The Rev. Father Hardesty was deacon of the exposition at the benediction.

Pennsylvanians To Visit Ohr Lodge Tonight

Nose Bleeding Fatal to Farmer In Hospital

Knobley Man Dies After Emergency Trip from Home

A 60-year-old Knobley Mountain orchardist and farmer was dead today because he failed to obey his physician's orders.

Doctors said that Walter Ridgeley bled to death yesterday evening after he had extracted a pack from his nose that they had placed there to stem bleeding which had been almost continuous for more than three days.

He was rushed by ambulance to Allegany hospital shortly before 6 o'clock, but died about ten minutes after his arrival.

Profuse nose bleeding developed several days ago, physicians reported, but no proper remedial measures were taken until Tuesday. Then, a doctor was summoned, who packed the nose to stop the bleeding.

Mr. Ridgeley refused to allow the pack to remain, however. The nose was packed once more, but the patient again removed the pack and lost considerable blood before the physician was called late yesterday afternoon.

Medical assistance had been summoned too late, however, and Mr. Ridgeley was in a dying condition as he was taken to the hospital. A blood vessel in the nose had been ruptured.

Doctors said the bleeding was probably due to high blood pressure.

Mr. Ridgeley was a son of the late Alfred and Annie Adams Ridgeley.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ida M. Ridgeley, and several children.

The body will remain at Wolford's funeral home, pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Sheridan Means

Mrs. Mary Magdalene Means, wife of Sheridan Means, died Tuesday night at her home at Barrellville after an illness of several months. She was 62.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two daughters, Mrs. George Schetrompf, of Mapletos Depot, Pa., and Mrs. Warren McCleary, of Allegany Grove; a son Wiley Means, at home; and four brothers, Harry E. Meyer, of Carnegie, Pa.; James Meyer, of Turtle Creek, Pa.; and Austin and Robert Meyer, of Rockwood, Pa.

Miller Re-Named PTA President

Columbia St. School Plans Annual Picnic

Herman J. Miller last night was reelected president of the Columbia Street School Parent-Teacher Association, after which some 150 members laid plans for the next school year.

Other officers elected at last night's meeting were Robert Morton, vice-president; Mrs. Lewis Baker, reelected treasurer; and Mrs. John E. Lancaster, secretary.

Final arrangements were made last night for the annual school picnic which will be held Tuesday, June 13, at the Celanese picnic grounds.

President Miller stated last night that the group will again promote a vaudeville show next year for the purpose of raising funds to supply shoes for needy children. The first show of this nature was held this year and was a great success, officers said.

The members last night voted to send Miss Catherine E. Thomas, third grade teacher, to the summer conference for PTA groups which will be held at Towson, Md., the week of June 25.

After attending the meetings, which will be held on the State Teachers College campus, Miss Thomas will give a detailed report to the Cumberland PTA group advising them of any new ideas presented at the summer meeting.

Following last night's business meeting, an entertainment program was given featuring a violin solo by Chester Valentine, accompanied by Mrs. Chester Valentine; songs by Kirk Beckwith and his Harmony Four; and a clog dance by Dick Stein.

Frederick Street School To Give Operetta Friday

The operetta, "Rumpelstiltzkin," will be presented Friday at 8 p. m. at Frederick Street school by forty boys and girls from the first four grades.

Solos will be sung by Jeannetta Lee, Pearline Washington, Alice Darr and Ronald Darr. The scenery, including a windmill and several castles and palaces, is being made by pupils in the industrial arts department.

Frostburg Gunmen Grab $200 in Daylight Raid

Red-Head Thugs Hit Eagles Safe In Daring Swoop

Ordered Up Drinks, Then Pulled Guns, Custodian Relates

Police were searching today for two young bandits who netted nearly $200 from a daring daylight robbery at the Eagles home in Frostburg yesterday.

The two men forced Joseph Elrick, steward at the club, to open the safe at gunpoint and hand over receipts amounting to more than $170, Frostburg Police Chief Benjamin H. Thomas reported last night.

After taking the money, the bandits backed out of the room, backed down the stairs, keeping Elrick covered, and then fled, Chief Thomas said. Whether they fled in an automobile or on foot remained unknown.

Bandits Red-Headed

Elrick described the two men as about 28 years old, about five feet, nine inches tall, and of medium build. They were bare-headed.

The custodian said they walked into the club shortly after 1 p. m. and ordered drinks, one a whiskey, and the other a beer. As the custodian set the drinks before them, he noticed they had slipped dark masks over their eyes, he told reporters.

Then, one of them suddenly whipped out a gun and ordered, "Open the safe."

Elrick said he opened the safe, and the men ordered him to hand over a leather money bag containing about $170 in currency and coins.

Keeping him covered, they backed out of the place, he went on.

Messenger Sent for Chief

He then ran to the phone and called City Hall. Clerk Roland A. Lammert answered the phone and sent a messenger for Chief Thomas, who arrived at the scene a scant ten minutes later. He was subsequently joined in the investigation by Officers Hugh Duncan and Walter Eichhorn.

After obtaining a description of the bandits, Chief Thomas called the LaVale sub-station of the State Police, which broadcast a look-out for the men.

Elrick declared the men were "total strangers" to him. "But I'd recognize 'em if I saw 'em again," he added.

The men made no effort to obtain the money in the cash register, Elrick said, taking only what was in the safe.

Door Wide Open

The headquarters of Frostburg Aerie, 1273, Fraternal Order of Eagles, is on the second floor of a building at the corner of East Main and Uhl streets, with entrance on Uhl street. Because of the warm day, the downstairs door, usually kept closed, was open, and the men walked right in. No one was in the club except Elrick.

Police said an attempt had been made to burglarize the club about six weeks ago, but the would-be burglanrs apparently were frightened off. Holes had been bored in the street door in an apparent effort to remove a panel and slip the night-latch, but the job was not finished.

Costly Modern X-Ray Apparatus Installed by Memorial Hospital

Memorial hospital can now x-ray fat patients just as well as the slender variety.

X-raying the stouter patients was not so easy before the hospital installed its new $6,000 apparatus. Now it just takes a little longer.

The new apparatus has just been put into operation, and replaces a piece of equipment sixteen years old, and the progress of x-ray technique has been great in those sixteen years.

Bought with Bazaar Funds

The apparatus was purchased with funds raised by the gala bazaar put on last November by the hospital auxiliary and a large portion of the citizenry.

The new high-powered equipment is of the latest design, and entirely electric shock proof, Harvey H. Weiss, hospital superintendent, declared.

It is already in use, and to hear one of the nurse technicians tell about it, it operates about as simply as a $2 box camera. Only it didn't seem that simple to reporters.

The principle is the same as photography. A negative fourteen by seventeen inches is slipped into place under the patient, the x-rays turned on for a brief flash, and then the nurse takes her negative and ducks into the dark room.

Readable in Ten Minutes

In ten minutes, if it is an emergency case, the x-ray picture can be read. Ordinarily, doctors wait until the plates are dry to read them at their leisure.

The apparatus has three main uses. One is the taking of x-ray pictures to aid in making diagnosis or determining method of treatment. The pictures show, of course, broken bones, foreign obstructions, and numerous organic abnormalities.

Special preparations, including feeding the patient certain metallic salts, are necessary to make readable x-ray pictures of body organs.

Treat Skin Diseases

The second chief use is for fluroscopic examination, which shows, for example, the process of specially prepared foods through the system. The purpose here is also to obtain a diagnosis.

The third chief use is curative rather than diagnostic. X-rays transmitted by the new apparatus can also be used in treating a number of skin diseases.

Hospital authorities seem very proud of the new piece of equipment. Not only can they work faster, but more efficiently and handle the more difficult type of work required, they believe.

The apparatus was manufactured in Covington, Ky.

Aaron Wood Wins K. of P. Honor

Queen City Lodge Elects New Officers

Aaron Wood last night was elected chancellor commander of the Queen City Lodge No. 136, Knights of Pythias.

Other officers elected were Lamar Minnicks, vice-chancellor; Frank J. Davis, prelate; Edward Crist, master-at-arms; John C. Fisher, master of work; Eugene E. Dyche, keeper of records and seal; Nelson W. Russler, master of finance; August F. Weltman, master of exchequer; William W. Shoemaker, inner guard; and Harry E. Chase, outer guard.

Frank J. Davis was elected as delegate to the grand lodge in September in Baltimore and Walter E. Kline, alternate.

Leroy Snyder Named To Playground Post

Leroy Snyder was reelected president of the Gephart Playground Association at a meeting last night at the Gephart school.

Other officers named were Nelson T. Warren, vice-president; A. J. Kompaneck, treasurer; and Mrs. Earl F. Bittinger, secretary.

Plans were discussed for a festival and amateur contest at the playground Friday night, June 23. The committee in charge headed by W. J. Cubbage, is to make final arrangements for the affair at a meeting Monday night.

Creditor Dismisses Receivership Petition Against Pottery Firm

Dismissal of an equity petition asking a receivership for the Mt. Savage Refractories Company at Ellerslie was noted yesterday in Circuit court.

The dismissal order was entered by Estel C. Kelley, attorney for James H. Thompson, after "satisfactory settlement" of Mr. Thompson's claim of $186.45 against the firm.

Fire in Sawdust Couldn't Wait

A fire which wouldn't wait for firemen to extinguish it was listed as a "false alarm" last night by South End firemen.

The firemen were summoned to Maryland avenue and Spring street at 6 p. m., when some one pulled Box 614. But when they arrived, there was no fire to be seen anywhere—not even any suspicious-looking smoke. Bystanders told them that sawdust had ignited on a truck but was extinguished by the driver, who then drove off.

Playground Meeting

The North End Playground Association will hold an open meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Columbia Street school. Plans for various social events will be discussed.

Vets To Attend State Meeting

Senator Lee To Speak At VFW Encampment

United States Senator Josh Lee, of Oklahoma, will be one of the principal speakers at the annual state encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, June 16-18, at Hagerstown, which will be attended by a large delegation from Henry Hart Post No. 1411, of Cumberland, and its auxiliary.

The drum corps of the Cumberland post will participate in the colorful parade on Saturday, June 17, which is scheduled as one of the features of the three-day program. Drum corps from all over the state will take part in the parade and will vie for trophies which will be awarded to the crack outfits.

Headquarters for the affair will be the Hotel Alexander, Hagerstown, with State Commander Charles J. Peters presiding at the meetings. Veterans from nearby towns in Pennsylvania and West Virginia will attend the sessions.

Senator Lee, who served as a buck private in the World war and who is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and a number of similar groups, will speak at the convention banquet on Saturday evening.

The encampment will elect officers, and an entertainment program is being arranged for the visitors by committees from the Hagerstown post.

Austin G. Snyder Heads Bus Drivers Union Here

Austin B. Snyder has been elected the new president of Local No. 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, it was announced yesterday.

Other officers elected who participated in a banquet Tuesday night at the Hotel Gunter, Frostburg, were: Jack Lochner, vice-president; Elton Cornelius, financial secretary and treasurer; Edward McKee, recording secretary; Edward Geary, warden; Robert Magruder, conductor; and Burr Powell, Paul Burley and John Downall, members of the executive board.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

The News said yesterday that Edgar M. Lewis, chief clerk of the Cumberland Trial Magistrate's court, would go to Hagerstown for a meeting of the police association. The News erred.

It was no fault of the News, however, Clerk Lewis happened to drop into his office on the way to the meeting, saw all the work that ought to be done, and cancelled his trip.

On a hot day like yesterday, Mr. Lewis was indeed a conscientious public servant. He's especially busy right now getting the clerical details of the new Trial Magistrate's court system straightened out.

We have just attended the review, revue, and seevue of bathing beauties at Celanese pool, and luckly enough we escaped falling in the water.

We would like to give our women readers a graphic description of what the girls are wearing this season, but darn it, somehow we can't seem to remember.

We could write a lot about what they weren't wearing, however.

There was quite a crowd out to see the show, and quite a traffic jam, but what's a traffic jam at a bathing beauty show?

The girls, we might add, were very, very attractive, and no matter what the suit styles are, curves seem to be the thing.

We noticed that blondes were rather scarce amidst this array of Cumberland pulchritude. Maybe we weren't noticing, but we can't remember seeing one out-and-out blonde in the parade.

— o —

A number of our readers, who have peaked in on the excavations for the new McCrory building have been worrying lately for fear the steam shovel there will dig such a deep hole that they won't be able to get it out again and will have to build the building around it.

Maybe so. We belong among those absent-minded persons who paint themselves into corners, etc, but nevertheless we went up yesterday afternoon to give Mr. Vandegrift our advice. We looked the situation over and can tell our readers not to worry too much about that steam shovel. It looks now like they'll be able to get it out all right.

Celanese Machinists Hold Union Smoker

Approximately 75 members of the Mountain City Lodge, Local 1140, Celanese Machinists, last night held a smoker at the Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Paul W. England, vice-president of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor and secretary of the machinists local, made a report last night to the members present.

Members enjoyed a social evening, refreshments, and a boxing match that wound up in a draw.

Mayor and Conlon Strongly Favor It; Others Cautious

Cumberland's proposed modern municipal airport still remained a burning issue at City Hall yesterday with Mayor Thomas W. Koon and Commissioner Thomas F. Conlon coming out in favor of the project and Commissioners Irvine, Edwards, and Reynolds adopting an ear-to-the-ground policy.

Meanwhile, members of the city airport commission and the Chamber of Commerce airport committee met yesterday, endorsed the project, and set about gathering facts and figures to lay before the Mayor and City Council as arguments in favor of the project.

Mayor Strong for Port

"We need an airport," Mayor Koon declared yesterday at City Hall." Any city without an airport in five or ten years will be like a city without a railroad today.

"We must find jobs for WPA men this winter and we might as well get something we absolutely need.

"The excuse has been offered, 'we have no money.' That excuse has always been made when we went out for any improvement.

"Now understand, I'm not in favor of continuing WPA indefinitely. But as long as we are obliged to have it and other cities are obliged to have it, we should use it for the good of the city."

U. S. Pays Lion's Share

Mayor Koon stated that the city would be obliged to pay around fifteen or twenty percent of the cost of building an airport. The government would pay the balance, he said.

The mayor declared that the city would certainly build such a port eventually, so why not build it when it could take advantage of a government which stands willing to shoulder around eighty per cent of the cost.

'Story of Nursing Story of Mercy'

Priest Tells Graduates Of Their High Purpose

"You are entering a honored and respected profession and undertaking a grave responsibility," members of the graduating class of the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing were told last night at their commencement exercises at St. Patrick's Catholic church.

The Rev. Francis J. McKeown, assistant pastor of the host church, was the speaker. He told the ten young nurses that theirs was a wonderful achievement and congratulations were in order.

"But," he added, "your achievement in completing a difficult course of study would be meaningless and the congratulations empty were it not for your high purpose.

"That high purpose is to relieve the sufferings of mankind."

"It is not enough to look back to Florence Nightingale," he went on. "It is necessary to see and appreciate the ideals behind her life."

It is important, too, he said, that the nurses know the background of their profession, its history of service, unfailing allegiance to duty, and self-sacrifice.

"The story of nursing is the story of mercy," de declared.

Urging them to live up to the high ideals of their profession, he said they might join that illustrious group of "shining examples of service to others whose names are written indelibly on the pages of history and enshrined in the hearts of mankind."

The Rev. Father Boniface, O. M. Cap., presided at the exercises and presented the diplomas. The Rev. Father Hardesty was deacon of the exposition at the benediction.

Nose Bleeding Fatal to Farmer In Hospital

Knobley Man Dies After Emergency Trip from Home

A 60-year-old Knobley Mountain orchardist and farmer was dead today because he failed to obey his physician's orders.

Doctors said that Walter Ridgeley bled to death yesterday evening after he had extracted a pack from his nose that they had placed there to stem bleeding which had been almost continuous for more than three days.

He was rushed by ambulance to Allegany hospital shortly before 6 o'clock, but died about ten minutes after his arrival.

Profuse nose bleeding developed several days ago, physicians reported, but no proper remedial measures were taken until Tuesday. Then, a doctor was summoned, who packed the nose to stop the bleeding.

Mr. Ridgeley refused to allow the pack to remain, however. The nose was packed once more, but the patient again removed the pack and lost considerable blood before the physician was called late yesterday afternoon.

Medical assistance had been summoned too late, however, and Mr. Ridgeley was in a dying condition as he was taken to the hospital. A blood vessel in the nose had been ruptured.

Doctors said the bleeding was probably due to high blood pressure.

Mr. Ridgeley was a son of the late Alfred and Annie Adams Ridgeley.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ida M. Ridgeley, and several children.

The body will remain at Wolford's funeral home, pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Sheridan Means

Mrs. Mary Magdalene Means, wife of Sheridan Means, died Tuesday night at her home at Barrellville after an illness of several months. She was 62.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are two daughters, Mrs. George Schetrompf, of Mapleton Depot, Pa., and Mrs. Warren McCleary, of Allegany Grove; a son Wiley Means, at home; and four brothers, Harry E. Meyer, of Carnegie, Pa.; James Meyer, of Turtle Creek, Pa.; and Austin and Robert Meyer, of Rockwood, Pa.

Miller Re-Named PTA President

Columbia St. School Plans Annual Picnic

Herman J. Miller last night was reelected president of the Columbia Street School Parent-Teacher Association, after which some 150 members laid plans for the next school year.

Other officers elected at last night's meeting were Robert Morton, vice-president; Mrs. Lewis Baker, reelected treasurer; and Mrs. John E. Lancaster, secretary.

Final arrangements were made last night for the annual school picnic which will be held Tuesday, June 13, at the Celanese picnic grounds.

President Miller stated last night that the group will again promote a vaudeville show next year for the purpose of raising funds to supply shoes for needy children. The first show of this nature was held this year and was a great success, officers said.

The members last night voted to send Miss Catherine E. Thomas, third grade teacher, to the summer conference for PTA groups which will be held at Towson, Md., the week of June 25.

After attending the meetings which will be held on the State Teachers College campus, Miss Thomas will give a detailed report to the Cumberland PTA group advising them of any new ideas presented at the summer meeting.

Following last night's business meeting, an entertainment program was given featuring a violin solo by Chester Valentine, accompanied by Mrs. Chester Valentine; songs by Kirk Beckwith and his Harmony Four; and a clog dance by Dick Stein.

Frederick Street School To Give Operetta Friday

The operetta, "Rumpelstiltzkin," will be presented Friday at 8 p. m. at Frederick Street school by forty boys and girls from the first four grades.

Solos will be sung by Jeannetta Lee, Pearline Washington, Alice Darr and Ronald Darr. The scenery, including a windmill and several castles and palaces, is being made by pupils in the industrial arts department.
